ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

This report is a result of the project scheme and guidelines formulated by the Central Pollution Control Board and the initiative of the West Bengal Pollution Control Board. Credit for the successful completion of the project goes entirely to the project team and others who have contributed directly or indirectly in the execution of the project and in the preparation of the project report.

The West Bengal Pollution Control Board would like to gratefully acknowledge the efforts of Society for Direct Initiative for Social & Health Action (DISHA), Kolkata in conducting the project: Bio-medical Waste : Inventory and Status of Management in West Bengal and for preparing the report.

The State Board would also like to convey its gratitude to the concerned persons of the Government Hospitals / Health Centres, Private Nursing Homes / Healthcare establishments, various organizations and agencies who have extended their whole hearted cooperation and provided valuable inputs in making the project successful and meaningful.

The immense contribution of Professor Shyamal Kanti Sanyal, Advisor of the State Board and Ex-Vice Chancellor of Jadavpur University by providing technical help and guidance in executing the project is also highly acknowledged.

The project could never have been successfully executed without the untiring efforts of Dr. Dipak Chakraborty, Chief Scientist, Dr. T. K. Gupta, Chief Engineer, Shri Shyamal Kumar Adhikari, Senior Environmental Engineer (Waste Management Cell) and Shri Debasish Sarkar, Senior Environmental Engineer (Planning) of the State Board. Other Senior Engineers and colleagues of the Pollution Control Board also deserve appreciation for their assistance in all respects from the inception to the completion of the project. Contribution of the Accounts section of the State Board require a special mention for ensuring continuous fund support to the project.

This acknowledgement would not be complete if the name of Shri Debal Ray, Chief Environmental Officer, Department of Environment, Government of West Bengal and the Ex-Member Secretary of the West Bengal Pollution Control Board is not mentioned here. West Bengal Pollution Control Board remains thankful to Shri Ray for his initiatives for the execution of the project during his tenure.

Executive Summary

Overview: Biomedical waste (BMW) consists of solids, liquids, sharps, and laboratory waste that are potentially infectious or dangerous. Out of the total waste generated by health-care activities almost 80 - 85 % is general waste comparable to domestic waste. The remaining approximately 15 - 20% of waste is considered hazardous material that may be infectious, toxic or radioactive. When all the waste is mixed together, 100% of the health-care waste turns infectious and hazardous as well as become unmanageable. According to World Health Organization (WHO) “poor management of health care waste potentially exposes health care workers, waste handlers, patients and the community at large to infection, toxic effects and injuries, and risks polluting the environment. It is essential that all medical waste materials are segregated at the point of generation, appropriately treated and disposed of safely.”

Background of the Study: Efforts towards safe and proper management of bio-medical waste in West Bengal date back to the 1990s, even prior to the introduction of the Bio-Medical Waste (Management and Handling) Rules, 1998. Dept. of Health & Family Welfare, Govt. of West Bengal took initiative towards this through several projects. With the introduction of the BMW Rules in 1998, WBPCB became the designated authority to approve and monitor BMW management in the state. After ten years of the introduction of BMW Rules, it is imperative to assess the achievements and the failures, the problems and the prospects of BMW management in the state. Thus the study “Bio-medical Waste : Inventory and Status of Management in West Bengal” was undertaken.

Study Objectives: The study was conducted from November 2008 to March 2010. Objectives of the study was to (a) prepare an inventory of health care establishments, which are sources of BMW in West Bengal, (b) quantify amount of BMW generated to derive average generation in different categories of health care units, (c) make an assessment of treatment and disposal options, (d) assess availability and further requirement of common BMW treatment facilities (CBWTFs), (e) suggest options for BMW management in remote areas beyond reach of CBWTFs and (f) make assessment of compliance status in some selected Health Care Units (HCUs).

Inventory of HCUs: West Bengal has a vast network of government HCUs in urban and rural areas. As per data available in December 2008 the Dept. of Health & Family Welfare has 11 tertiary (Medical College and Hospitals), 213 secondary (District, Sub-Divisional, State General and Rural Hospitals), 1168 Block Primary and Primary health centres in the state. Total number of hospitals run by different departments of state and central governments, urban local bodies and private organizations is 3780 and number of beds is 102949.

There are also 10356 government (rural) and 2100 urban sub-centres which perform mainly immunization activities. These sub-centres also conduct outreach sessions in remote villages. Numbers of municipal (urban) sub-centres and Extended Special Outdoor Patients Department (ESOPDs) are 1740 and 48 respectively.

Number of diagnostic centres in the state is 3169 among which BMW is generated mainly by 2572 pathological centres.

Quantification: Total BMW generated in the state from these facilities is around 12000 MT per year. With a rate of increase of 1% per year, the annual generation of BMW in the state has been estimated to be nearly 13500 MT in the year 2020.

45% of the BMW as a whole is made of recyclable materials. If the recyclable items can be properly segregated, decontaminated and then recycled, a good amount of resources can be saved in environment-friendly manner. But if these are salvaged through unscrupulous recyclable trade practices or incinerated or left in dumpsites, huge risk of environmental pollution and adverse health effect cannot be avoided.

Treatment Facilities Available: At present 5 large Common BMW Treatment Facilities (CBWTFs), 2 small CBWTFs and 14 Stand-Alone Treatment Facilities are functioning in the state. But as a whole only 28% of BMW is being treated as most of the HCUs are yet to be incorporated in the management regime. The situation varies from region to region. It is to be noted that maximum proportion (42%) of BMW treatment is taking place in South Region (Kolkata, Howrah and South 24 Parganas) whereas lowest proportion (5%) of BMW is being treated in the adjacent South-West region (West and East Midnapore). Proportion of BMW treated in other regions is as in the following: 29% in Central (Murshidabad, Nadia, North 24 Parganas and Hoogly), 14% in West (Bankura, Burdwan, Birbhum and Purulia) and 14% in North (Coochbehar, Jalpaiguri, Darjeeling, Uttar Dinajpur, Dakhsin Dinajpur and Malda) regions.

However it is hoped that situation will improve within a short period. As per decision of joint monitoring committee initiated by WBPCB, Dept. of H&FW made a budgetary provision for management of BMW and has issued circular (vide No. HF/O/MS/316/W-99/2008 dtd 28.5.09) conferring authority to respective heads of the Government HCUs to come in agreement with the CBWTFs. As the government HCUs have major number of beds and produce bulk of the BMW, in all probabilities there will be a marked improvement in the situation if the above order is implemented.

Further Requirement of Treatment Facilities: BMW treatment capacity as a whole available in the state is 100% of its present generation. But that does not indicate that the capacity is enough in all the regions. CBWTF has to be made available within an optimum distance from the generation point of BMW. In South (Kolkata, South 24 Parganas and Howrah districts), Central (North 24 Parganas, Nadia, Murshidabad and Hooghly districts) and North regions (Coochbihar, Jalpaiguri, Darjeeling, Uttar Dinajpur, Dakshin Dinajpur and Malda districts) capacity available for BMW treatment falls much short of requirement, whereas it is largely in excess in West (Bankura, Burdwan, Birbhum and Purulia districts) and South-West (East Midnapore and West Midnapore districts) regions. To cater to the requirement both by capacity and accessibility it is recommended that three more facilities should come up - 1 in South 24 Parganas (30000 bed capacity) for South region, 1 in Hooghly (15000 bed capacity) for Central region and 1 in Malda or Dakshin Dinajpur (15000 bed capacity) for North region.

Options for HCUs beyond CBWTF Reach: There are many small non-bedded HCUs like govt. and municipal sub-centres, outreach sessions, which individually generate very small amount of BMW, but because of their huge number, together they generate around 8% of the total BMW. Again there are several HCUs, which are not so small but situated at remote and inaccessible places like hills and Sundarbans. CBWTF vehicles cannot visit these HCUs in regular frequency because of geographical or economical constraints. In the case of sub-centres, outreach sessions a BMW kit with safety box, syringe cutter, bleaching powder etc. should be used. BMW should be segregated at the point of generation. The kit should be used for carrying and transporting the BMW to the nearest treatment facility or storage for handing over to CBWTF. In case of other HCUs local arrangements for treatment and disposal should be opted for.

Present Status of BMW Management: Compliance status of in-house management of 8 Medical Colleges, 17 District Hospitals and 30 other HCUs including government, municipal, private and specialty establishments was studied. It is observed that though the infrastructure for treatment of BMW in the state is almost adequate and highest authorities including monitoring body are waking up to the issue, overall status of in-house management of BMW in the HCUs especially which are owned by government or municipalities, are not at all up to the mark.

(a) Many HCUs are yet to join CBWTFs, (b) even the large HCUs do not have any designated official exclusively responsible for BMW management though huge amount of resources is being spent for this purpose, (c) almost all the health workers severely lack awareness, motivation and training, (d) BMW management equipments and personal protective equipments are not adequately available everywhere and wherever available those are not properly used by the health workers, (e) bins are seldom placed at right places, (f) quality of segregation in general is very poor. Mixing of bio-medical waste with general waste and non-incinerable waste with incinerable waste is rampant. This creates enormous risk of environmental pollution and workers safety, (g) many govt. HCUs are not handing over BMW properly to the CBWTFs in spite of the fact that CBWTF vehicles report to those HCUs daily and the government is spending a huge amount towards payment to the CBWTFs on the basis of patient occupancy, (h) a good proportion of BMW is being salvaged by the unscrupulous traders of recyclables in connivance with some corrupt health workers, (i) HCU specific regular, competent monitoring is absent.

Mercury Waste Management: Mercury is used in both elemental and compound form in different practices and equipments in health care. But there is least concern and awareness regarding mercury waste. While many of the countries have banned use of mercury in health care sector, the Central Ministry of Health and Family Welfare has issued notification for phasing out of use of mercury in central government hospitals, the state health authorities are yet to take such step . It has been estimated that at least 32 Kg. of mercury waste is generated only from broken thermometers in bedded HCUs in the state. Almost all of which, somehow or other, is released to the environment. While 1 microgram is sufficient to create enormous effect on health and environment, the issue deserves immediate attention of the state government and the monitoring body.

Recommendations:

1. Emphasis need to be given on South-West (East and West Midnapore), West (Bankura, Burdwan, Birbhum Purulia) and North (Coochbehar, Jalpaiguri, Darjeeling, Uttar Dinajpur, Dakshin Dinajpur and Malda) regions to pursue the HCUs to come under agreement with respective CBWTFs.
2. Dept. of H&FW, municipal corporations and municipalities need to be pursued to institute regular collection mechanism of BMW from non-bedded HCUs and arrange their proper treatment and disposal.
3. Initiative should be taken towards installation of 3 more CBWTFs - 1 in South 24 Parganas (30000 bed capacity), 1 in Hoogly (15000 bed capacity) and 1 in Malda or Dakshin Dinajpur (15000 bed capacity).
4. As a good amount of recyclable materials including PVC is coming to CBWTFs mixed with incinerable waste, feasibility of introducing secondary segregation at CBWTFs with environmental precautions need to be probed.
5. Random vigilance to improve in-house BMW management should be continued in a regular manner.
6. Dept. of H&FW, municipalities and private hospital authorities should be pursued to introduce proper monitoring system either by themselves or engaging expert bodies to look after in-house BMW management fixing specific responsibilities.
7. Off-the-job and on-the-job trainings should be conducted for health workers in a regular manner with refresher training. BMW management should be given due priority in curriculum of medical and nursing students. Efforts to be taken to generate awareness and motivation of health workers at all levels.
8. Decisions should be taken to phase out use of mercury compounds and instruments in a time bound manner. Till such phasing out, proper protocol for mercury waste management should be introduced in all HCUs.

Overview

Biomedical waste consists of solids, liquids, sharps, and laboratory waste that are potentially infectious or dangerous. It must be properly managed to protect the general public, specifically healthcare and sanitation workers who are regularly exposed to biomedical waste as an occupational hazard.

Waste generated by health care activities includes a broad range of materials, from used needles and syringes to soiled dressings, body parts, diagnostic samples, blood, chemicals, pharmaceuticals, medical devices and radioactive materials. Disposal of this waste is an environmental concern, as many medical wastes are classified as infectious or biohazardous and could potentially lead to the spread of infectious diseases and other health concerns.

World Health Organization (WHO) points out that health care wastes and by-products cover a diverse range of materials: (a) Infectious wastes -- cultures and stocks of infectious agents, wastes from infected patients, wastes contaminated with blood and its derivatives, discarded diagnostic samples, infected animals from laboratories, and contaminated materials (swabs, bandages) and equipment (disposable medical devices etc.); and (b) Anatomic - recognizable body parts and animal carcasses.

From the total of waste generated by health-care activities, almost 80 - 85 % is general waste comparable to domestic waste. The remaining approximate 15 - 20% of waste is considered hazardous materials that may be infectious, toxic or radioactive. When all the waste is mixed together, 100% of the waste turns infectious and hazardous as well as become unmanageable.

According to WHO "poor management of health care waste potentially exposes health care workers, waste handlers, patients and the community at large to infection, toxic effects and injuries, and risks polluting the environment. It is essential that all medical waste materials are segregated at the point of generation, appropriately treated and disposed of safely."

According to a very recent report prepared by Indian Institute of Management (IIM), Lucknow, approximately 42,0461 kg per day or approximately 155 thousand MT per year bio-medical waste is generated in India. "Presently, 50-55 per cent of bio-medical waste is collected, segregated and treated as per Bio-medical Waste Management Rules. Rest is dumped with municipal solid wastes," the report says. Out of 84,809 hospitals, only 48,183 are either using common bio-medical waste treatment facilities (which are 170 in number) or have engaged other private agencies.

Background of the Study:

Efforts towards safe and proper management of bio-medical waste in West Bengal date back to the 1990s, even prior to the introduction of the Bio-Medical Waste (Management and Handling) Rules, 1998.

The first initiative extending to the whole of the state was taken by the Health and Family Welfare Department of the Government of West Bengal for management of bio-medical waste in the secondary level (District, Sub-Divisional, State-General and Rural) Government hospitals. With the introduction of the BMW Rules in 1998 WBPCB became the designated authority to approve and monitor the BMW management in the state. The years that followed witnessed establishment of a number of common bio-medical waste treatment facilities with systems of segregated collection, treatment and disposal of bio-medical waste that covers a major part of the state.

Today, after ten years of the introduction of BMW Rules, it is imperative to assess the achievements and the failures, the problems and the prospects of BMW management in West Bengal. The exercise is called for not only to identify the strengths and weaknesses of the efforts but also to indicate requirements and possibilities - indispensable elements for future planning.

Study Objective:

1. Preparation of an Inventory of Health Care Establishments in West Bengal.
2. Quantification of Bio-Medical Waste generated in West Bengal.
3. Assessment of Treatment and Disposal Options of Bio-Medical Waste available and in operation in West Bengal.
4. Requirement and availability of Common Bio-medical Waste Treatment Facilities in West Bengal.
5. Assessment of compliance status of BMW management of selected Health Care Units and Treatment Facilities.
6. Options for management of bio-medical waste of HCUs in remote areas beyond the reach of CBWTFs.

Study Period: November 2008 to March 2010

Scope of Activities:

1. Preparation of a list of Health Care Units (HCUs) operating in the state with capacity [Bed Strength].

2. Preparation of a list of Diagnostic Centres with Number of tests conducted per day.
3. Preparation of a list of BMW Treatment Facilities available in the State as a whole with capacity, coverage and operational status.
4. Review of BMW management practices in some selected HCUs of different categories with a view to develop an assessment of the compliance status.
5. Assessment of BMW generated by category in some selected HCUs and Pathological Laboratories of different categories.
6. Assessment of Total Amount of BMW generated by HCUs and Diagnostic Centres for the State (by district) as a whole.
7. Assessment of requirement and availability of CBWTFs in West Bengal.
8. Comparative Assessment of BMW generated in the coverage areas of respective treatment facilities and actually treated by those.
9. Assessment of recyclables and non-recyclable bio-degradables in the BMW stream.
10. Strategy for BMW management in remote (beyond the reach of CTF) areas.
11. Assessment of Mercury Waste generation and disposal (as mercury waste is specially hazardous, though not included in BMW)

Methodology:

Assessment of Bio-Medical Waste generated with points of generation

- I. Preparation of an inventory of health care units (hospitals, nursing homes and diagnostic centres) operating in the state by category.
- II. Assessment of average quantity of different categories of Bio-Medical Waste (BMW) generated by each category of HCUs.
- III. Projection of total quantity of BMW generated in the state by category by multiplying the average quantity of BMW generated with number of HCUs of each category.
- IV. Assessment of recyclables and non-recyclable bio-degradables in the BMW stream by separate quantification, averaging and computation.

Review of BMW management practices in HCUs and Diagnostic Centres –

- V. Review of selected HCUs of different categories with a view to develop an assessment of the compliance status.

Assessment of Bio-Medical Waste treatment facilities -

- VI. Preparation of an inventory of BMW Treatment Facilities available in the State as a whole with capacity, coverage and operational status.
- VII. Assessment of requirement and availability of CBWTFs in West Bengal through investigation of the capacity and coverage of existing CBWTFs and area specific generation of BMW.
- VIII. Comparative Assessment of BMW generated in the coverage area of treatment facility and actually treated by the treatment facility.

Evolving Options for Bio-Medical Waste management in remote (beyond the reach of CBWTF) areas -

- IX. Options for management of bio-medical waste of HCUs in remote areas through an assessment of available scientific methods and statutory obligations.

Detailed Methodology

Preparation of lists of Health Care Units (HCUs) with capacity [Bed Strength] and Diagnostic Centres with Number of Patients Investigated per day operating in the state.*

The required information was collected through secondary source -

Enlisting of all Health Care Units (Governmental, Municipal and Private) and Diagnostic Centres operating in the state has been a basic requirement for preparation of an Inventory of Health Care Waste generation and disposal. The present study had to depend on secondary sources for the same as generation of primary data on number and categories of HCUs and Diagnostic Centres fell beyond its scope.

Private medical clinics, health camps, blood donation camps were kept outside the purview of the study as no comprehensive secondary data were available on their numbers.

Note: The inventory and the estimation of bio-medical waste have been prepared on the basis of the list of HCUs with respective bed strength available with WBPCB in December 2008 (source: Directory of the Health & Family Welfare Department, Govt. of W.B.). Generation of bio-medical waste has been estimated on the basis of bed strength of different categories of HCUs in the said inventory. It has been intimated by WBPCB of late that according to the Deptt. of H&FW a considerable number of Primary Health Centres (PHCs) and some Block Primary Health Centres (BPHCs) and one Rural Hospital in the said list are not generating bio-medical waste. In that case the estimated amount of BMW generated would accordingly be lesser.

Assessment of average quantity of Bio-Medical Waste (BMW) generated in specific HCUs.

Government HCUs

HCUs	Method of Assessment
Large Referral Hospitals [Tertiary]	All BMW generated per day by category by facility for 4 consecutive days. Five Hospitals. Two in South Bengal, Two in Kolkata and one in North Bengal.
District, State General, Sub-Divisional & Rural Hospitals [Secondary]	All BMW generated per day by category by facility for 4 consecutive days. Two hospitals in each category. Eight hospitals in all. One each of each category in South and North Bengal.
Block Primary Health Centres (BPHCs) & Primary Health Centres (PHCs) [Primary]	All BMW generated per day by category by facility for 4 consecutive days. Four Hospitals. Two (BPHC+PHC) each in S. and N. Bengal.
Lowest level Immunisation & Health Care Units [Sub-Centre]	All BMW generated per day by category by facility for 2 consecutive clinic days. Two SCs. One each in South and North Bengal
Specialty Hospitals	7 Specialty Hospitals having different types of health care facilities. One of each type.

INVENTORY OF SOURCES
BIO-MEDICAL WASTE

Introduction

Bio-Medical waste is generated at various places viz., hospitals, nursing homes, maternity homes, basic level health care centres, immunization centres, diagnostic centres, blood banks, health camps, blood donation camps, institution laboratories, doctors' chambers, pharmacies and even households. All these sources come under the purview of Bio-Medical Waste (Management and Handling) Rules 1998. However the present study did not have the scope to assess BMW generation from all these sources. The study mainly concentrated on health care units (HCUs) like hospitals, nursing homes, maternity homes, basic level health care centres, immunization centres, diagnostic centres etc. Health camps, blood banks, blood donation camps, laboratories attached to institutions, doctors' chambers, pharmacies and households have been excluded from the purview of this study.

Objective of preparation of Inventory

One of the nodal tasks of the present study has been an assessment of the amount of BMW generated in the above mentioned categories of HCUs in West Bengal. The first step towards assessment of Bio-Medical Waste generated in a state necessarily calls for preparation of an inventory of the HCUs under study by category.

This study endeavours to estimate the amount of BMW generation in each district of the state by first dividing all the HCUs in a number of categories in such a manner so that the amount of BMW generated per bed per day (in bedded HCUs) or per patient per day (in non-bedded HCUs) in each of the HCUs belonging to a particular category are more or less same and may be reasonably averaged out. Thus, for bedded units, the total amount of BMW generated by HCUs belonging to that category may be computed by multiplying the average quantity of BMW generated per bed per day with total number of beds in HCUs of that category. For non-bedded units, average BMW generated in one HCU of one category is multiplied by total number of HCUs in that category to arrive at total generation. Finally, the quantities of BMW generated by different categories of HCUs in a district are added to get the total quantity of BMW generated in that district and thus as a whole in the state.

Categorization of HCUs

Methodology

Step 1 : The health care units (HCUs) in the state have first been categorized as bedded and non-bedded facilities.

It is obvious that there is large difference in BMW generation, by both quantity and quality, between bedded and non-bedded health care facilities.

Step 2 : Next, the bedded facilities are further subdivided as in the following –

i) Government General: Includes the general stream of State Government HCUs, i.e. Medical College & Hospitals, District Hospitals, Sub-Divisional Hospitals, State General Hospitals, Rural Hospitals, Block Primary Health Centres and Primary Health Centres.

HCUs, belonging to each category of hospitals mentioned above may be reasonably taken to generate average quantity of BMW per bed per day.

ii) Other Government: Other Government Hospitals of general character like hospitals belonging to Steel Authority of India (SAIL), Port Trust of India, Eastern Coalfield Limited, Railways, State Electricity Board, Jail, ESI etc. are included in this category.

It is observed that the services catered by these HCUs are more or less similar to those of government HCUs in the general stream mentioned above. It is also presumed and later validated by the present quantification study that in these hospitals BMW generation per bed per day varies according to their bed strengths. As such the BMW generated per bed per day in each of these hospitals are taken as the BMW generated per bed per day in a Government General hospital belonging to a category of comparable bed strength.

iii) Municipality: Municipal bedded health care units are of two kinds, general hospitals and maternity homes.

The general municipal hospitals can be reasonably taken to generate BMW per bed per day as the HCUs belonging to categories with similar ranges of bed strengths. However, Municipal Maternity Homes constitute a different category of hospitals both in terms of the services catered and, eventually, the quality and quantity of BMW generated.

iv) Specialty: These hospitals, both government and private, exclusively cater to patients with specific diseases like Infectious Diseases (ID), Tuberculosis (TB), Leprosy, Cancer, Eye Disorders and Dental problems.

The specific and exclusive character of health care services provided by hospitals belonging to these categories cause differences in the quality and quantity of BMW generated.

v) Private: Private hospitals and nursing homes belong to this category. Generally BMW generation in private HCUs vary from that in government HCUs because of administrative and health care practices typical to those. But among the private HCUs also, BMW generation per bed per day varies with the range of bed strength to which they belong. As such range of bed strength has been taken for an indicator of average quantity of BMW generated and private hospitals and nursing homes are categorized according to the ranges of bed strengths they belong to.

Step 3 : Likewise, the non-bedded facilities are also further subdivided as in the following –

i) Government (Rural and Urban): Non-Bedded Government Rural and Urban HCUs mainly include Sub-Centres (SC) and out-reach immunization sessions.

ii) Municipality (Urban): Municipal non-bedded HCUs are mainly constituted of Municipal Sub-Centres (SC) and Extended Special Out Patient Departments (ESOPD).

iii) Private: All sorts of diagnostic centres with pathological laboratories, X-Ray, ECG, EEG, MRI, Scan etc. belong to this category. Other members in this category are doctors' clinics, eye clinics etc. Pathological Laboratories are the main generators of BMW in this category. It is also obvious that the quality and quantity of BMW generated in Pathological Laboratories differ according to the nature and number of tests done.

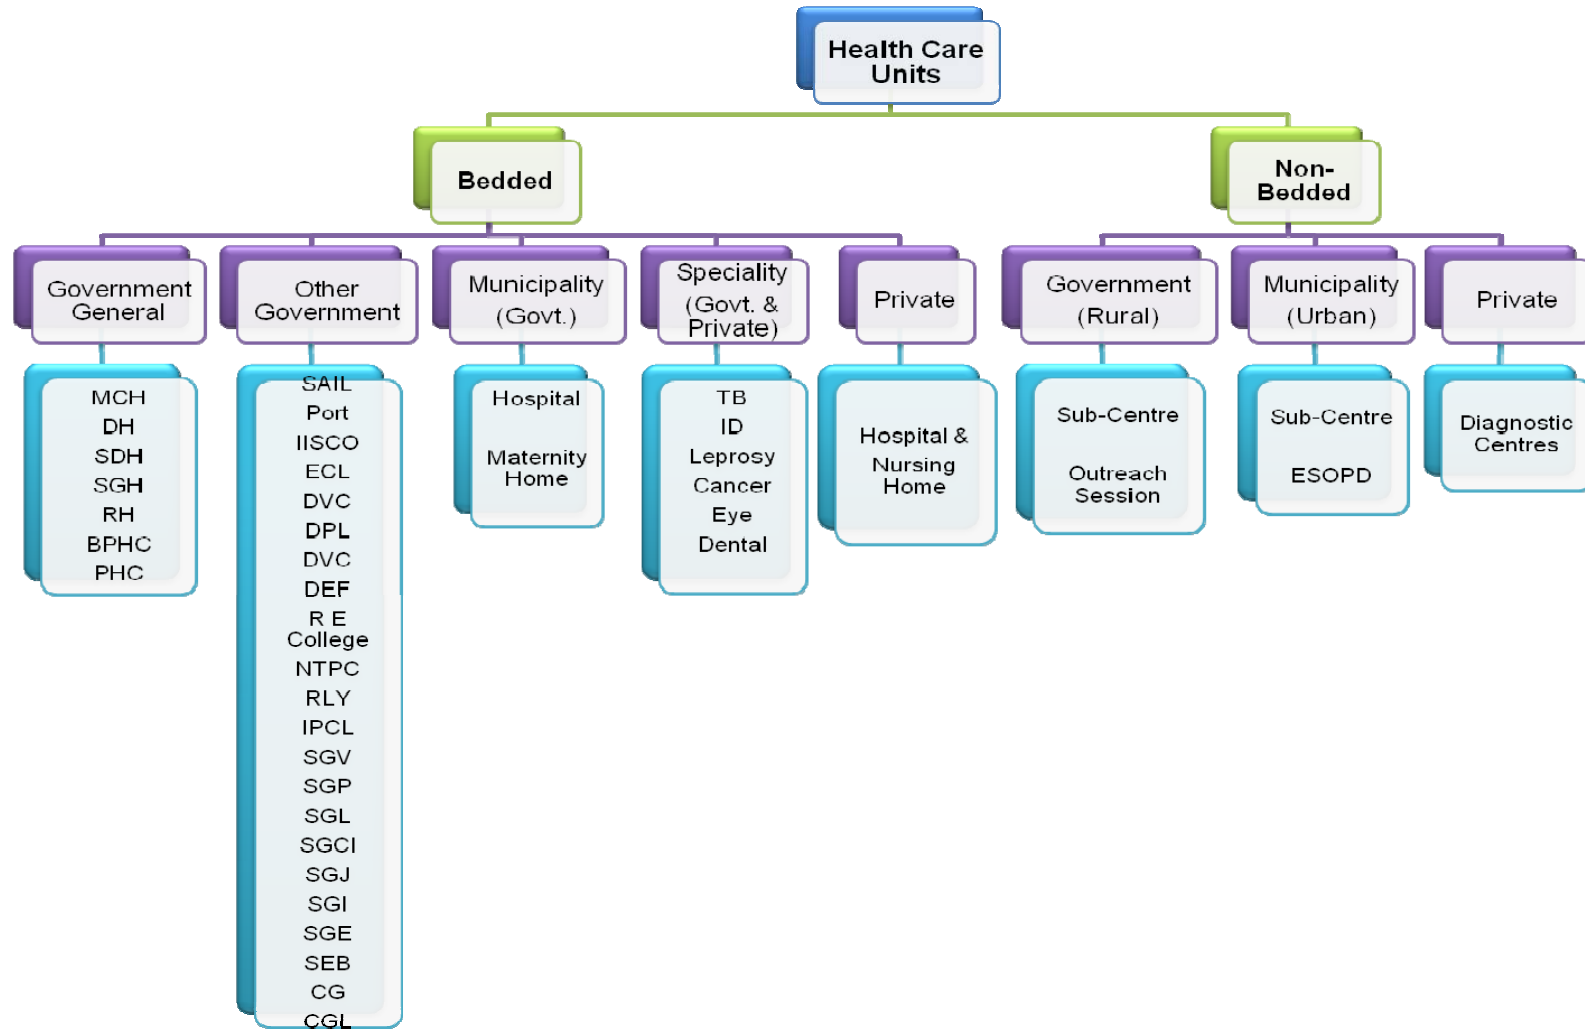

As such assessment of BMW generated in pathological laboratories necessitate categorization of pathological laboratories according to the nature and number of tests done.

Source of Primary and Basic Data:

Generation of primary and basic data (number, organization, bed strength, services catered etc.) regarding the HCUs operating in the state has been beyond the scope of the present study. As such the present study had to depend on authentic secondary sources for the required information as in the following:

Information regarding -	Source of Information -
District wise bedded HCUs (Govt., Municipality and Private)	: WBPCB and H & FW Deptt.
District wise non-bedded HCUs (Govt. and Private)	: WBPCB and H & FW Deptt.
District wise non-bedded HCUs (Municipality)	: State Urban Development Agency (SUDA), West Bengal

Lay-Out for Inventory of Health Care Units

Data Processing:

The primary data was subjected to a process of compilation and collation to generate the following products:

§ Bedded HCUs

- I. District wise list of bedded HCUs of both General and Special Categories with Name, Address, Current Bed Strength, Organisation (Govt., Municipal and Pvt.).
- II. Government Bedded HCU data broadsheet giving numbers and total bed strengths of each category of HCUs in each district and the state as a whole.
- III. District wise distribution of all bedded HCUs by category giving number of HCUs in each category with their total bed strengths.

§ Non-Bedded HCUs

- IV. District wise list of non-bedded HCUs –
 - a. Diagnostic Centres with Name, Address and services catered.
 - b. Rural and Urban Non-Bedded HCUs (Sub-Centres and Outreach Immunisation Sessions – total number in a district).
 - c. Urban (Municipal) Non-Bedded HCUs (Sub-Centres and Extended Special Out Patient Departments - total number in a district).
- V. District wise Diagnostic Centre data master giving all kinds of diagnostic centres available in each district and the state as a whole.

Constraints:

A) Comprehensibility of primary data: The comprehensibility of primary data regarding the list of health care units collected from secondary sources could not be verified as it was beyond the scope of the present study. But some obvious omissions* in the primary data very reasonably leads one to doubt its comprehensibility. In all probabilities the primary data used in the study bear chances of leaving out some health care units. It is hoped that future studies will be enabled by more comprehensive primary data.

B) Inability to categorize pathological laboratories by nature and number of tests undertaken: Categorization of pathological laboratories by nature (variety of tests done) and number of tests undertaken could not be done as no such data was available.

This constraint eventually makes it almost impossible to assess the quantity of Bio-Medical waste generated from the pathological laboratories operating in the state because quantity of Bio-Medical waste generated in a pathological laboratory depends on the nature and number of tests undertaken by it.

In view of the above the only way left, with probability of larger margin of error, is to attempt a provisional assessment basing oneself on some primary presumptions regarding categorization of Pathological Laboratories on the basis of the number and nature of tests done.

* A few examples of obvious omissions: a. Central Blood Bank, Manicktala; b. Only 17 Pathological Laboratories in Malda District; c. Only 12 Pathological Laboratories in Dakshin Dinajpur District, d. Only 1 Veterinary Hospital in the state.

It may be mentioned here once again that the inventory and the estimation of bio-medical waste have been prepared on the basis of the list of HCUs with respective bed strength available with WBPCB in December 2008. Generation of bio-medical waste has been estimated on the basis of bed strength of different categories of HCUs in the said inventory. It has been intimated by WBPCB of late that according to the Deptt. of H&FW a considerable number of HCUs in the said list are not generating bio-medical waste. In that case the estimated amount of BMW generated would accordingly be lesser.*

I. District wise list of bedded HCUs with Name, Address, Current Bed Strength, Organisation (Govt., Municipal and Pvt.), General and Special Categories.

Detailed District wise list of bedded HCUs with Name, Address, Current Bed Strength, Organisation (Govt., Municipal and Pvt.), including both General and Special Categories is placed at INVENTORY: ANNEXURE - I

However, summary reports giving out at a glance assessment of total number of HCUs and their bed strengths distributed among different districts of West Bengal are placed below:

District-Wise Number of Government and Private Bedded HCUs with Total Bed Strengths in West Bengal

Total number of bedded HCUs in West Bengal is 3780, of which private HCUs are 2182 and government HCUs are 1598.

Total number of beds in these HCUs are 102949, of which 38904 beds belong to private HCUs and the rest 64045 to government HCUs.

By number of HCUs - total, private and government, Dakshin Dinajpur district claims the lowest - 37, 7 and 30 respectively.

By number of Beds - total, private and government, Dakshin Dinajpur district claims the lowest in total and private - 821 and 106 respectively. While Uttar Dinajpur has the lowest (615) number of government HCU beds.

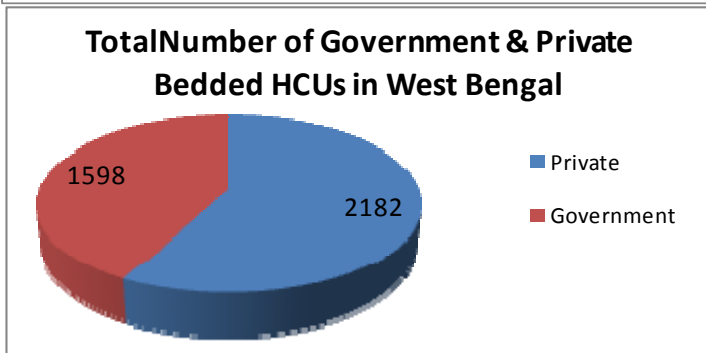

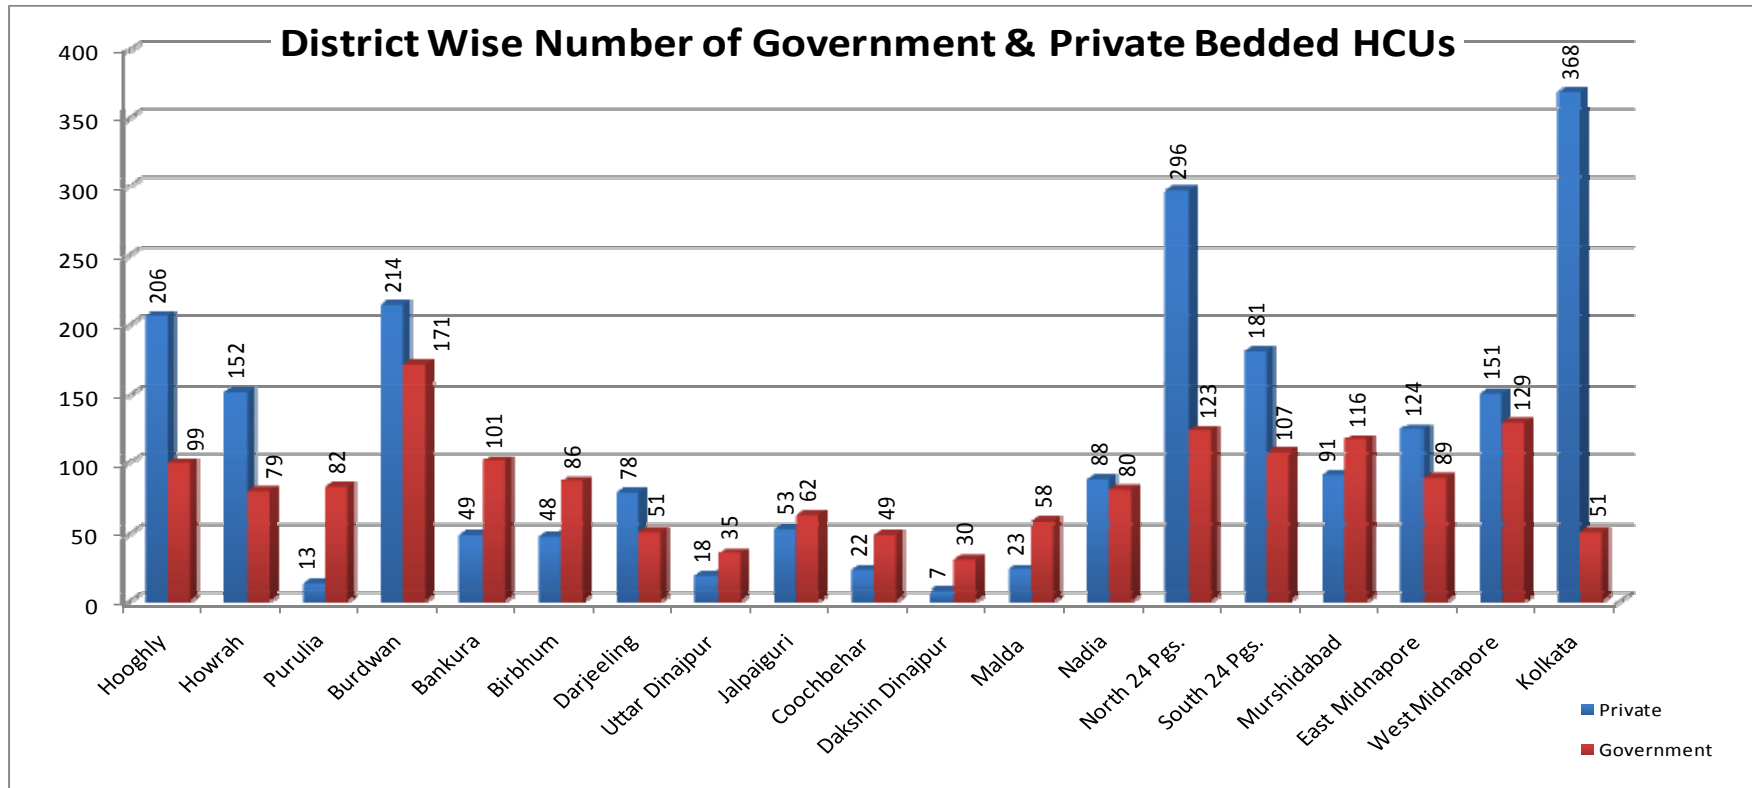

As expected, number of bedded HCUs in Kolkata is 419, the highest among districts, but the district of North 24 Parganas also has the same number of bedded HCUs. The dissimilarity between these two districts is due to the concentration of large government and private HCUs in Kolkata that results in a staggering difference in number of beds. Kolkata accounts for a total of 28,041 beds, of which 15,438 beds belong to 51 government HCUs and 12,603 beds belong to 368 private HCUs while North 24 Parganas accounts for a total of 9,587 beds, of which 4,693 beds belong to 123 government HCUs and 4,894 beds belong to 296 private HCUs

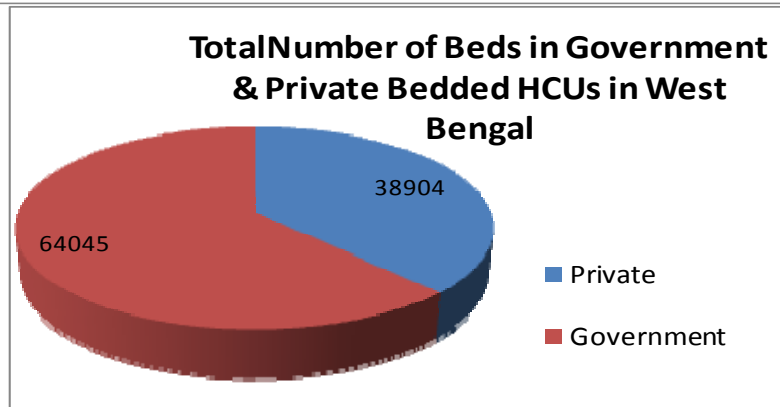

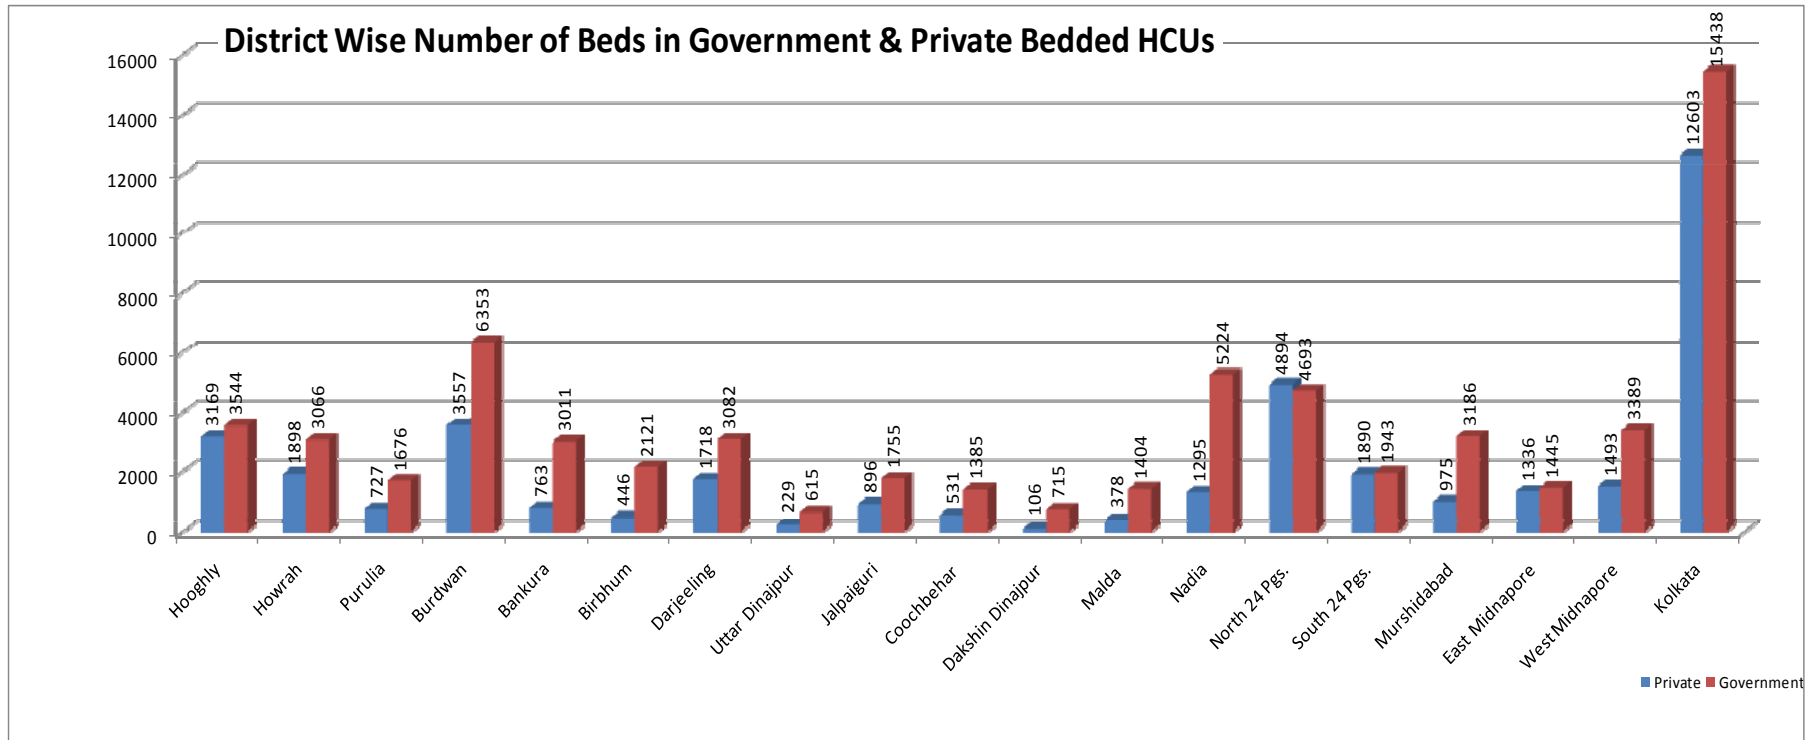

By range of number of bedded HCUs the districts of Dakshin Dinajpur, Uttar Dinajpur, Coochbehar, Malda and Purulia belong to the lowest (below 100). The districts of Jalpaiguri, Darjeeling, Birbhum, Bankura, Murshidabad, Nadia, East Midnapore, Howrah, West Midnapore and South 24 parganas belong to the middle range (101 to 300). The highest range (301 to 500) has the districts of Hooghly, Burdwan, North 24 Parganas and Kolkata.

DISTRICTS BY RANGE OF NUMBER OF HCUs
Range by Number of HCUs	Districts
Below 100	Dakshin Dinajpur, Uttar Dinajpur, Coochbehar, Malda, Purulia.
101 to 300	Jalpaiguri, Darjeeling, Birbhum, Bankura, Murshidabad, Nadia, East Midnapore, Howrah, West Midnapore, South 24 parganas.
301 to 500	Hooghly, Burdwan, North 24 Parganas, Kolkata.

By range of number of beds the districts of Dakshin Dinajpur and Uttar Dinajpur belong to the lowest (below 1000). The districts of Malda, Coochbehar, Purulia, Birbhum, Jalpaiguri, East Midnapore, Bankura, South 24 parganas, Murshidabad, West Midnapore, Darjeeling and Howrah are in the next range (1001 to 5000). The next higher range (5001 to 10000) has in it the districts of Nadia, Hooghly, North 24 Parganas and Burdwan. It is interesting to note that no district belong to the next higher range (10001 to 20000). The highest range (above 20000) has Kolkata as the lone district belonging to it.

II. Government Bedded HCU data broadsheet giving numbers and total bed strengths of each category of HCUs in each district and the state as a whole.*

A broadsheet presentation of data related to government bedded HCUs have been called for due to their large number and wide variation.

A total of 1598 government bedded HCUs of 37 different categories with 64045 beds are presented in the broadsheet with numbers of HCUs of each category in each district along with their respective total bed strengths.

Short forms used for categories of HCUs has been provided in the list of abbreviations.

* This broadsheet has been prepared on the basis of the list of HCUs available with WBPCB in December 2008 and in accordance with the categories specified therein.

III. District-wise distribution of bedded HCUs by category giving number of HCUs in each category with their total bed strengths.

The bedded HCUs in the general list were further scrutinised and categorised as enunciated in Step-2 of the methodology (see page Inventory 3) to get –

- A. District wise distribution of general category of government bedded HCUs, i.e., MCH, DH, SDH, RH, BPHC and PHC.
- B. District wise distribution of other government bedded HCUs by the following categories –
 - i. HCUs with less than 50 beds (to be approximated with BPHCs for quantification of BMW)
 - ii. HCUs with 50 to 100 beds (to be approximated with RHs for quantification of BMW)
 - iii. HCUs with 101 to 300 beds (to be approximated with SGHs for quantification of BMW)
 - iv. HCUs with more than 300 beds (to be approximated with DHs for quantification of BMW)
- C. District wise distribution of private bedded HCUs by following categories –
 - i. HCUs with less than 50 beds
 - ii. HCUs with 50 to 100 beds
 - iii. HCUs with 101 to 300 beds
- D. District wise distribution of municipal bedded HCUs by following categories –
 - i. Municipal General Hospitals
 - ii. Municipal Maternity Homes
- E. District wise distribution of specialty bedded HCUs by following categories –
 - i. Eye Hospitals
 - ii. Dental Hospitals
 - iii. Infectious Disease (ID) Hospitals
 - iv. Leprosy Hospitals
 - v. Cancer Hospitals
 - vi. TB Hospitals

This division into categories directly relates to the requirement of quantification of BMW generated in the bedded HCUs.

too stark to be overlooked. There are only two ID hospitals – one in Kolkata and another in Howrah, and only one Dental hospital in Kolkata in the whole of the state.

Society for Direct Initiative for Social & Health Action (DISHA)

Overview

The state of West Bengal has a total of 102949 beds in all its health care units.

Out of this the general government chain of HCUs, i.e., MCH, DH, SDH, SGH, RH, BPHC, PHC provide for 45,457 beds. Other government hospitals provide for 11,850 beds. Private HCUs have a total of 36,513 beds. Total bed strength of Municipal HCUs is 1,413. And specialty hospitals like Eye, Dental, ID (Infectious Diseases), Leprosy, Cancer and TB bear a total bed strength of 7,716.

It is worthwhile to mention that the chain of government rural bedded HCUs, i.e., RHs, BPHCs and PHCs muster total bed strength of 12,651, which is 27.83% of the total bed strength of general government chain of HCUs and 12.28% of the total number of beds in West Bengal. This has got important implications for BMW management in the state.

It is also worthwhile to mention that small (bed < 50) private HCUs muster total bed strength of 21,924, which is 60.04% of the total bed strength of private HCUs and 21.29% of the total number of beds in West Bengal. This too has got important implications for BMW management in the state.

The inadequacy of ID and Dental hospitals, in number of units, number of beds and distribution over districts is

IV. District wise list of non-bedded HCUs -

- a. Diagnostic Centres with Name, Address and Services catered.
- b. Rural and Urban Non-Bedded HCUs (Sub-Centres and Outreach Immunisation Sessions - total number in a district).
- c. Urban (Municipal) Non-Bedded HCUs (Sub-Centres and Extended Special Out Patient Departments - total number in a district).

a. Diagnostic Centres with Name, Address and Services catered -

Detailed district wise list of Diagnostic Centres with Name, Address and Services catered is given at INVENTORY: ANNEXURE - II. However salient features are given here. There are 3,169 Diagnostic Centres of 47 different categories in the state. Before presenting them in a broad sheet (at the end of the chapter) it is to be mentioned that all the diagnostic centres do not generate BMW. BMW is generated mainly from pathological centres. So an account of pathological centres is placed here.

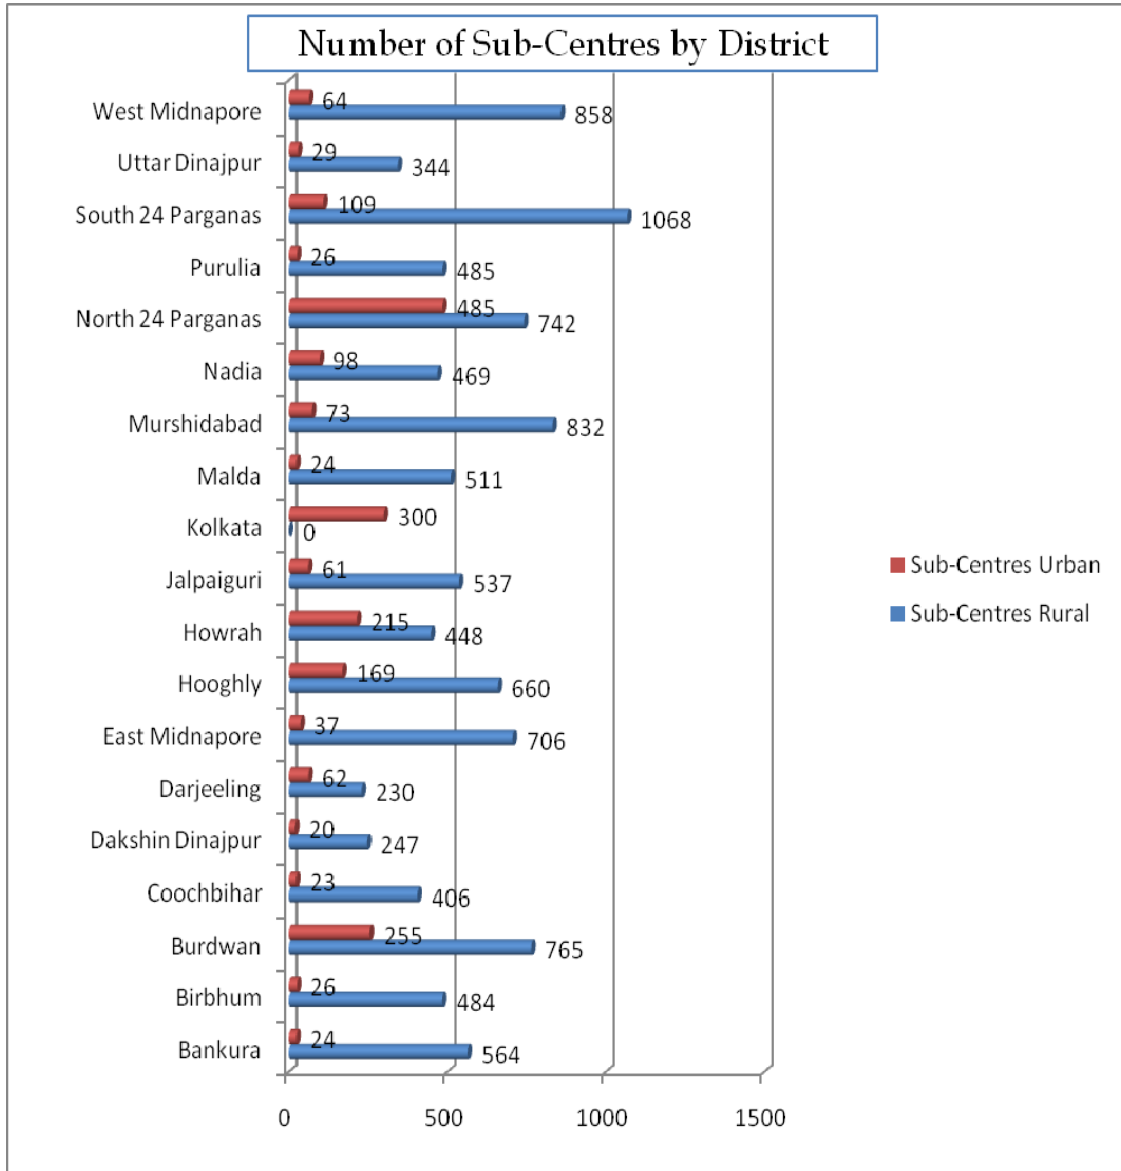

District Wise Number of Pathological Laboratories
Hooghly	Howrah	Purulia	Burdwan	Bankura	Birbhum	Darjeeling	Uttar Dinajpur	Jalpaiguri	Coochbehar	Dakshin Dinajpur	Malda	Nadia	North 24 Pgs.	South 24 Pgs.	Murshidabad	East Midnapore	West Midnapore	Kolkata	Total

There is wide variation in the number of pathological laboratories in different districts - from 12 in Dakshin Dinajpur to 480 in Kolkata. [As stated earlier, only 12 and 17 path-labs enlisted in Dakshin Dinajpur and Malda districts ask for re-examination and verification]

Hooghly district accounts for next highest number (329) of path-labs after Kolkata followed by North 24 Parganas (316).

As mentioned earlier, a significant constraint of the present study has been non-availability of data regarding the nature and number of tests done in the pathological laboratories.

b. Rural and Urban Non-Bedded HCUs (Sub-Centres and Outreach Immunisation Sessions – total number in a district).

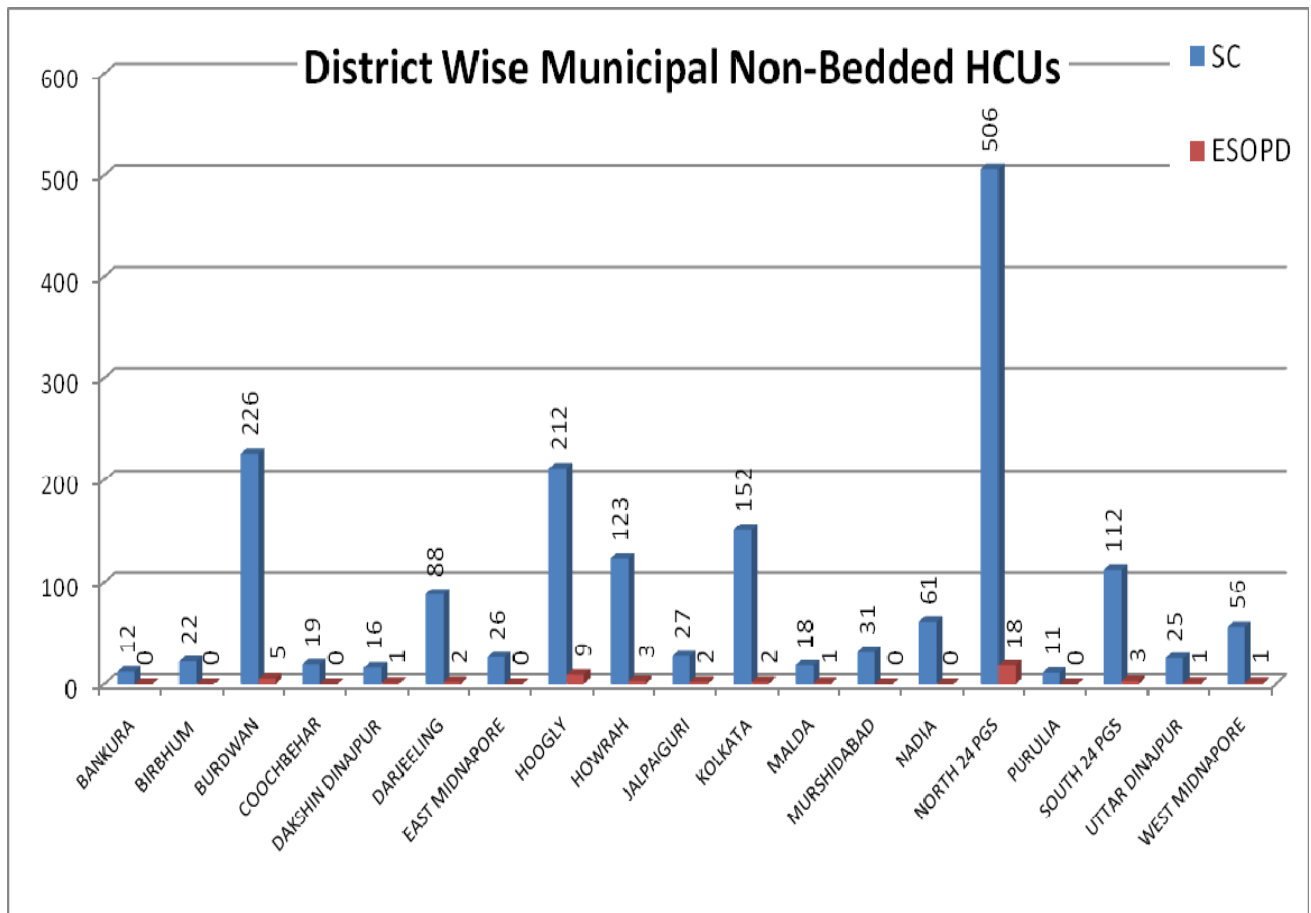

There are 10,356 Rural and 2100 Urban Sub-Centres, i.e., lowest level government non-bedded rural HCUs for immunisation and treatment. The number of rural sub-centres is largest (1068) in South 24 Parganas and smallest (230) in Darjeeling. In Kolkata obviously there is no rural Sub-Centre. The number of urban sub-centres is largest (485) in North 24 Parganas and smallest (20) in Dakhsin Dinajpur. Sub-Centres conduct outreach immunisation sessions in remote areas under their purview at least once in a week.

c. Urban (Municipal) Non-Bedded HCUs (Sub-Centres and Extended Special Out Patient Departments - total number in a district).

In municipal urban agglomerations non-bedded HCUs - Sub-Centres (SCs) and Extended Special Out Patient Departments (ESOPDs) are run by municipalities to attend to citizens' health care needs similar to those of rural sub-centres.

There are a total of 1,740 SCs and 48 ESOPDs run by municipalities in the state of West Bengal.

It is observed that these urban SCs and ESOPDs are by far the largest in number (506 and 18 respectively) in the district of North 24 Parganas and the lowest in number (11 and 0 respectively) in the district of Purulia.

District wise Diagnostic Centre data broadsheet giving all kinds of diagnostic centres available in each district and in the state as a whole.

3,169 Diagnostic Centres of 47 different categories including Blood Bank and spread over 19 districts of the state again call for a broadsheet presentation of data for the sake of a snapshot view of the information.

It is gathered that out of the total number of 3,169 diagnostic centres in the state 2,572 cater to pathological examinations.

QUANTIFICATION OF BMW
IN SELECTED HCU_s

Objective

A quantification study was conducted in different categories of selected health care units to approximate and arrive at average amount of bio-medical waste generated in the HCUs of respective categories. This in turn would help in assessing total BMW generated in different categories of Health Care Units in every district as well as in the state as a whole. Categories of health care units taken up and respective methods of assessment had been as in the following:

Government HCUs

HCUs	Method of Assessment
Large Referral Hospitals [Tertiary]	All BMW generated by category per day by HCU for 4 consecutive days. Five Hospitals. Two in South Bengal, two in Kolkata and one in North Bengal
District, State General, Sub-Divisional & Rural Hospitals [Secondary]	All BMW generated by category per day by HCU for 4 consecutive days. Two hospitals in each category. Eight hospitals in all. One each of every category of HCU in South Bengal and North Bengal.
Block Primary Health Centres (BPHCs) & Primary Health Centres (PHCs)	All BMW generated by category per day by HCU for 4 consecutive days. Four Hospitals. Two HCUs (BPHC+PHC) each in South Bengal and North Bengal
Lowest level Immunisation & Health Care Units [Sub-Centres]	All BMW generated by category per day by HCU for 2 consecutive clinic days. Two SCs. One each in South Bengal and North Bengal. Records of Out Reach Sessions (ORS) were also collected from concerned sub-centres which conduct the ORSs.

Municipal HCUs

HCUs	Method of Assessment
Hospital	All BMW generated by category per day by HCU for 4 consecutive days. Two Hospitals. One each in South Bengal and North Bengal.
Maternity Unit	All BMW generated by category per day by HCU for 4 consecutive days. Two Hospitals. One each in South Bengal and North Bengal.
Extended Specialised Out Patient Department (ESOPD)	All BMW generated by category per day by HCU for 2 consecutive clinic days. Two ESOPDs. One each in South Bengal and North Bengal.
Sub Centres	All BMW generated by category per day by HCU for 2 consecutive clinic days. Two Units. One each in South Bengal and North Bengal

Private HCUs including Diagnostic Centres (DCs)

HCUs	Method of Assessment
Hospital Private Hospitals [Very Large: 300+ beds; Large: 100+ to 300 beds; Medium: 50 + to 100 beds; Small: Upto 50 beds]	All BMW generated by category per day by HCU for 4 consecutive days. Four Hospitals. One each of very large, large, medium & small categories.
Diagnostic Centres in KMC Area [Large: Medium: Small]	All BMW generated by category per day by HCU for 4 consecutive days. Three Diagnostic Centres. One each of large, medium & small categories.

Specialty Hospitals

HCUs	Method of Assessment
1 Dental Hospital	All BMW generated by category per day by HCU for 4 consecutive days in one of each category of HCUs.
1 Infectious Disease Hospital
1 Cancer Hospital
1 TB Hospital
1 Eye Hospital
1 Leprosy Hospital
1 Veterinary Hospital

Assessment of generation of BMW in the Forensic Science Laboratory, Govt. of West Bengal and Institute of Animal Health and Veterinary Biologicals (IAHVB) in Kolkata was also conducted.

Methodology of Quantification:

The study has been conducted through survey, with following steps:

- Identification of the items of bio-medical waste generated in the HCUs and coming into the waste stream,
- Classification of the items by category according to BMW Rules,
- Classification of the items further as recyclable and non-recyclable. Cat 4 (needles, broken glass etc) and Cat 7 (plastic, glass and metal) have been marked as recyclables. Again Categories 1, 2, 3, 5, 6 (Body parts and the soiled materials) have been marked as non-recyclable though some materials like cloth may be recycled),
- Ascertaining bio-medial waste generation per bed per day or per person per day in respective categories of HCUs.

The administrative authorities of the HCUs and the staff were given prior information and necessary instructions before the actual quantification. Particularly hospital sweepers, scavenger service workers, ward sisters and other health workers in each HCU were notified prior to the commencement of the quantification study.

Waste Assessors from DISHA took charge of the waste sent at the vat sites or disposal sites of the HCUs from each waste generation point of the HCUs. Contents of each of the bags were taken out, thoroughly checked and sorted irrespective of the colour of bags to ensure more accurate categorization of waste in anticipation of possible mixing.

Items of each category were manually separated and measured by weighing balance.

None of the HCUs had any facility to separately store or treat liquid waste. So liquid waste was not included in quantification study. Animal body waste was available only in Institute of Animal Health and Veterinary Biologicals (IAHVB). So Category 2 has been excluded from the quantification table of all HCUs except IAHVB. Incineration ash was available only in the Common Bio-medical Waste Treatment Facilities. Amounts of incineration ash generated in these facilities were recorded and submitted to WBPCB in their annual reports; as such no separate quantification was necessary. Liquid portion of Chemical waste (Cat 10) was generally drained out and solid portion also was not separately collected. As such quantification of the same could not be possible. So Categories 8, 9 and 10 have been excluded from the quantification study.

In every bedded HCU under study data on occupancy were collected for each day during the four days' quantification survey (except sub-centres where data for 2 days were collected as those did not function everyday). The total quantity of BMW generated has been divided by occupancy to arrive at BMW generation per bed per day in case of bedded HCUs. In case of sub-centres, out reach sessions, municipal ESOPD and sub-centres, attendance of patients / persons at the HCUs was collected and recorded. For these non-bedded HCUs total quantity of BMW generated has been divided by attendance to arrive at BMW generation per patient/person per day. In case of pathological laboratories number of specimens tested was collected and recorded. The total quantity of BMW generated has been divided by number of specimens to arrive at BMW generation per specimen per day.

Constraints

The survey had to depend on the existing waste management system of the health care units and pathological laboratories. As such, in spite of best possible efforts under the circumstances, variation in the quality of the system operating in different hospitals affected the study in the following ways:

- i) Collection and hauling of all the waste to the quantification point could not be fully ensured in spite of best possible efforts because of prevailing practice of salvaging, irregular collection and disposal in some units.
- ii) Improper segregation and collection of waste made quantification of BMW very difficult and prone to inaccuracy in many instances.

Quantification Data

The data on quantification of each health care unit and pathological laboratory under study have been appended in the annexure. However salient features of the study are discussed in the following:

Government HCUs

Among the government hospitals it was found that generation of bio-medical waste per bed per day varied in accordance with availability of number of different treatments and laboratory tests. Thus the Medical Colleges and Hospitals produce highest amount of waste per bed per day. District Hospitals produce next to that.

State General Hospitals and Sub-Divisional Hospitals having almost similar kinds of facilities produce almost same amount of bio-medical waste per bed per day and that is less than that of District Hospitals. Rural Hospitals, Block Primary Health Centres and Primary Health Centres produce bio-medical waste in diminishing amounts.

In case of Sub-Centres and Out Reach Sessions the pattern of BMW produced is entirely different. These are non-bedded HCUs with mainly clinical and immunization facilities. So production of waste is much less but major portion of the waste is recyclable. Average bio-medical waste has been calculated per patient per day. Sub-Centres generally produce BMW twice a week and Out Reach Sessions once in a week.

A comparative study showing bio-medical waste generated per Bed per Day and per Patient per Day in government health care units (HCUs):

HCU Categories	Unit	Wt. in gms
Medical College & Hospital	Per Bed per Day	281
District Hospital	Per Bed per Day	263
Sub-Divisional Hospital	Per Bed per Day	245
State General Hospital	Per Bed per Day	246
Rural Hospital	Per Bed per Day	227
Block Primary Health Centre	Per Bed per Day	216
Primary Health Centre	Per Bed per Day	207
Sub-Centre & Out Reach Session	Per Patient per Day	31

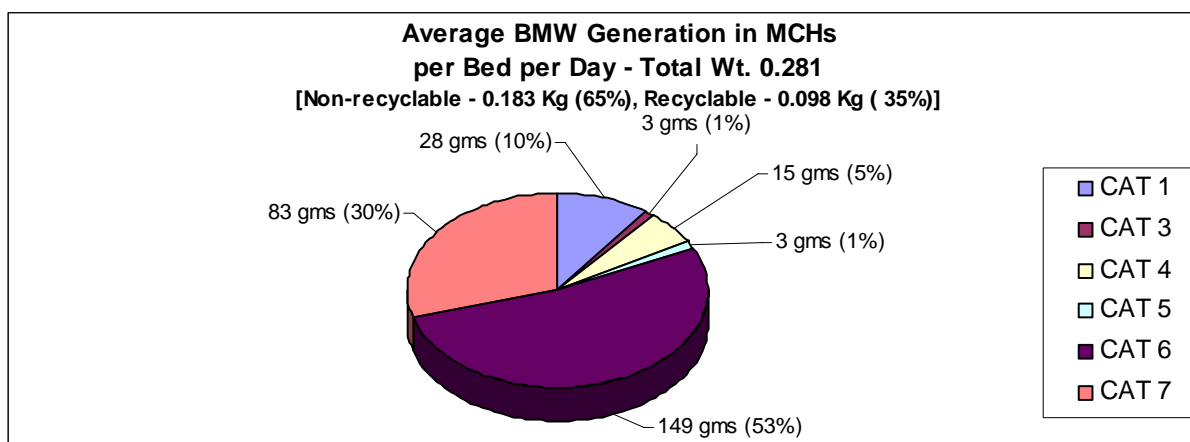

In bedded hospitals it is found that two major constituents of bio-medical waste (BMW) are Cat 6 and Cat 7. Again the weight of non-recyclable BMW (Cat 1, 3, 5 and 6) is almost double that of recyclable BMW (Cat 4 and 7). Average weight of used saline bottles ranges from 20% to 30% of Category 7.

In case of Sub-Centres and Out-reach Sessions character of composition is different. Here proportion of non-recyclable BMW (Cat 6) like cotton swabs is produced in negligible amount. Major portion of the BMW is composed of recyclable BMW (Cat 7) like needle, syringes, glass and plastic vials etc.

Average generation of BMW with proportionate weight and percentage of different categories in each level of HCUs may be seen in the following charts. Detailed figures may be seen in annexures. For convenience decimal fractions have been avoided in the charts.

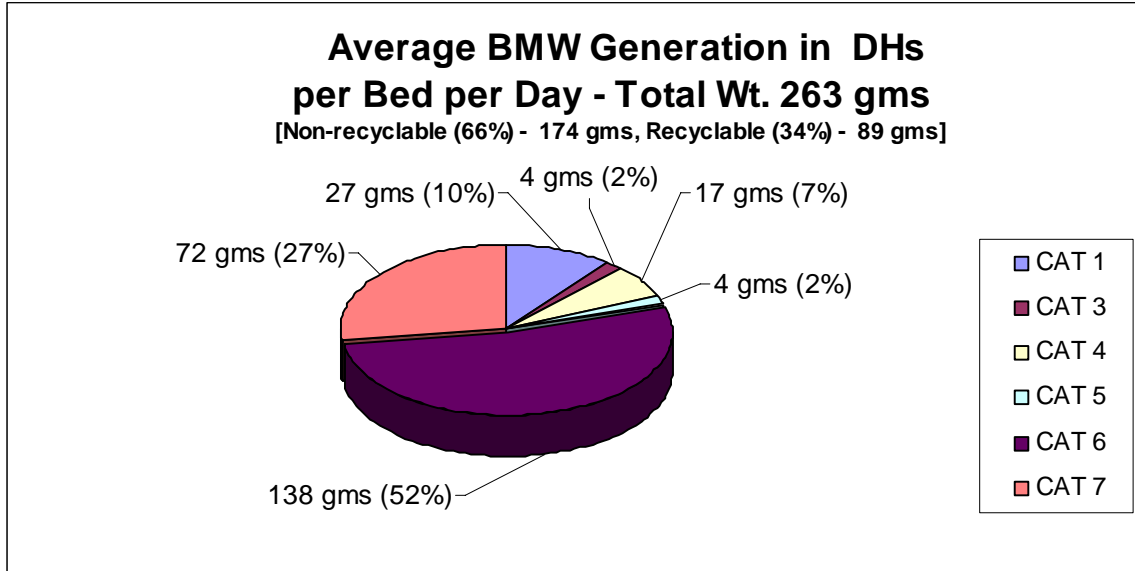

Medical College and Hospitals

Average bio-medical waste generation in 5 Medical Colleges and Hospitals namely Burdwan, Bankura Sammilani, Calcutta National, R. G. Kar and North Bengal MCHs:

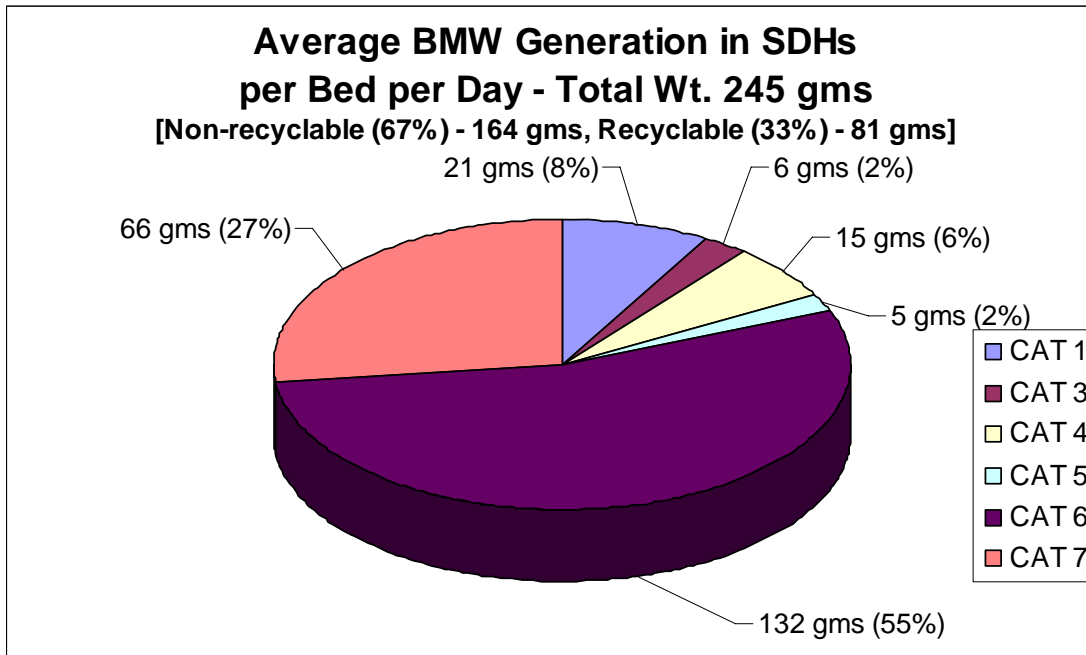

District Hospitals

Average bio-medical waste generation in 2 District Hospitals namely Barasat, North 24 Parganas District and Siliguri, Darjeeling District :

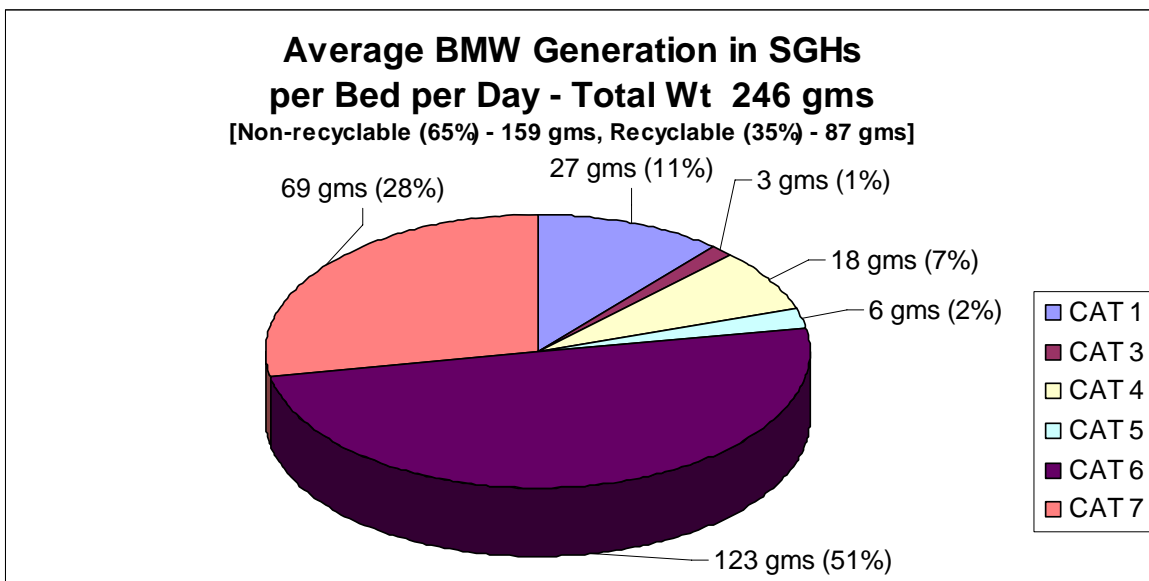

Sub-Divisional Hospitals

Average bio-medical waste generation in 2 Sub-Divisional Hospitals namely Bishnupur, Bankura District and Malbazar, Jalpaiguri District:

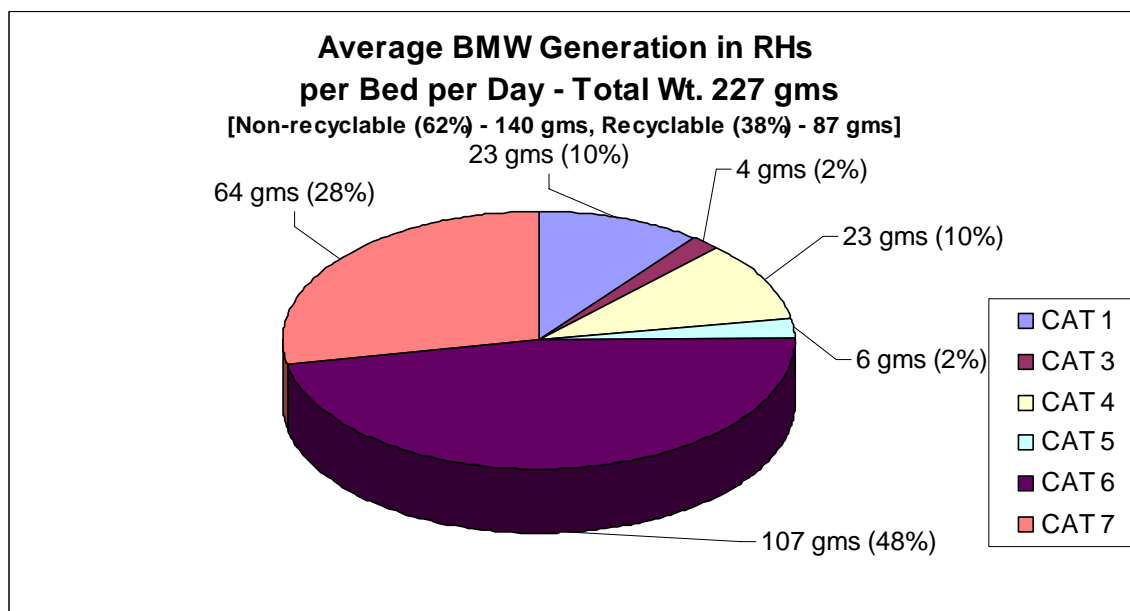

State General Hospitals

Average bio-medical waste generation in 2 State General Hospitals namely Vidyasagar, Kolkata District and Birpara, Jalpaiguri District:

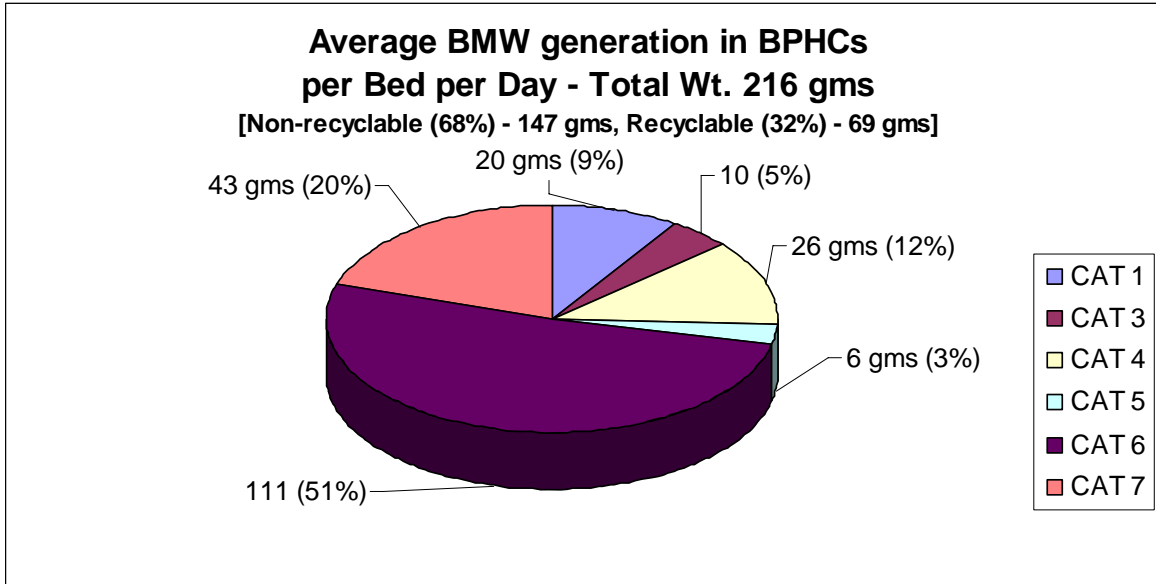

Rural Hospitals

Average bio-medical waste generation in 2 Rural Hospitals namely Taldangra, Bankura District and Kharibari, Darjeeling District:

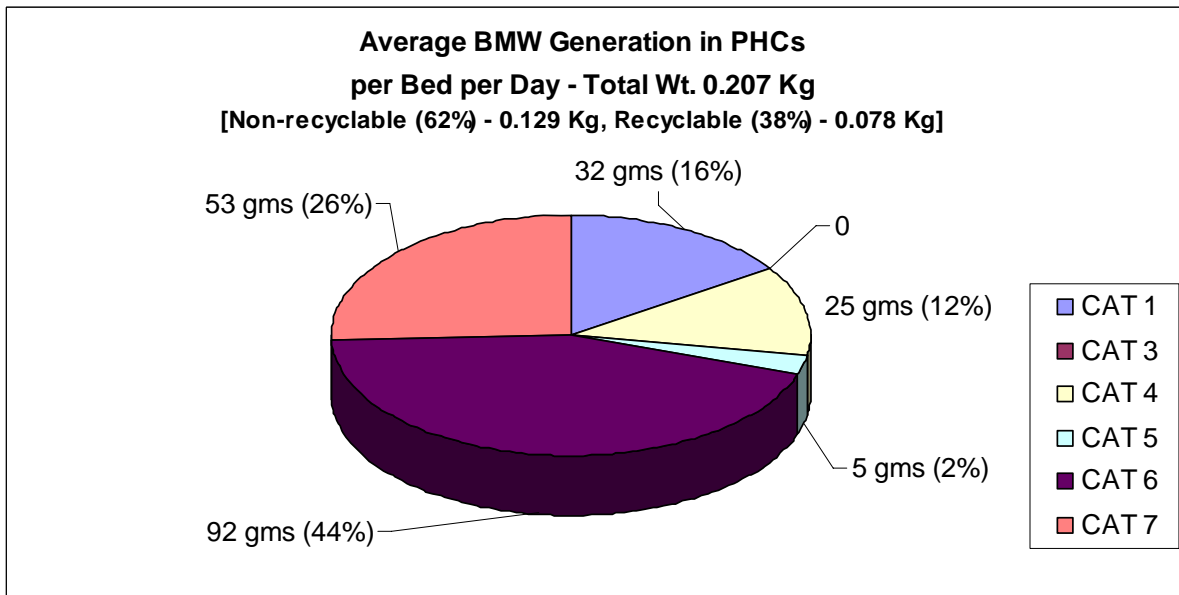

Block Primary Health Centres

Average bio-medical waste generation in 2 Block Primary Health Centres namely Anchuri, Bankura District and Matigara, Darjeeling District:

Primary Health Centres

Average bio-medical waste generation in 2 Primary Health Centres namely Panchmura, Bankura District and Bagdogra, Darjeeling District :

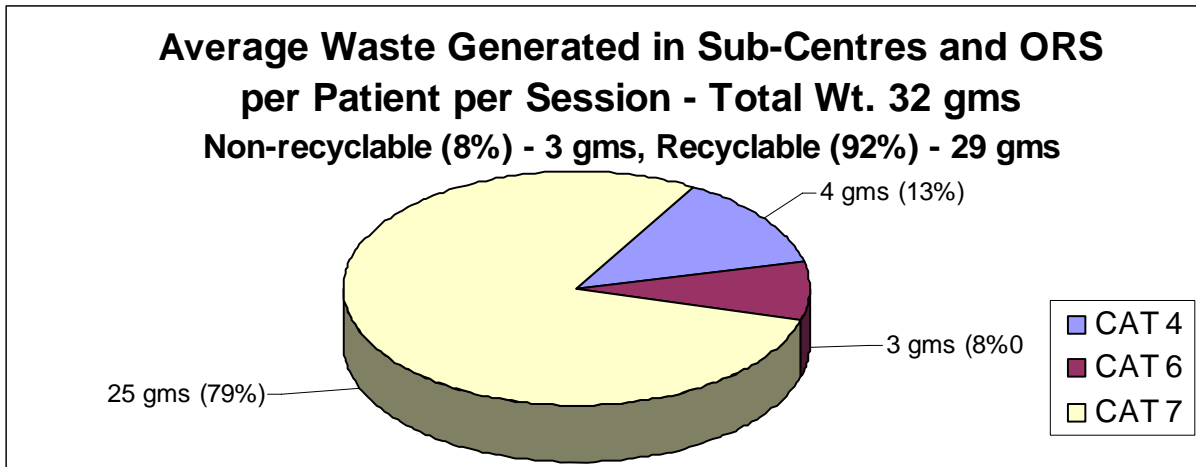

These facilities do not have any laboratory. So Cat 3 is not produced.

Sub Centres and Out-Reach Sessions

Average bio-medical waste generation in 2 Sub-Centres namely Anchuri, Bankura District and Kharibari, Darjeeling District with their Out-Reach Sessions:

These facilities do not generate any anatomical waste (Cat 1), laboratory waste (Cat 3) and discarded medicines (Cat 5). As mentioned earlier, here proportion of non-recyclable waste (Cat 6) is almost negligible with respect to recyclable waste like syringes, needles and glass and plastic vials etc. (Cat 4 and 7).

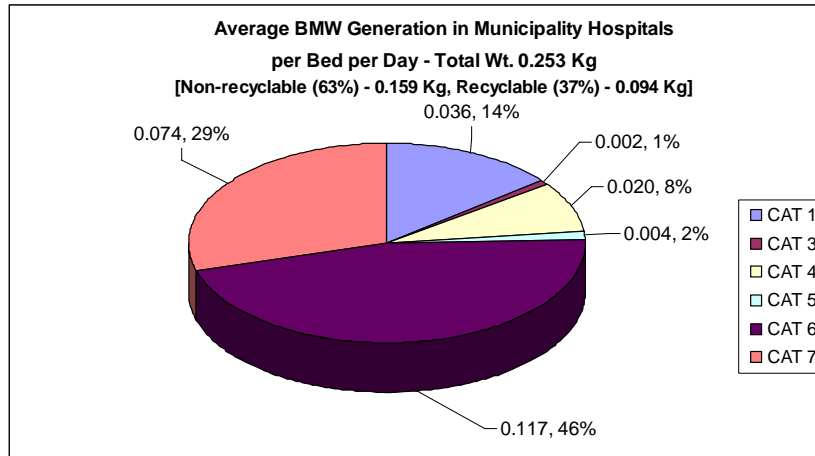

Municipal Health Care Units

These are smaller units having bed strength below 50 and moderate service facilities. The hospitals situated in municipal areas produce bio-medical waste per Bed per Day at an average of 253 gms and almost equal to that of government SDHs and SGHs. But in case of municipal maternity homes the generation is found higher (288 gms) due to larger generation of placenta (Cat 1) and soiled waste (Cat 6).

Municipality Hospitals

Average bio-medical waste generation in 2 Municipality Hospitals namely Dum Dum Specialty Hospital, Dum Dum Municipality and Vivekananda Palli Matrisadan and Hospital, Malda:

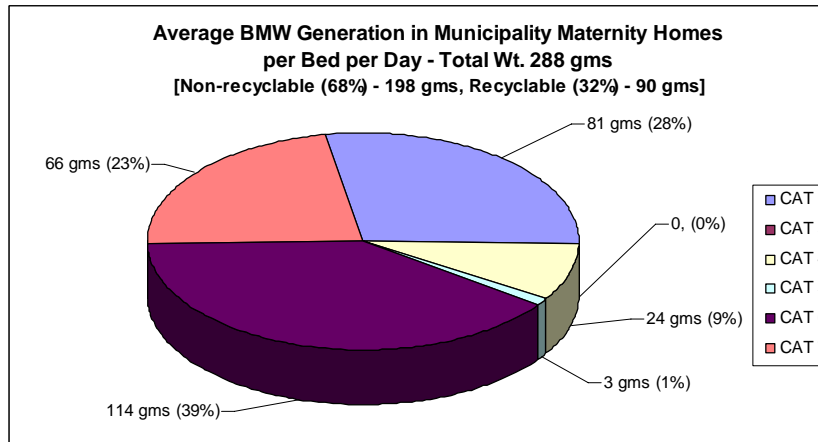

Laboratory waste (Cat 3) was available only in Dum Dum Municipality Hospital.

Municipal Maternity Homes

Average bio-medical waste generation in 2 Municipal Maternity Homes namely Balurghat Municipality and Matrisdan and Matrisadan, Titagarh Municipality :

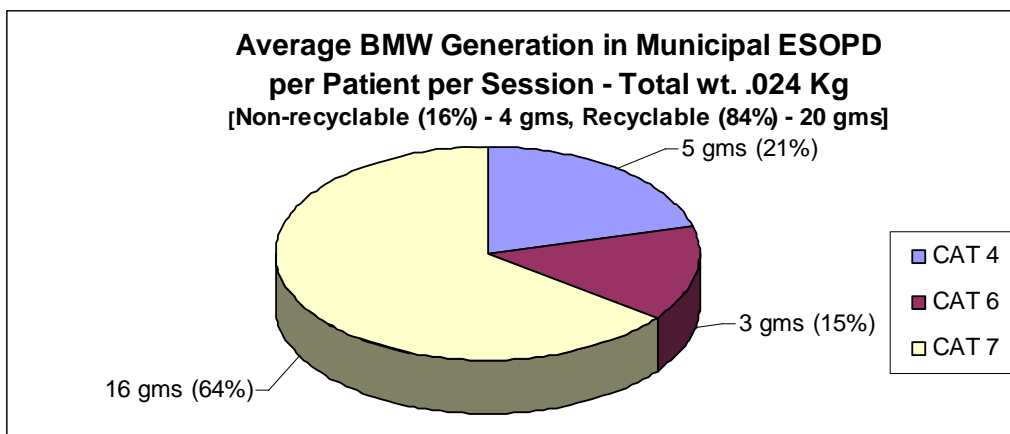

Laboratory waste (Cat 3) was not available in these HCUs.

Municipal Extended Specialised Out-Patient Department (ESOPD) and Sub-Centres(SC)

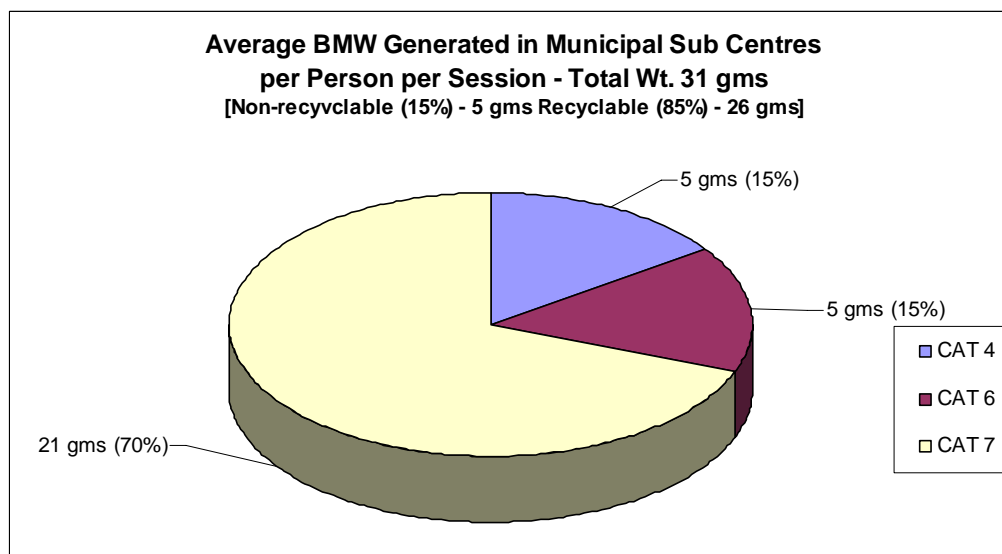

Like Sub-Centres in government HCUs, the municipal ESOPD and Sub-Centres do not generate any anatomical waste (Cat 1), Laboratory Waste (Cat 3) and discarded medicines (Cat 5). Non-recyclable waste (Cat 6) is also very negligible. Major portion of the waste is composed of syringes, needles, glass vials etc. Average waste generation in municipal clinics per Person per Session is 24 gms whereas in municipal immunization centres 27 gms.

Average bio-medical waste generation in 2 Municipal ESOPD namely Dum Dum Municipality Hospital ESOPD and Balurghat ESOPD :

Municipal Immunization Centres

Average bio-medical waste generation in 2 Municipal Immunization Centres namely Titagarh Municipality and Balurghat Municipality:

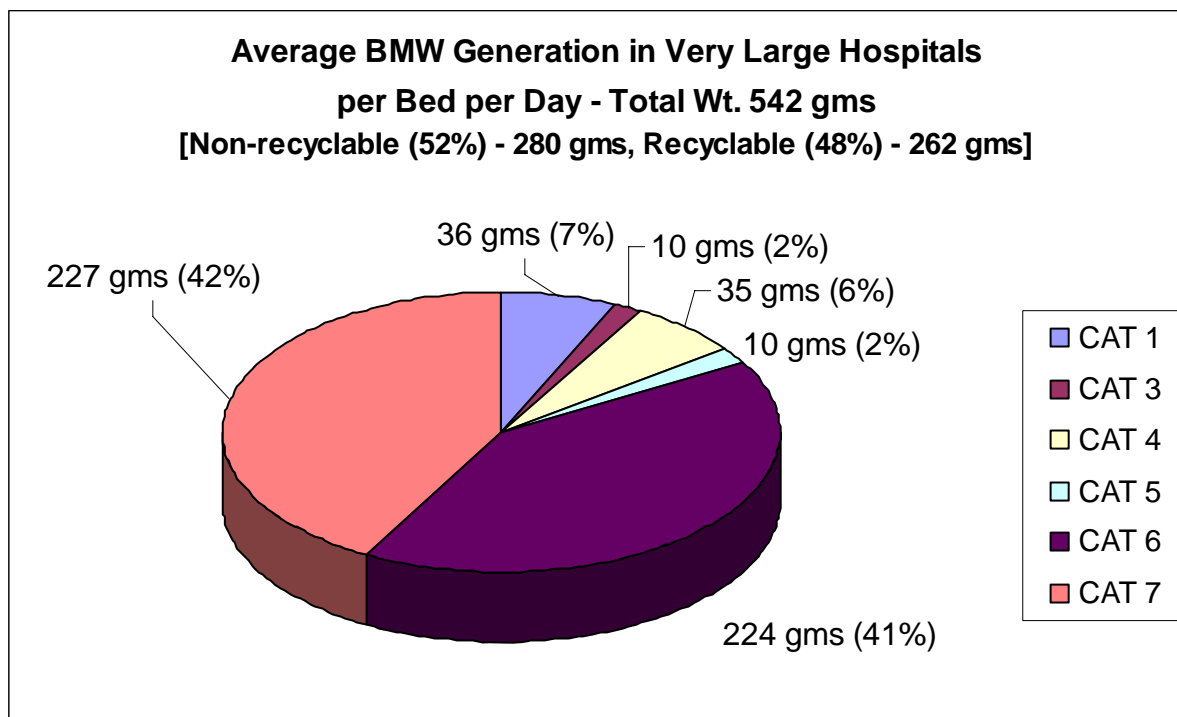

Private Hospitals

4 private hospitals of different categories by size viz., Very Large, Large, Medium and Small were taken up for study. It is observed that compared to government hospitals of similar bed strength, private hospitals generate considerably more bio-medical waste.

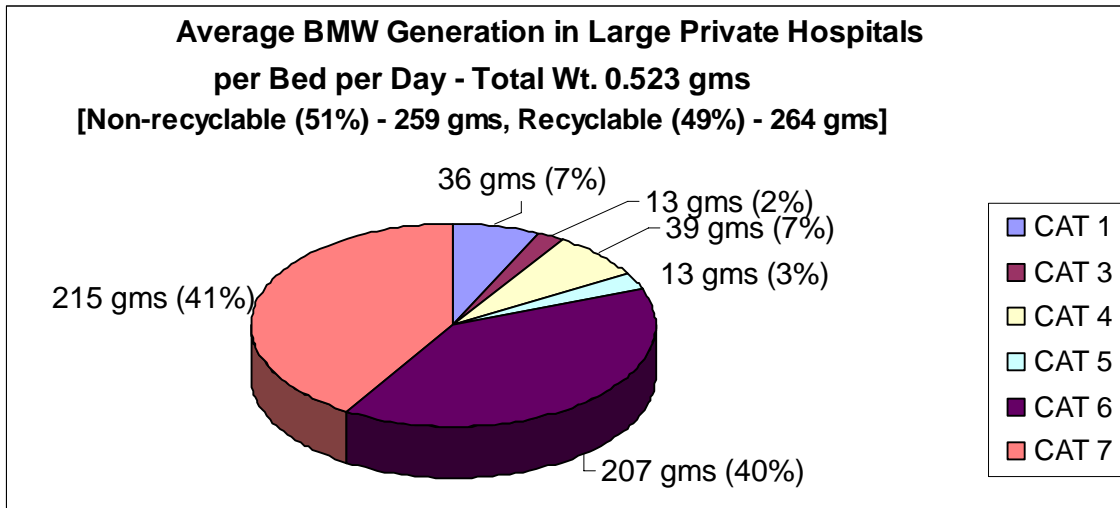

HCU Categories	Unit	Wt. of BMW generated (gms)
Very large Pvt. Hospital (300+ bed strength)	Per Bed per Day	542
Large Pvt. Hospital (100 to 300 bed strength)	Per Bed per Day	523
Medium Hospital (50 to 100 Bed Strength)	Per Bed per Day	371
Small Hospital (below 50 bed strength)	Per Bed per Day	312

Another feature of BMW generated in private hospitals is that the proportion of recyclable waste was found to be more compared to that of government and municipal hospitals. Generation of recyclable waste in private HCUs almost equals that of non-recyclable waste. Average bio-medical waste generation in the HCUs under study:

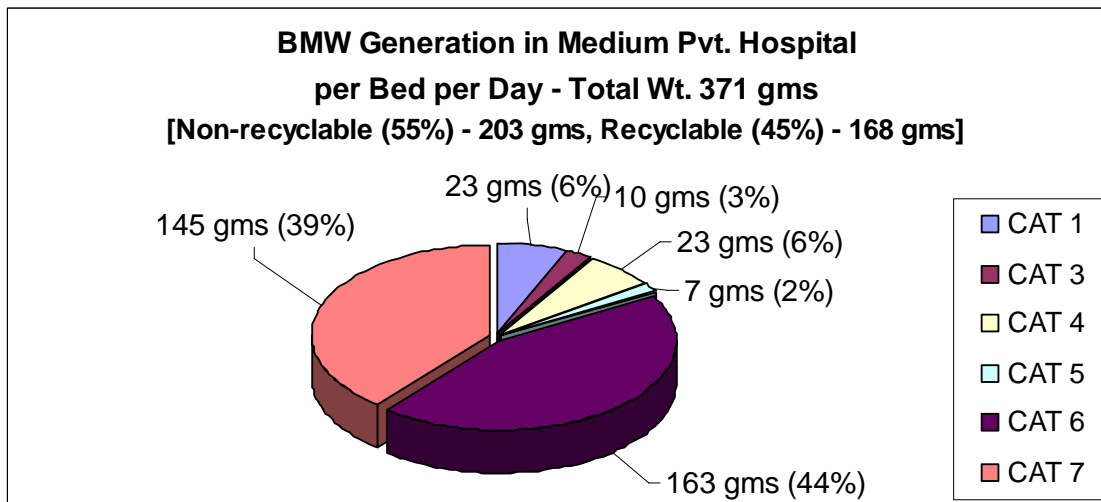

Very Large - AMRI, Kolkata

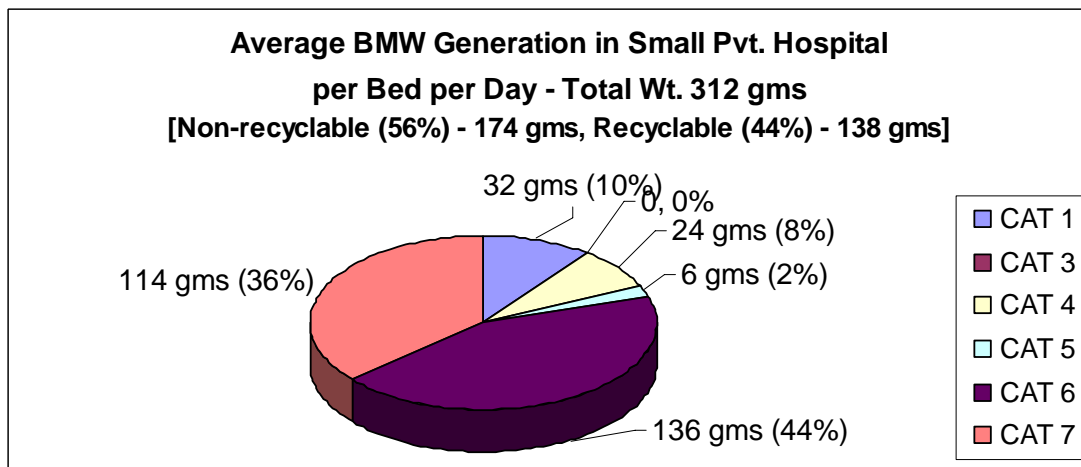

Large - Woodlands, Kolkata

Medium - Institute of Child Health, Kolkata

Small - Dr. M. N. C. Nursing Home, Bankura

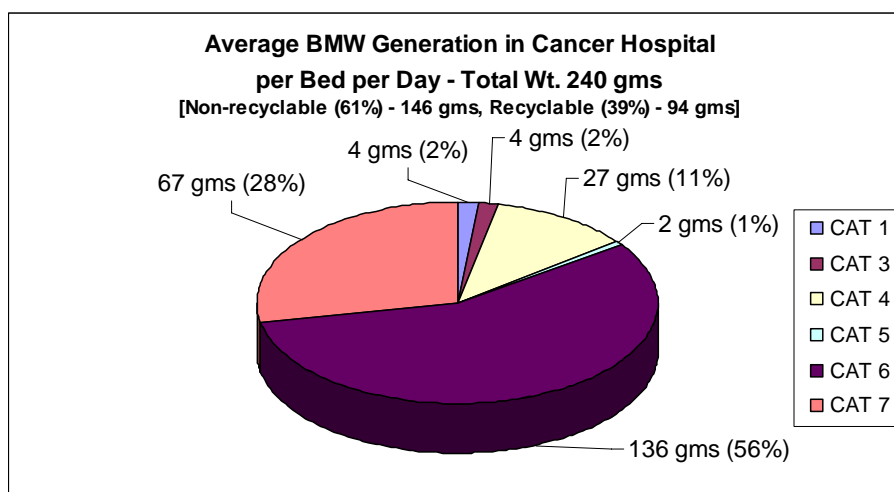

Specialty Hospitals

Quantification studies were conducted in 7 other specialty hospitals having special kind of treatment facilities. These were selected to ascertain the pattern and quantity of generation of bio-medical waste in similar group of hospitals. Average bio-medical waste generation in the HCUs under study:

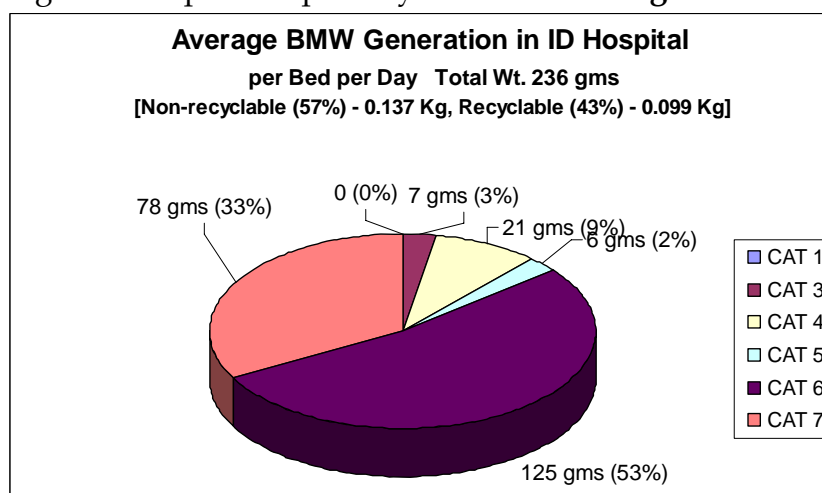

Chittaranjan National Cancer Research Institute

It was found that, due to absence of delivery cases, the proportion of anatomical waste (Cat 1) was much less with respect to that of general bedded hospitals. A minute amount is generated in surgeries. Proportions of other categories of waste are more or less similar to those of general government bedded hospitals. Generation per Bed per Day was 247 gms.

ID & BG Hospital

No anatomical waste (Cat 1) was produced here as there is no deliver case and surgery. Waste generated per Bed per Day found to be 236 gms.

K. S. Roy TB Hospital

Here also no anatomical waste was generated. Amounts of other bio-medical wastes were found to be less in comparison with that of general bedded government hospitals. A major part of treatment is based on oral drugs and injections.

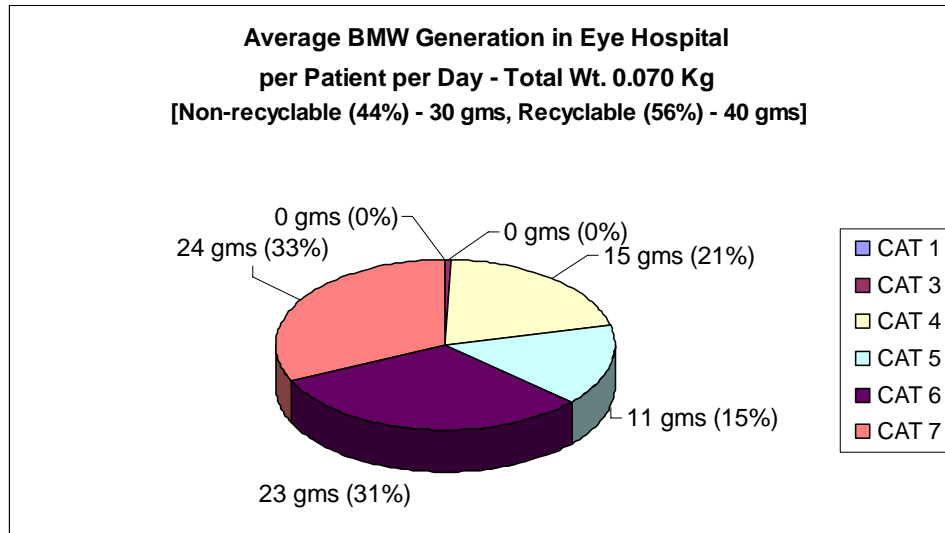

Premananda Memorial Leprosy Hospital

Leprosy hospitals generated BMW almost like general hospitals. But in absence of delivery cases the proportion of anatomical waste (Cat 1) is less. Also proportion of cotton and bandage (Cat 6) is at higher range.

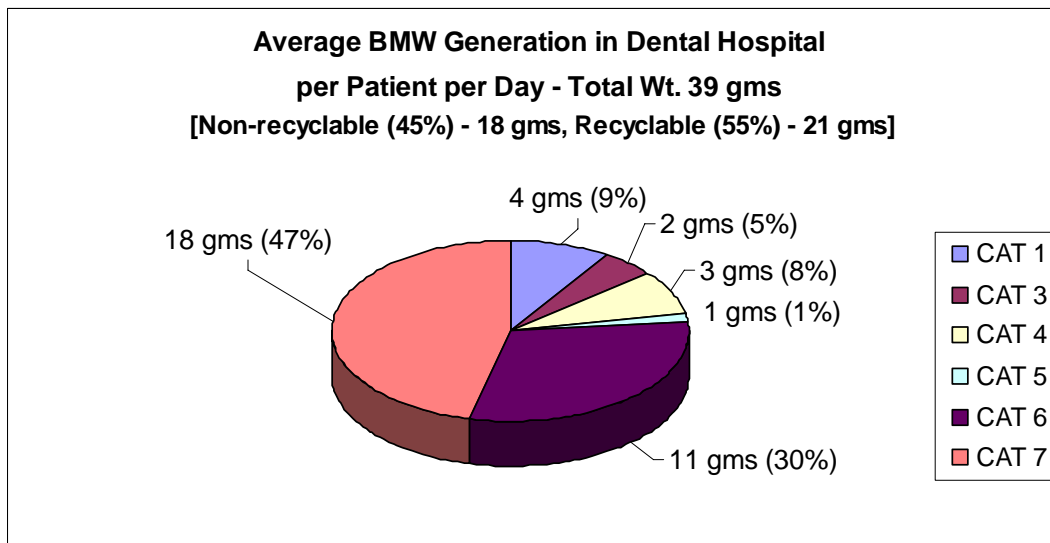

DISHA Eye Hospital and Research Centre

These are bedded facilities. But generally there is no arrangement of night-stay. The beds are used to provide support service and to keep the patient under medical observation for a few hours after operations (mainly cataract). So the waste has been quantified per operated patient per day. Anatomical waste was not found in the waste. Average waste generation in such hospitals is much less than the general bedded HCUs.

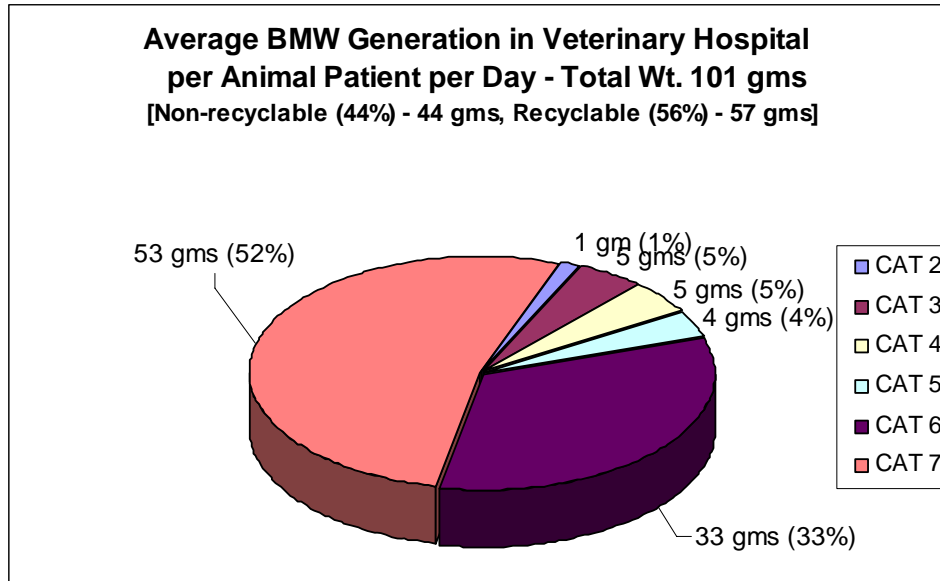

Dr. R. Ahmed Dental College and Hospital

There is no bedded facility. Anatomical waste is composed of extracted teeth. Total amount of waste is much less than general bedded HCUs.

Institute of Animal Health and Veterinary Biologicals

Animal waste (Cat 2) is generated only in such hospital. Animals are taken back by the owners after treatment. Generally the owners are instructed to take back saline bottles and support materials with the animals. Left out materials were found 101 gms per animal patients per day.

Pathological Laboratories

Some of the pathological laboratories (mainly large ones) have histopathology unit. A good amount of human body parts and tissue waste (Cat 1) is generated in these units. Other pathological laboratories, which do not have histopathology, do not produce Cat 1. Thus total production of Cat 1 from pathological laboratories is very small.

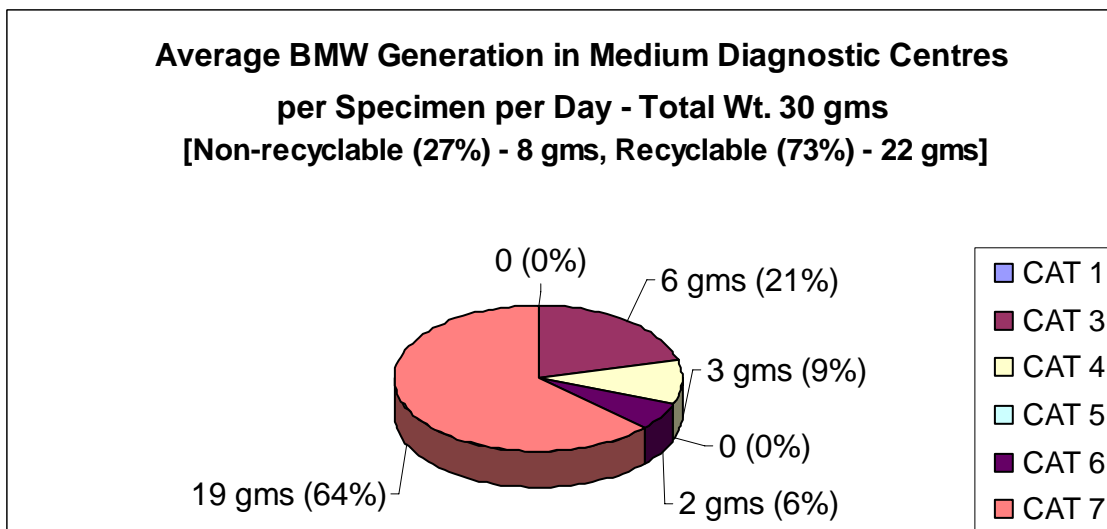

Large - Drs. Trivedi & Roy Diagnostic Laboratory

Average waste generation was found 37 gms per Sample per Day

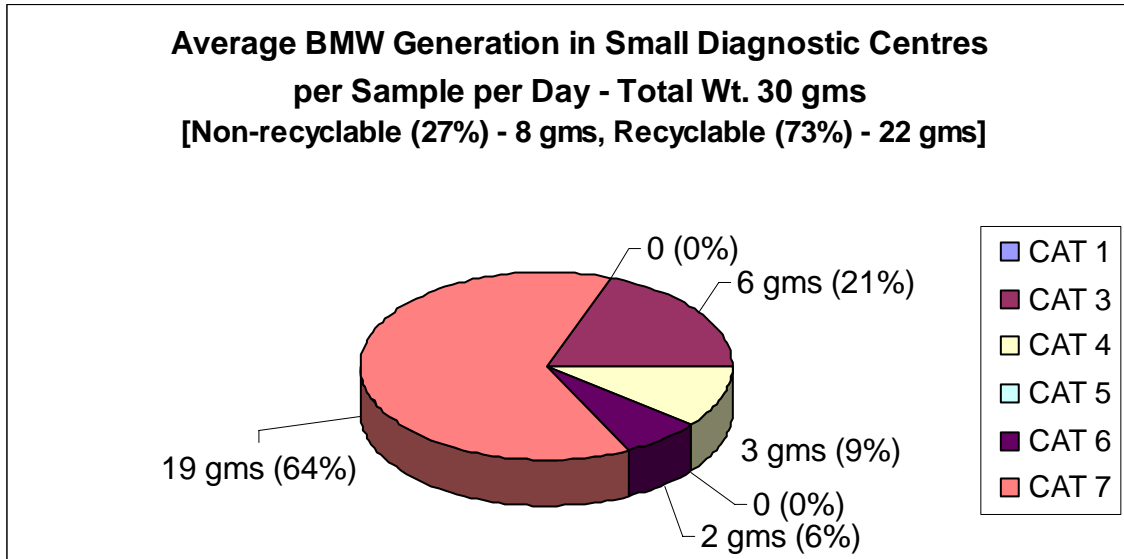

Medium - Narendra Seva Trust

Average waste generation was found 30 gms per Sample per Day

Small - Ramkrishna Pathological Laboratory

Average waste generation was found 30 gms per Sample per Day

On the basis of these average quantities, annual generation of BMW in three categories in the state has been quantified.

A. Bedded HCUs

In case of bedded HCUs, district-wise BMW generation has been calculated considering average generation per bed per day of that specific category, total bed strength of HCUs of that category and their functioning for 365 days in a year. But in special category there are particularly Eye and Dental Hospitals, which generally remain closed on Sundays and holidays. In those cases their functioning has been calculated on the basis of functioning of 300 days per year. Generally these HCUs have beds for day care

B. Non-Bedded HCUs

In case of non-bedded government HCUs there are 10356 rural and 2100 urban immunization units as per data furnished by the Health & Family Welfare Department. Around 50 sessions are held in each unit in a year (vide Memo No. 482/IS-74/2001 (Pt IV) dated 12.11.10). In each session average number of injection of vaccines administered has been assessed as 30.

In case of non-bedded HCUs, under municipalities (in urban areas), average number of patients per working day has been taken as 50. They function twice in a week. Hence their amount of generation has been calculated on the basis of functioning of 104 days in a year. In case of Extended Special Out-Patient Department (ESOPD) of the municipalities, average number of patients per working day has been considered as 30. Generation of BMW has been calculated considering their functioning everyday except Sundays and holidays i.e, approximately 300 days.

Names of these non-bedded HCUs have not been mentioned in the Inventory chapter. However, district-wise number of non-bedded government HCUs has been ascertained from data available from Health & Family Welfare Dept (reference cited above). District-wise number of municipal sub-centres and ESOPD has been ascertained from State Urban Development Agency (vide SUDA-Health/539/09/648 dated 23.2.2010).

C. Pathological Laboratories

Among different kinds of diagnostic centres (data available from WBPCB) only pathological laboratories have been considered for quantification of BMW generation. Diagnostic centres exclusively deal with X-Ray, Scan, other radiological examinations etc. have been excluded considering they do not produce BMW. However centres having both radiological and pathological examination facilities have been considered as pathological laboratories.

Efforts were made to figure out exact number of different sizes of pathological laboratories viz., Large, Medium and Small. Data available with WBPCB, State Health & Family Welfare Office and different CMOH offices were consulted but required figures could not be ascertained. Though average generation of BMW per test sample could be ascertained from quantification study of selected pathological laboratories, average number of tests in such laboratories could not be ascertained. However district-wise names and numbers of diagnostic centres including pathological laboratories were available from WBPCB data. To assess generation of BMW in pathological laboratories two sets of assumptions have been made:

- (a) Number of tests for Large - 2000 per month
 Medium - 500 per month
 Small - 250 per month
- (b) 4 Large laboratories in Kolkata, 1 Large laboratory in Siliguri.
 In other districts 20% medium and 80% small of total number of pathological laboratories.

Other Major Sources

Data from WBPCB includes only one veterinary hospital in the state namely Institute of Animal Health and Veterinary Biologicals in Kolkata, where quantification study has been conducted. There may be other HCUs of this category but authentic source was not available. This has not been included in summary quantification.

WBPCB data shows two forensic laboratories in Kolkata one belongs to State Government and the other belongs to Central Government. Due to some problems regarding BMW management, the authority of the State Forensic Laboratory requested the survey team to visit. Quantification could not be made due to the mode of preservation of waste in such laboratories. However an average generation of 250 Kg of Cat 1 BMW per month has been ascertained from the authority but has not been included in summary. Other major sources like health camps, blood banks, blood donation camps, private clinics also remain excluded in the Summary Quantification.

District-wise quantification summary in detail may be seen in Summary Quantification annexure. Some salient features will be available from the following:

In the above estimate it is seen that annual increase in population has been estimated as 0.87% to 0.94% per year. Though there is a huge shortfall in number of existing basic health care facilities with respect to population, a very conservative estimate is made regarding increase of BMW generation i.e, 1% increase per year up to 2020.

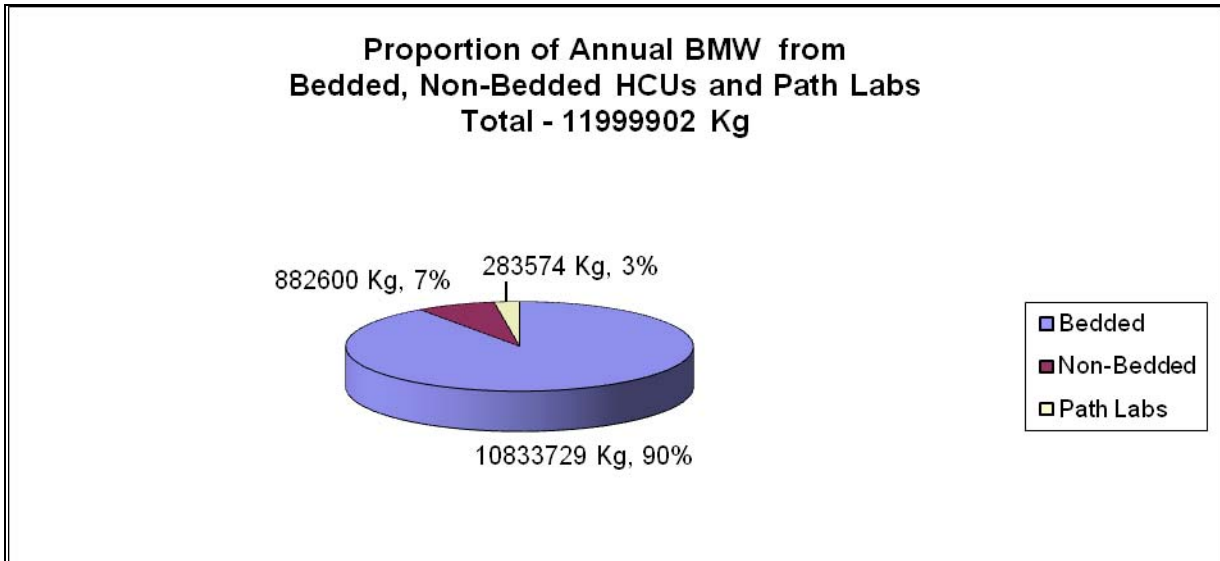

Hence the estimated increase may be seen in the following table and chart:

Project Increase in BMW Generation

2010	12119901

Thus projected annual BMW generation in 2020 may be estimated as 13500 MT.

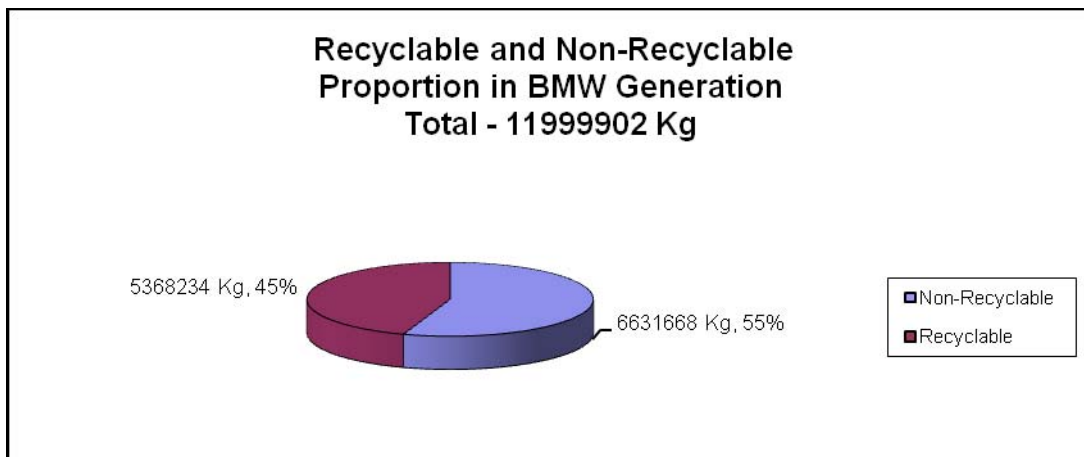

Proportion of BMW generated from different sources :

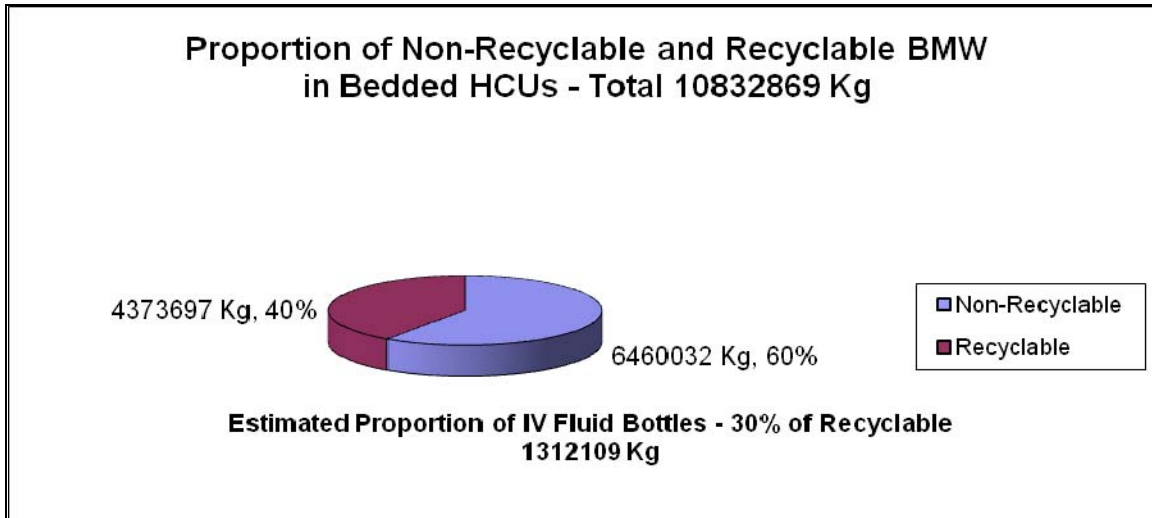

It is important to note that 7% of total BMW is generated in rural government and urban municipal non-bedded HCUs. These facilities are still not connected with any treatment facility. Individually each of these HCUs generate little amount of BMW but by their sheer number, as a whole, they produce a huge amount of BMW. We shall discuss how these facilities can be connected to treatment facilities in a following chapter 'Other Options'.

Proportion of Recyclable and Non-Recyclable BMW :

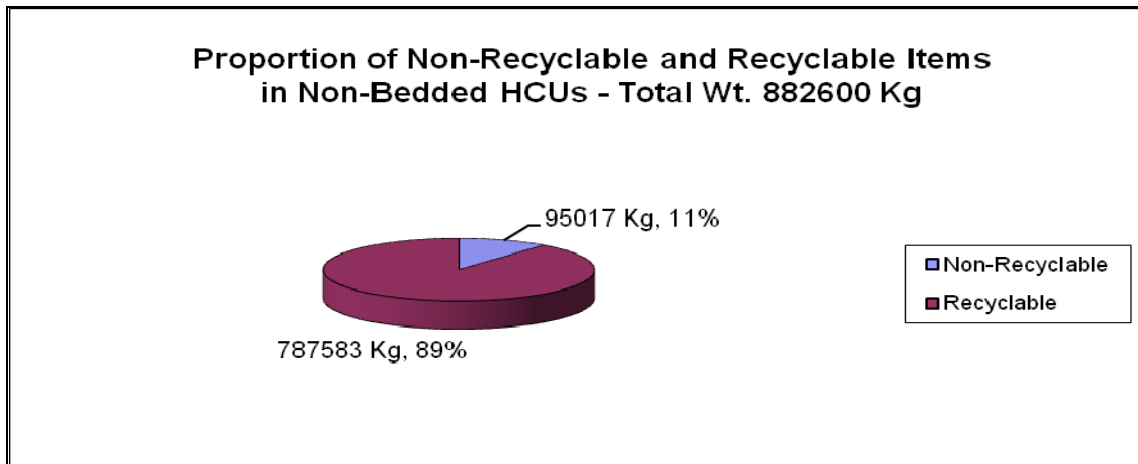

Generally plastic, glass and metal in BMW are recyclable items while others are considered as non-recyclable (though cloth, linen etc. may be recycled). For calculation of proportion of recyclable and non-recyclable items only categories 4 and 7 have been included in recyclable and categories 1, 2, 3, 5 and 6 have been considered as non-recyclable.

Considering the total waste from different categories of HCUs, it may be noted that 45% of BMW is found recyclable whereas 55% is found non-recyclable. However in case of bedded HCUs proportion of soiled waste is more. In bedded HCUs proportion of recyclable waste is only 40% of total BMW generated. Again it has been estimated that 30% of recyclable waste in bedded HCUs is composed of IV fluid bottles

It is interesting to note that in case of non-bedded facilities bulk of the BMW (around 90%) is recyclable.

This indicates that a major portion of BMW from non-bedded HCUs may go to recycling market without being treated if these are not brought under coverage of treatment facilities. Treatment facilities also would welcome the nature of this BMW as there is a common complaint of all the facility operators that they receive disproportionately larger amount of non-recyclable BMW items. So their revenue earning through sale of treated recyclable items gets reduced.

PRESENT STATUS OF TREATMENT AND DISPOSAL

Treatment and Disposal of Bio-Medical Waste in West Bengal

Efforts towards safe and proper treatment and disposal of bio-medical waste in West Bengal date back to the 1990s, even prior to the introduction of the Bio-Medical Waste (Management and Handling) Rules, 1998.

The first initiative extending to the whole of the state was taken by the Health and Family Welfare Department of the Government of West Bengal for management of bio-medical waste in the secondary level (District, Sub-Divisional, State-General and Rural) Government hospitals under West Bengal State Health System Development Project (WBHSDP). With the introduction of the BMW Rules in 1998 WBPCB became the designated authority to approve and monitor the BMW management in the state. The years that followed witnessed establishment of a number of treatment and disposal facilities with systems of segregated collection, treatment and disposal of bio-medical waste that covers a major part of the state.

During the first phase of this period two common bio-medical waste treatment facilities at Kalyani Jawharlal Nehru Memorial Hospital and Diamond Harbour Sub-divisional Hospital, several stand alone treatment facilities and a good number of in-campus disposal pits were installed in some government hospitals. Efforts were also made to involve municipalities and municipal corporations to develop disposal facilities to bury a portion of bio-medical waste. Some of the municipalities and Kolkata Municipal Corporation constructed common burial pits to dispose of biomedical waste.

But the practice of disposal of all categories of bio-medical waste into common or in-campus pits did not corroborate with the BMW Rules, 1998. In course of time all the municipal common pits became defunct. In-campus pits in government hospitals had also been misused and most of those are now filled up.

At later stage several common bio-medical waste treatment and disposal facilities (CBWTF) in compliance with the Rules have come up. These are privately owned facilities. But apart from Kolkata and Howrah, most of the health care units were out of waste management regime till 2007.

Initiative of WBPCB for improvement of compliance of the Rules

The West Bengal Pollution Control Board had been pursuing individual health care units as well units under the Health & Family Welfare Department (H&FW), Govt. of WB for introduction of bio-medical waste management at all levels. Repeated requests were made for submission of application for 'Bio-medical Waste Authorization', 'Consent to Operate' and to ensure treatment of the Bio-medical waste.

A monitoring committee to oversee the implementation of the Bio-medical Waste Management & Handling Rules in the State Govt. Hospitals had been formed involving the Joint Director (PH & CD), Health & Family Welfare Dept., Govt. of WB, representatives of WBPCB, Kolkata Municipal Corporation & Environment Dept., Govt. of WB.

A number of meetings had been conducted by the Board with the H&FW Dept., Govt. of WB and Chief Medical Officers of Health of various districts to improve compliance status with respect to the submission of the BMW authorisation application, segregation at source and ensuring treatment of BMW.

Of late, during the study period, the H&FW Dept., Govt. of W.B. took a policy decision to make every government health care units (up to PHC level) responsible for signing agreement with the respective CBWTF of the region. The department also provided budgetary provision for all the government health care units for management cost of BMW vide its Circular No. HF/O/MS/316/W-99/2008 dtd 28.5.09. Authority to handle the budgetary provision has been conferred to the heads of the HCUs upto Block Medical Health Officer (BMOH) level.

Simultaneously another important policy was adopted that the CMOH will not issue health license under Clinical Establishment Act to private health care units, until and unless the units possess valid authorisation of the WBPCB and WBPCB will not issue authorisation to the health care unit unless they ensure treatment of their BMW either by their own facilities or through joining the available common treatment facility.

Through these initiatives the compliance status of the health care units, both Govt. & Private, has improved a lot. More and more health care units are joining the CBWTFs and the situation is in rapid transition.

Present Status of BMW Treatment and Disposal Facilities

Study was conducted to assess the functioning of the treatment and disposal facilities, which are in operation at present.

Study Objective:

1. Review of the existing segregation, treatment and disposal practices.
2. Preparation of inventory of treatment and disposal facilities in West Bengal.
3. Locating coverage area or unit of the facilities.
4. Recording the process of treatment of waste different categories.
5. Quantify t of waste of different categories treated by the facilities.

6. Compare the quantity of treatment with respect to capacity of the facilities and waste generated within specific areas.
7. Assess further requirement of treatment facilities with reference to location.

Detailed Methodology:

1. All the treatment facilities (both common and stand alone) of the state have been visited and records have been collected to assess the status of treatment and disposal at various levels.
2. Records regarding regularity of functioning, quantity of treatment and disposal were checked and collected.
3. Records were corroborated with the report submitted to WBPCB by the treatment facilities wherever possible.

Prescribed Procedure of Treatment as per BMW Rules:

Before assessing the status of treatment and disposal facilities let us have a look into the prescribed procedure for different categories of BMW in Bio-medical Waste (Management and Handling) Rules 1998 :

Category	Type of Waste	Option
Category 1	Human Anatomical	Incineration, Deep Burial
Category 2	Animal Waste	Incineration, Deep Burial
Category 3	Microbiology & Biotechnology	Autoclaving, Microwave, Incineration
Category 4	Sharps	Chemical Disinfection / Autoclave / Microwave & Mutilation / Shredding
Category 5	Discarded Medicines, Cytotoxic Drugs	Incineration / Destruction & Disposal in Secured Landfill
Category 6	Solid (soiled)	Incineration / Autoclaving / Microwave
Category 7	Solid (recyclable)	Chemical Treatment / Autoclaving/ Microwave
Category 8	Liquid	Chemical Treatment / Discharge in Drains
Category 9	Incineration Ash	Disposal in Secured Landfill
Category 10	Chemical (Liquid & Solid)	Chemical Treatment and Discharge in Drains for Liquid and Disposal in Secured Landfill for Solid

Colour Coding and Type of Containers for Segregation and Disposal of BMW

The Rules prescribe different colour codes of bags and containers (multiple options) for particular category of waste in relation to their treatment and disposal option. To simplify the operation of treatment and disposal, this is particularly important to club together different categories in some common colours matching with respective treatment and disposal options. However, let us have a look at the prescribed options before assessing the existing practices.

Colour Coding	Type of Container - Waste Category	Treatment Options
Yellow	Plastic Bag - Cat 1, 2, 3 and 6	Incineration / Deep Burial
Red	Disinfected Container / Plastic Bag - Cat 3, 6 and 7	Autoclaving / Microwaving / Chemical Treatment
Blue / White	Disinfected Container / Plastic Bag - Cat 4 and 7	Autoclaving / Microwaving / Chemical Treatment and Destruction / Shredding
Black	Plastic Bag - Cat 5, 9 and 10 (solid)	Disposal in Secured Landfill

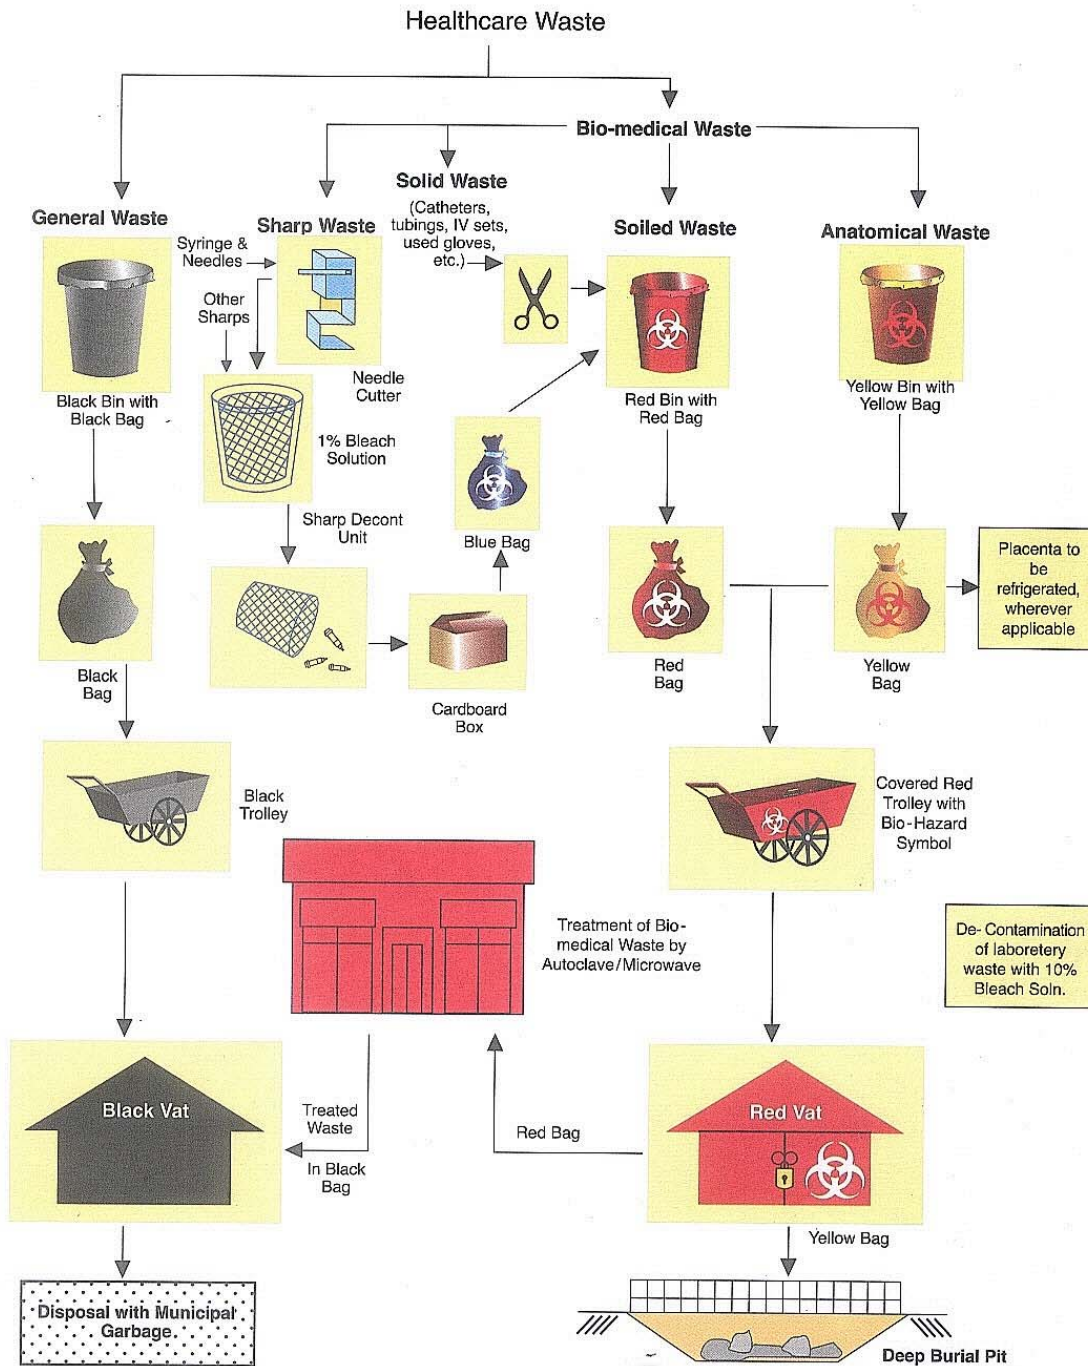

Existing Practices of Segregation, Treatment and Disposal

As stated above, BMW management was first initiated by the Dept. of Health & Family Welfare (DoH&F) under the WBHSDP mostly in secondary level government hospitals. Later the system was extended to some selected Block Primary Health Centres (BPHCs) and Primary Health Centres (PHCs). There was no option for incineration in prescribed system of WBHSDP. As there was no incineration, issue of disposal of incineration ash (Cat 9) did not arise. Treatment of liquid waste (Cat 8) has not been taken up at all, in absence of infrastructural support (like unidirectional drainage system etc.) in almost all the government hospitals. This holds good for liquid portion of chemical waste (Cat 10). Solid portion of chemical waste (Cat 10) was also not taken into account as solid chemical waste is rarely separated. Procedure of segregation was followed as below :

Colour Coding	Container - Waste Category	Treatment Options
Yellow	Plastic Bag - Cat 1, 2	Burial in campus or common pit
Red	Plastic Bag - Cat 3, 6 and 7	Autoclaving / Microwaving / Burial in campus or common pit
Blue	Puncture Proof Container / Plastic Bag - Cat 4	Chemical Treatment/ Autoclaving / Microwaving

The system had one major departure from the Rules. The bulk amount of BMW is composed of Cat 6 and Cat 7. Among these two, Cat 7 is composed mainly of plastic waste and this should not go into burial pit according to the Rules. But WBHSDP procedure allowed it where treatment facilities were not available.

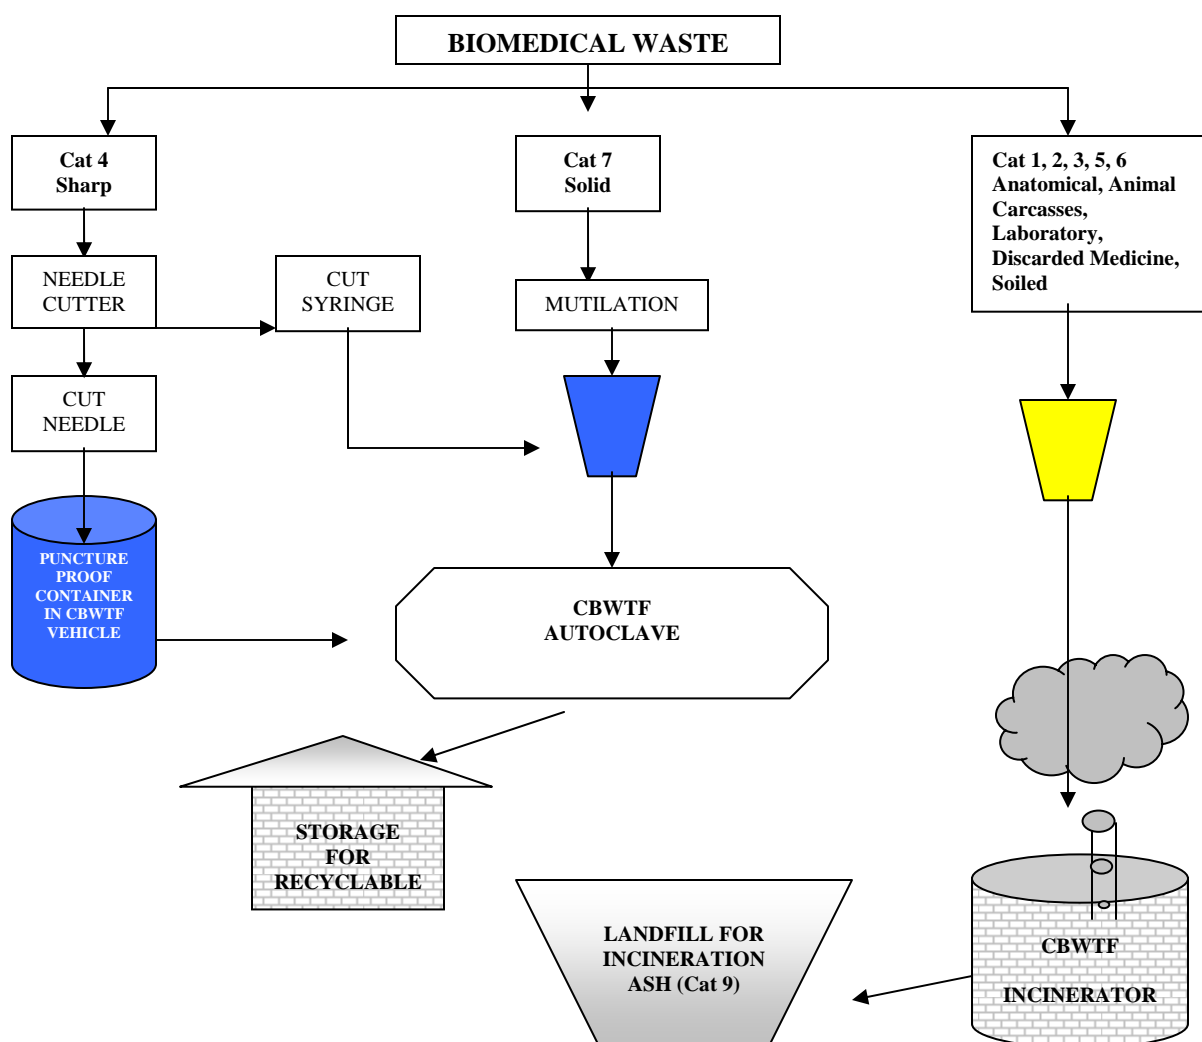

The Flow Chart of the procedure suggested by WBHSDP for HCUs having treatment facility is presented below :

Apart from the WBHSDP procedure, there was no standard operational procedure of segregation and colour coding for other categories of health care units. Since installation of the private common bio-medical waste treatment facilities (CBWTF), standard procedure is slowly being established. Here also Cat 8 and Cat 10 have been excluded as stated above. The prescribed procedure of CBWTFs is as follows:

Colour Coding	Type of Container - Waste Category	Treatment Options
Yellow	Plastic Bag - Cat 1, 2, 3, 5, 6	Incineration
Blue	Plastic Bag - Cat 7	Autoclaving
White	Puncture Proof Container - Cat 4	Chemical Treatment/ Autoclaving
Black	Plastic Bag - Cat 9	Disposal in Secured Landfill

FLOW CHART FOR BMW MANAGEMENT AT COMMON BIOMEDICAL WASTE TREATMENT FACILITY

But the former procedure of segregation as per guideline framed by the WBHSDP is still being followed in many government HCUs having common and stand-alone treatment facilities where incinerator is not available. Of course, the procedure of segregation as per guideline framed under the WBHSDP is gradually being phase out.

Common Bio-medical Waste Treatment Facilities (CBWTF)

At present there are 7 CBWTFs in the state. Five among those are larger facilities having capacity to treat BMW of beds ranging from 15000 to 30000 per day. These are all private facilities. They have incinerators, autoclaves and shredders. Their areas of operation cover specific districts ranging from 2 to 6. There are two other small CBWTFs attached with Kalyani JNM Hospital and Diamond Harbour Sub-divisional Hospital. The first one has an autoclave whereas the second one has a microwave. These are small facilities catering some health care units situated within the concerned municipal area. Their capacity is not derived with bed unit. However, exact number of beds they cater, has been ascertained. Only one CBWTF that is West Bengal Waste Management Facility has designated secured landfill for disposal of incineration ash (Cat 9). All other facilities having incinerator send incineration ash to this facility for disposal.

Waste Bengal Waste Management Ltd., Haldia has a common incinerator which is to be used for both hazardous and bio-medical waste. Apart from the incinerator they have the waste Autoclave and Shredder machine.

All the three SembRamky Facilities operate in prescribed manner. These facilities incinerate and disinfect according to the colour of the bags / containers they receive.

Greenzen Facility started operation in March 2009 and is having very little amount of waste. But its customer base is expanding. Still it appears inconvenient to cover 6 districts by a single facility.

For all these common facilities, there is no further practice of secondary segregation inside the facilities. As almost all the HCUs dispose of mixed waste, a large amount of plastic items particularly PVC medical equipments find their way in incinerators. According to the Rules chlorinated plastic should not be incinerated. Moreover a slight amount of mercury may be present in BMW, as there is no appropriate arrangement of source segregation or collection of mercury waste. Incineration of PVC and mercury waste may be fatal for human health. Monitoring on presence of dioxin and mercury in the vicinity of these facilities may be conducted.

* Amount of waste treated in the facilities in 2009 has been ascertained from the report submitted to the WBPCB.

 Capacity of these facilities in relation to bed strength could not be ascertained. However actual number of beds catered by these facilities has been ascertained from respective HCUs.

Stand Alone Bio-medical Waste Treatment Facilities

There are 14 operating stand alone facilities in the state. Among these 10 facilities are owned by the Health & Family Welfare Dept., one belongs to Durgapur Steel Plant two are privately owned and one belongs to National Institute of Cholera and Enteric Diseases (NICED), a central government research organisation. All these facilities treat BMW generated in self units. All these units have autoclaves except in case of two facilities. Medical College, Kolkata has a microwave. NICED has an incinerator (this is the only on-site incinerator in the purview of the study).

All the district hospitals owned by the health department were supposed to have their own stand alone facilities. But only those facilities which were functioning during the study period have been taken into account.

These facilities treat varied categories of BMW. Facilities of Siuri Sadar Hospital, Coochbihar MJN Hospital, Imambarā Sadar Hospital, Malda DH, Murshidabad DH and Shaktinagar Hospital DH, having autoclaves, treat BMW categories 3, 4, 6, 7. The respective units also generate Cat 1 but this category cannot be treated in autoclave. Cat 1 should be disposed of in burial pits as per Rules. But all these units are in municipal areas where common burial pits were either constructed or were to be constructed but now none is functioning. There is no arrangement of campus pit also. Hence disposal of Cat 1 in these units is not done in proper manner. It has been ascertained that some of the HCUs have arrangements with a pharmaceutical company (Albert Davis) who collects placenta (part of Cat 1 - only from first or second babies of mothers) but any dependable record regarding this was not available anywhere. However, in accordance with the departmental order dated 28.5.2009, all these facilities will have to enter into agreement with respective CBWTFs, when problem of disposal of Cat 1 will be solved.

At present Howrah DH, Barasat DH, Burdwan MCH, Medical College, DSP Hospital, Arobinda Seva Kendra, Vivekananda Mission Ashram Netra Niramay Niketan and NICED Kolkata use their facilities for treatment of a part of their BMW. They have agreement with respective CBWTF for the rest portion of BMW. In NICED, where examinations are carried on living specimens, incinerator is used only for treatment of Cat 2. All other categories of BMW (Cat 3, 4, 6 and 7) are handed over to CBWTF. In seven other facilities only Cat 4 and 7 are treated in autoclaves. All other categories of BMW (Cat 1, 3, 5 and 6) are handed over to CBWTF.

Amount of waste treatment in these facilities have been calculated on the basis of average generation in those categories and bed strength of respective HCUs and the categories of BMW they treat. Only in case of NICED (no bed strength) calculations have been made on the data of incineration ash (as supplied to WBPCB by NICED), projecting to total of Cat 2 treated.

As the operational areas of the important large CBWTFs include more than one number of districts, there is no scope of calculating amount of district-wise treatment of BMW treatment. However region-wise amount of treatment derived from the data of both common and stand-alone facilities tabled above.

Thus as a whole 28% of BMW generated in the bedded, non-bedded HCUs and pathological laboratories is being treated. If we consider all the BMW generation, the proportion of treatment will definitely be lower. It is to be noted that maximum proportion (42%) of BMW treatment is taking place in South Region (Kolkata, Howrah and South 24 Parganas) whereas lowest proportion (5%) of treatment is taking place in the adjacent South-West region (West and East Midnapore). The following chart shows the situation at a glance:

Comparison between BMW generation and treatment capacity available in the state :

Considering region-wise present generation and existing capacity of treatment available in the state the following can be derived :

BMW Generation and Treatment Capacity
Region	Generation in Kg	Capacity in Kg	% Capacity w.r.t Generation
South-West Region	859336	1831132	213
South Region	4547845	2841123	62
Central Region	3115088	2987149	96
West Region	2046127	2838446	139
North Region	1431507	1453143	102
	11999903	11944861	100

It is very interesting to note that as a whole BMW treatment capacity available in the state is 100% of its present generation. But that does not indicate that the capacity is enough in all the regions. In South region already capacity falls much short of production, in Central Region falls short, in North region almost saturated whereas it is largely excess in West and South-West regions.

We may have a detailed account of the capacity with reference to present generation :

* In case of CBWTFs capacity in Kg has been derived by multiplying their Capacity by Bed with average .250 Kg per bed in a year
 In case of Stand Alone Facilities capacity has been derived by multiplying the respective HCUs' Bed strength with average generation per bed per day in that category in a year

Requirement of more CBWTF in West Bengal:

Determination of requirement of more CBWTF should be based upon projected generation of next few years and not today’s generation. Projected generation of BMW up to 2020 has already shown in Summary Quantification chapter. On the basis of that the following comparison may be seen at a glance in the following table and chart -

BMW Generation in 2020 and Treatment Capacity in 2009
Region	Projected Generation in 2020 in Kg	Capacity in 2009 in Kg	% Capacity w.r.t Generation
South-West Region	958734	1831132	191
South Region	5073887	2841123	56
Central Region	3475405	2987149	86
West Region	2282799	2838446	124
North Region	1597087	1453143	91

Thus it may be concluded that following three regions need more facilities:

Requirement of More Treatment Facility
Region	No. of Treatment Facility Required	Capacity by bed	Capacity by weight in Kg	Suggested Location
South Region	1	30000	2737500	South 24 Parganas
Central Region	1	15000	1368750	Hoogly
North Region	1	15000	1368750	Malda or Dakshin Dinajpur

Simultaneously massive drive needs to be taken for the HCUs in South East region and West region so that the HCUs which have not yet initiated BMW management to bring under coverage of the respective CBWTF.

Issue of treatment of Recyclables and Non-recyclables in CBWTF:

The issue is often raised that a good amount of recyclables are being directly salvaged from the HCUs and is not arriving to the treatment facilities. An effort is made to check data received from treatment facilities whether that corroborates the apprehension.

During the study it is observed that recording system of SembRamky plants are more dependable. So the data of 2009 from only 3 SembRamky facilities in Howrah, Burdwan and Kalyani is being examined:

Proportion of Non-Recyclables and Recyclables Treatment in CBWTF
Facility	Non-Recyclable		Recyclable
	Amount in Kg	%	Amount in Kg	%
SembRamky, Howrah	1561423	87	230190	13
SembRamky, Kalyani	686914	95	37511	5
SembRamky, Burdwan	164879	86	26009	14

The data clearly reveals that when proportion of recyclable in BMW generated as a whole is 45% and particularly in case of bedded HCUs 40%, the proportion comes for treatment falls much short.

This indicates two possible irregularities :

1. Rampant salvaging in the HCUs from where untreated recyclables are directly going in the hands of recycling traders. Unbroken syringes are repacked and sold in the market posing great risk of public health. Other recyclables may be going in the recycling units where those are processed but during handling of such materials carriers and workers face great risk of infection.
2. Some of the recyclables due to erroneous segregation in the HCUs are going into yellow bags meant for Cat 1, 2, 3, 5 and 6. Subsequently these are incinerated. As major portion of these recyclables (Cat 4 and 7) are made of plastic, especially PVC, incineration of these materials may produce dioxin and other toxic contaminants posing enormous health risk of public. Study should be conducted to probe whether a secondary segregation may be conducted at the CBWTFs to avoid incineration of such recyclables. Of course process of such secondary segregation must confirm environmental and occupational safety of the workers.

Issue of Incineration Ash of CBWTFs

Ash generated in incinerators may be toxic and as per Rules the same is to be disposed of in a hazardous landfill. All the CBWTFs in West Bengal have reported that they send incineration ash to hazardous landfill in Haldia.

OPTIONS BEYOND
REACH OF CBWTFs

There are many health care units (HCUs), especially small ones, for which connecting to CBWTFs may not be expedient for following reasons :

- i) Remoteness of the place may make it difficult for CBWTF vehicles reach the HCU at least once in every 48 hours (as per BMW Rules, no untreated bio-medical waste may be kept stored beyond a period of 48 hours).
- ii) Smallness of the quantity of BMW generated may not justify plying of CBWTF vehicles to collect BMW in regular manner.

The problem may be discussed in detail.

In rural setting there are many areas in different districts which are sparsely populated. Distribution of HCUs like Rural Hospital (RH), Block Primary Health Centres (BPHC) and Primary Health Centres (PHC) in these areas are few and far between in comparison to those in other areas. Again there are many HCUs in remote areas like hills and Sundarbans where CBWTF vehicles cannot reach in proper frequency.

Particularly in case of West Bengal, at present, one CBWTF, that is Greenzen Bio Pvt. Ltd. has been designated to cover entire North Bengal comprising of 6 districts – Coochbihar, Jalpaiguri, Darjeeling, Uttar Dinajpur, South Dinajpur and Malda. It seems very difficult in the present set up to touch all the HCUs of this vast area in a regular interval of 48 hours.

In case of government Sub Centres and Outreach Sessions in rural areas it is a common problem. These HCUs individually produce very small amount of BMW. Another feature of these HCUs is that these do not remain open for long time. Though the amount of BMW generated by these individual units is not very much but number of these HCUs is very high and total amount of BMW produced by these HCUs is significant. (It is shown in the Chapter – Present Status of Treatment and Disposal that such non-bedded HCUs contribute 17% of total BMW generated in the state.) Also, the waste generated by these units is mostly bio-medical (80%) a major portion of which is sharp waste. As such those deserve proper handling, treatment and disposal.

In municipal areas too there are some stand alone Extended Special Out Patient Departments (ESOPDs) and many Sub Centres which individually generate very little amount of BMW but total amount of BMW generated by these units as a whole is significant. These units individually generate very small amount of waste. Moreover, they do not remain open for a long time. So collection of waste from these facilities through CBWTF vehicles may not be very convenient.

Many health camps and blood donation camps are conducted in cities, towns and villages. Their places and timings are not fixed. But they produce considerable amount of BMW of the same nature as in SCs, municipal SCs and ESOPDs. For implementation of BMW management at these levels, appropriate strategy is to be taken and plan of action has to be prepared in accordance with such strategy.

Strategy 1 : Develop in-house treatment and disposal facility in RH, BPHC or PHC levels as and where required.

Strategy 2 : Arrange easy transportation of BMW from government Sub Centres, Outreach Sessions, municipal Sub Centres, ESOPDs, health camps and blood donation camps in properly segregated manner and treatment (as and where required) to the nearest location of treatment facility or nearest station for handing over to CBWTF vehicles.

Strategy 1: Developing In-house Treatment and Disposal Facilities for RH/BPHC/PHC

Options for Collection, Treatment and Disposal in RH/BPHC/PHC
SUGGESTED FLOW CHART FOR BMW MANAGEMENT
AT RH/BPHC/PHC LEVEL BEYOND REACH OF CBWTF

WASTE CATEGORY		OPTIONS
Bio-Medical		I	II	III
Sharps (cat 4)	Syringe & Needle	Defang >> Put Needles in chemical disinfectant	Campus Pit (Deep Burial)
	Broken Ampoule /glass	Put Broken Ampoules/glass in chemical disinfectant with Needles
Soiled (cat 6)	Dressings, Bandage, Linen etc.	Collect separately	Steam Sterilization	Trenching for Biodegradation
Solid (cat 7)	Plastic Tubings/Bags; Cut Syringes; Glass, Bottles	Collect Separately	Steam Sterilization	Recycling
Anatomical (cat 1, 3,5)	Placenta, Tissue etc., Laboratory, Discarded Medicines	Collect Separately	Campus Pit (Deep Burial)

Facilities Required:

- a) Steam Sterilizer : If fully equipped waste autoclave is not available a low cost autoclave or common steam sterilizer may be used to treat Cat-6 and Cat-7 BMW. According to BMW Rules medical waste cannot be considered as properly treated unless the time, temperature and pressure parameters are maintained to the prescribed degree during the autoclave process. However, where Autoclave with recording facility is not available, common Steam Sterilizers may be used for treatment of infectious waste as a transitional measure. CPCB "Guidelines for Disposal of Bio-medical Waste Generated during Universal Immunization Programme (2004)" even suggests boiling in water where autoclaving is not available. A chemical indicator strip/tape that changes colour when a certain temperature is reached can be used for verification of temperature. But this would require approval of State Pollution Control Board.

Autoclave

Common Steam Sterilizer

b) Burial Pit : All the RHs, BPHCs and PHCs have space in their compounds. Burial pits have to be constructed at secluded places in the compounds. These may be called Campus Pits and shall be used exclusively to dispose sharp and anatomical waste.

Every RH is supposed to already have Campus Pits built under “West Bengal Health Systems Development Project (WBHSDP)”. But most of them have now been filled up. Requirement of new construction needs to be assessed.

Campus Pit

New Campus pits as and where required may be designed as in the following -

c) Trench : Trenches are required for systematic bio-degradation of decontaminated waste. A system of trenches secured with fencing and shade is the suggested option. The trenches are to be used on rotational basis.

d) Vats for infected biodegradable and recyclable waste : Separate vats for biodegradable and recyclable waste are necessary for temporary storage of waste before treatment. They should be well protected to debar scavengers and foraging animals, with easy approach and located near the place for waste treatment and away from the place of medical treatment. There should be arrangement for regular supply of water for washing.

e) Store for general and decontaminated recyclables waste : Storage Facility is necessary for temporary storage of treated recyclable waste and general recyclable waste before sending those for recycling.

Strategy 2 : Arrangement of on-site chemical treatment at SCs, ORSs, ESOPDs, Health Camps and easy transportation to the nearest location of treatment facility or nearest station for handing over to CBWTF vehicles.

Some salient points regarding these HCUs are to be kept in consideration:

1. These HCUs generally do not function daily. With some exceptions the common feature is as follows :

Government Sub Centres	2 days in a week
Government Out Reach Sessions*	1 day in a week
Municipal Sub Centres	2 days in a week
Municipal ESOPDs	2 - 5 days in a week
Health Camps, Blood Donation Camps	No specific time and place

* (Out-Reach Sessions generally do not have any fixed area or site. These are held in remote areas and are conducted by concerned Sub-Centres)

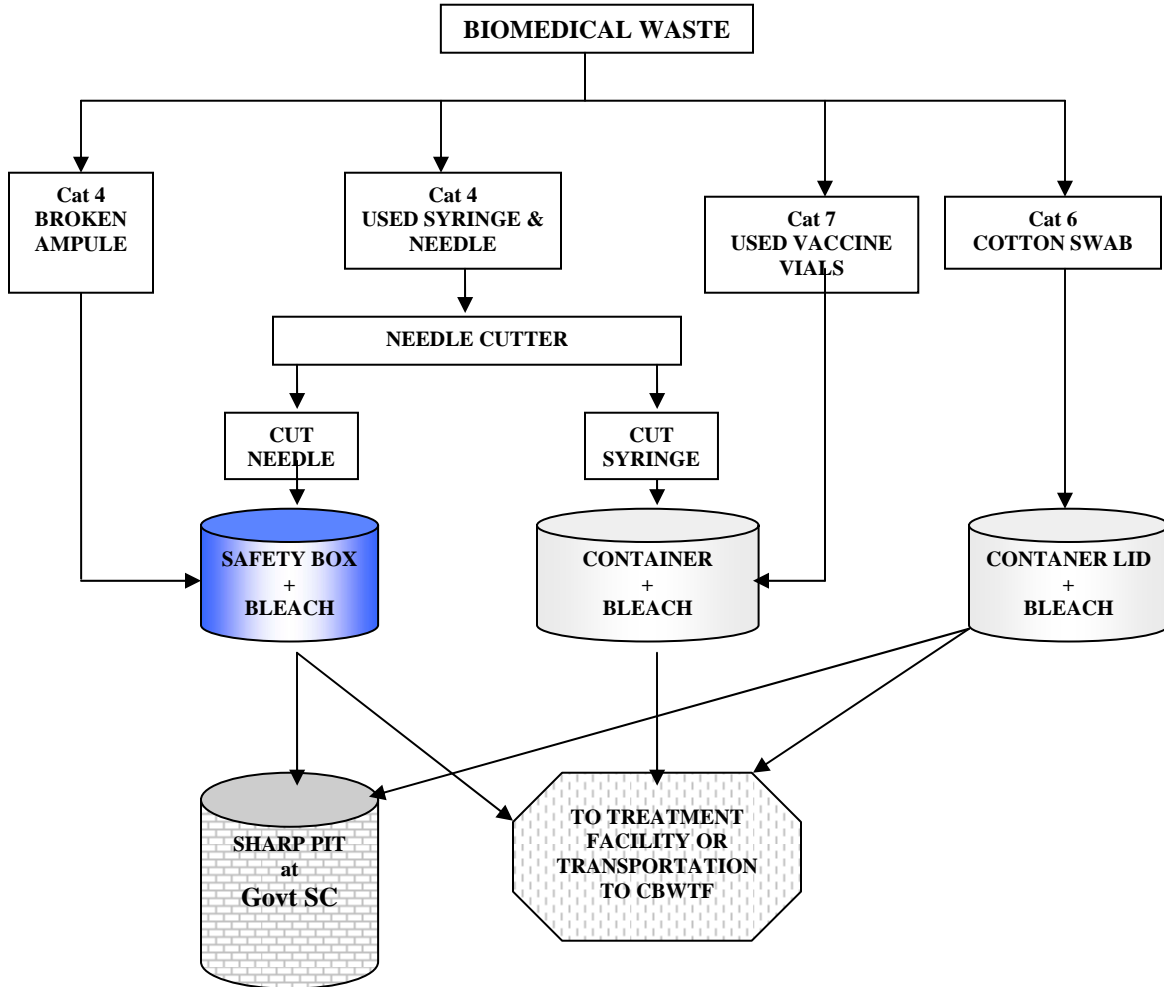

2. These HCUs function for limited period, 3 - 6 hours.
3. These HCUs produce only Cat 4 (syringe, needle, broken ampoules), Cat 6 (cotton swabs) and 7 (plastic vials, glass vials).
4. Proportion by weight of Cat 4 and 7 is almost 90 - 95% whereas Cat 6, (mainly cotton swab) is 5 - 10% by weight.

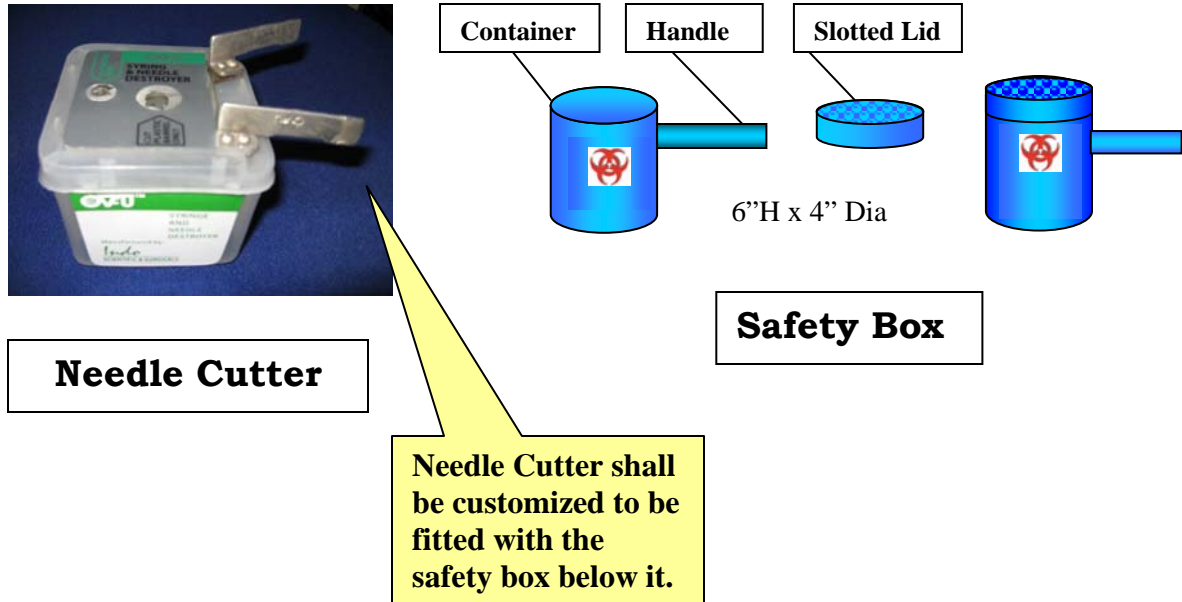

To implement BMW management in these HCUs, waste has to be segregated at the point of generation as suggested in the following flow-chart. It is suggested that the BMW generated on the functioning days in these HCUs should be carried back to the Vaccine Distribution Centres where either a treatment facility is available or CBWTF vehicles visit regularly. A tool kit specially designed for this purpose may be used to carry the waste in segregated manner. The vaccine carrier, who carries the vaccines back from these HCUs to the VDCs, after the day's work, may also carry this kit bag.

FLOW CHART FOR WASTE MANAGEMENT
For GOVT SC, ORS, MUNICIPAL SC, ESOPD AND HEALTH
CAMPS

Facilities Required:a) Needle Cutter with Safety Box for sharps:

Needle Cutter : Most of the BMW generated in these HCUs is from injection. Hence keeping a needle cutter is very important. The cutter should be able to cut the syringe at the hub of the needle. While cut needles may be disposed of in sharp pits, cut syringe may be ultimately sent for recycling.

Safety Box

Safety Box with biohazard symbol is required to collect and treat waste sharps right after generation.

The Safety Box shall be attached below the needle cutter to collect the cut needles. This detachable container may be used to decontaminate the cut needles with chemical decontaminant (1% Bleach Solution).

Broken ampoules may also be collected and treated in the same container. These decontaminated sharps may be finally disposed in a sharp or campus pit.

This container may have a slotted lid to help drain out the spent bleach solution after decontamination of sharp waste.

Suggested Material: Unbreakable translucent plastic.

b) Container for other BMW:

The Container is to serve multiple purposes.

The body of the cylindrical box may be used as a pot to decontaminate cut syringes and used vaccine vials by filling it with decontaminating solution and dipping the cut syringes and used vials into it.

The lid, when inverted, may be used as another pot to decontaminate cotton swabs by filling it with decontaminating solution and dipping the cotton swabs into it.

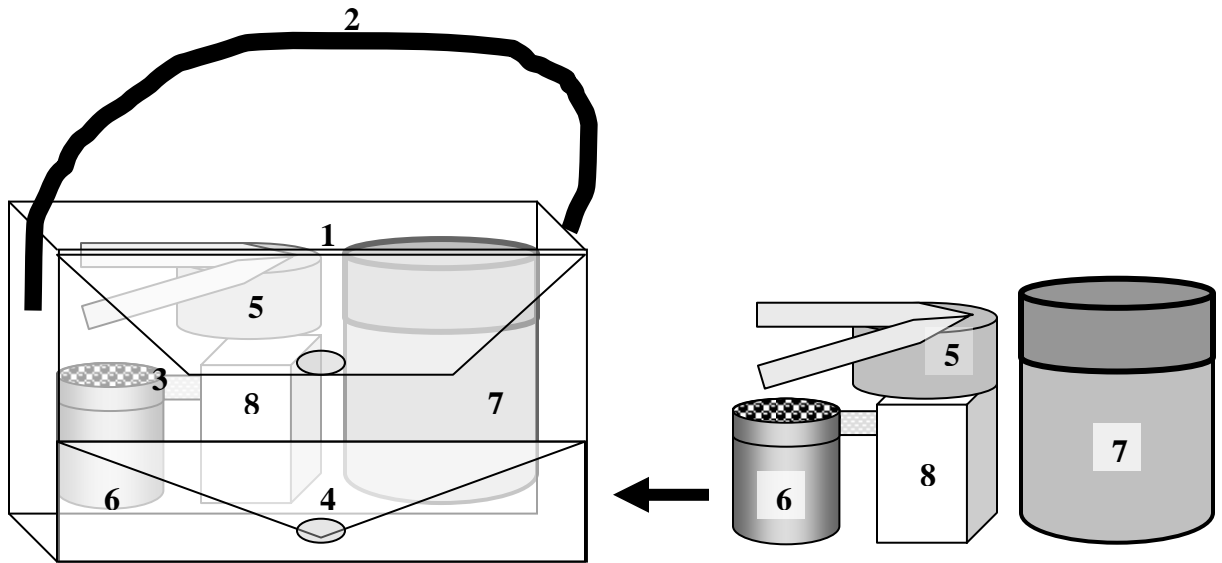

After decontamination the hypo-chlorite/bleach solution shall be drained out. A detachable sieve cover that fits in between the lid and the body of the safety box helps in pouring out the used decontaminant.

Cut syringes and used vaccine vials as well as the cotton swabs, after decontamination can be kept separately in the safety box and carried.

Suggested Material : Unbreakable Plastic.

c) Tool Kit for carrying segregated waste:

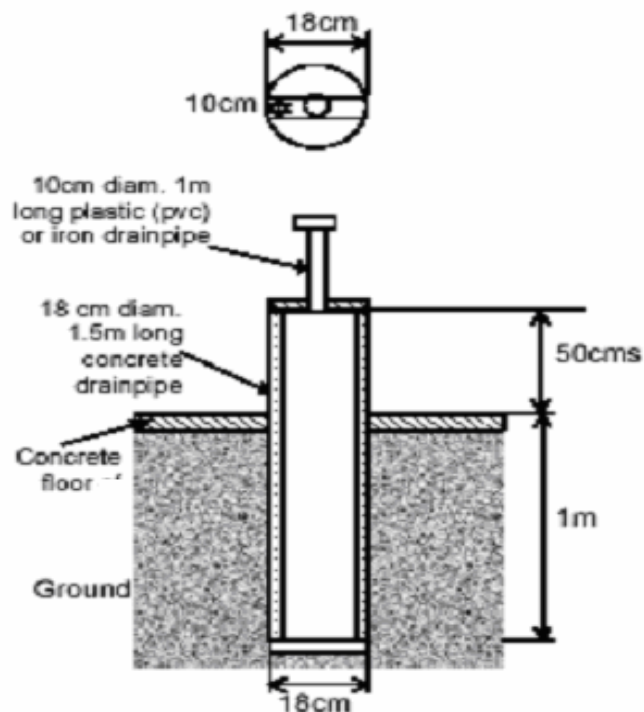

Decontaminated cut syringes and used vials together with cotton swabs may be carried back in the Safety Box from point of generation to nearest location of disposal/treatment/CBWTF vehicles.

1. TOOL KIT - To hold and carry all tools and BMW for & from ORS
2. STRAP - Attached to TOOL KIT
3. MAIN CHAMBER - Of the TOOL KIT
4. POUCH POCKET - To hold and carry the general (packaging) waste from ORS
5. NEEDLE CUTTER - To defang syringes
6. SAFETY BOX - To disinfect, hold and carry cut needles
7. CONTAINER -To hold, disinfect and carry cut syringes, used vials and soiled cotton swabs
8. BLEACHING POWDER PACK - To provide bleaching powder for prepare bleach solution.

d) Sharp Pit at government Sub Centres for disposal of needles and swabs :

Many of the government Sub Centres are located at government premises. Low cost sharp pits may be constructed at these Sub Centres where needles and cotton swabs may be disposed. If such advantage is not available, the same with other BMW will be transported to nearest location of treatment facility or nearest station for handing over to CBWTF vehicles.

A sharp pit may be constructed by utilizing simple concrete drainpipe as shown in the figure. Caps to have locking facility

Highlights of the system :

The BMWM strategy presented above for HCUs beyond reach of CBWTFs has been developed with the objective to help establish a system that -

- A. Complies to existing rules and guidelines
- B. Is economic to run
- C. Is simple to adopt
- D. Utilises existing waste management facilities
- E. Utilises existing vaccine delivery route
- F. Maximise resource recovery
- G. Minimise use of plastic bags i.e., minimise waste generated in the process of waste management

Methodology of Assessment of Status :

The study was conducted through survey of existing BMW management practices in the above mentioned HCUs raising the following questions :

1. Whether the HCU has agreement with CBWTF or has stand-alone facility?
2. Whether there is any BMW management task force and designated Waste Management In-charge?
3. Whether the health workers are aware, motivated and trained?
4. Whether sharp management instruments are available and whether sharp management is performed properly?
5. Whether mutilation equipments are available and mutilation is done in proper manner?
6. Whether bins and bags are available and placed at proper places?
7. Whether segregation at source is done in proper manner?
8. Whether temporary in-house storage facilities for BMW are available?
9. Whether BMW bags are properly carried and transferred to storage / stand-alone facilities?
10. Whether BMW are properly transferred or handed over to the CBWTFs?
11. Whether any portion of BMW is salvaged or pilfered?
12. Whether personal protective equipments (PPE) are available and used by the health and BMW management workers?

Observations

An overall understanding on the basis of observations on the above points is being presented here in a nutshell:

1. Whether the HCU has agreement with CBWTF or has stand-alone facility?

During survey it was observed that most of the MCHs and District Hospitals either had agreement with CBWTFs or had their own stand-alone treatment facilities. But 3 MCHs (Bankura, Midnapore and North Bengal) and 6 District Hospitals (Darjeeling, Siliguri, Jalpaiguri, Raiganj, Balurghat, Tamluk) did neither have agreement with CBWTF nor any stand-alone facility.

In Kolkata and Howrah region most of the HCUs, both government and private, have agreement with CBWTFs. In North 24 Parganas, Nadia, Hoogly and Bardhaman a good number of HCUs have come under such agreement. In case of Bankura, Purulia, Birbhum, East and West Midnapore and in districts of North Bengal situation is poor. Most of the HCUs in these regions neither have any agreement with CBWTF nor have their own stand-alone facility.

None of the municipality hospitals has any agreement with CBWTF. Though Dum Dum Municipal Specialised Hospital is situated in Kolkata, unlike most of the important hospitals in Kolkata, it has not connected itself with CBWTF. All Bio-medical waste of this hospital is disposed of at Noapara dump site. Municipal hospitals and maternity homes dispose of their waste in municipal dump sites. In some municipalities transportation is performed by transports dedicated for carrying BMW.

It can be inferred that infrastructure for BMW management in the state has fairly developed and can meet most of the requirements but a large number of HCUs are yet to come under the regime of BMW management. The condition is somewhat better in several regions like Kolkata, Howrah, North 24 Parganas, Nadia, Hoogly and Burdwan.

2. Whether there is any BMW management task force and designated Waste Management In-charge?

None of the HCUs in list has any task force to regularly monitor in-house BMW management. No regular periodic review takes place for assessment and improvement of the situation. During implementation of State Health Development Project (WBSHDP) formation of task force on BMW management was compulsory in the government HCUs. But in the last few years after the project the task forces disappeared. However a body called Rogi Kalyan Samiti (Patients' Welfare Committee) has been introduced. This is a body constituted in the government hospitals as an innovative mechanism to involve the people's representatives in the management of the hospital with a view to improve its functioning. One of its terms of reference is to ensure adequate and safe disposal of hospital wastes. But apart from purchasing of bags, bins and equipments, the improvement of quality of BMW management is seldom brought in its agenda. Usually there are no trained personnel on BMW management in such Samitis. In case of private HCUs, BMW management depends upon their general work culture. Any committee or monitoring body exclusively for periodic review of BMW management and improvement does not generally exist.

Usually all the HCUs have one or more designated official/s to look after BMW management. Heads of the HCUs are generally responsible for conduction of BMW management. In case of large government hospitals Assistant Superintendents also have such responsibilities. But they usually are bogged with so many responsibilities that seldom they can monitor day-to-day management of BMW. So the responsibility of day-to-day monitoring lies with one of the ward masters in government HCUs and house-keeping staff in case of private HCUs. These people generally do not have any training on BMW management. Moreover they also have to perform many other responsibilities and remain hard pressed. Therefore, none of the HCUs has any exclusively responsible trained person for effective monitoring of in-house waste management. In some HCUs due to individual initiative (eg., Superintendent, Imambara Sadar Hospital, Hoogly and Matron, Institute of Child Health) quality of waste management is much better. But that is not the case in general. The absence of an exclusively responsible person is a common deficiency detrimental to the quality of waste management.

Issue of cost involved in waste management in relation to designation of exclusive responsibility is also important. For example, if government HCU with 500 bed occupancy is attached with a CBWTF, it has to pay the CBWTF owner around Rs. 2500 per day or around Rs. 75000 per month. In case of private HCUs it is more. If the in-house waste management is not performed in proper manner, keeping in relation to the CBWTF system, the money gets wasted. In the following sections we shall see how authorities of the HCUs and particularly Dept. of Health & Family Welfare are spending a huge amount without making any official or agency exclusively responsible to look after the in-house management.

3. Whether the health workers are aware, motivated, trained and sincere?

In most of the HCUs there is a general awareness that BMW is to be separately collected and handed over to CBWTF vehicles or disposed of separately. A large section of the health workers know that BMW is generated through clinical and surgical activities. But level of awareness varies among different categories of staff. Doctors' concern of and awareness on BMW was found to be relatively low. At least 70% of nursing staff in government HCUs and 90% of nursing staff in private HCUs have apparent awareness about BMW. But many of them are not very clear about the methods of segregation. Again level of awareness among Gr. D staff and scavengers is poor but relatively better than the doctors. Information, education and communication (IEC) materials were found grossly inadequate in almost all the hospitals. In most cases, health workers, particularly nurses, who have to segregate waste at source, have to depend upon memory and practice. HCUs connected with CBWTFs could display IEC (Information, Education and Communication) posters provided by CBWTFs at every point of generation but apart from very few exceptions, this was not observed during the survey.

Motivation is something which is grossly absent among the health and BMW management workers. The issue of occupational safety of the health and BMW management workers vis-à-vis the hazards of bio-medical waste is seldom prioritized. Any process of inculcation is also absent. Most of the health workers consider BMW management as another extra responsibility which is to be discharged along with other assigned duties, and thus as an extra burden. They do not consider it as a necessity for patients' and their own safety. Of course there are a few exceptions. A few heads of the HCUs and nurses were found to be quite motivated to take extra initiative to implement BMW management in proper manner. But generally motivation is absent.

During the period of WBHSDP, an organized effort was taken for conduction of training for the nurses and Gr. D and Scavenging workers. Almost all the secondary hospitals were covered. Though there were some limitations and only off-the-job trainings were conducted, a good understanding was developed among the health workers. A six months' monitoring by external agencies was also very effective in developing better quality of management. But in course of time the impact of such trainings and monitoring reduced considerably. Several causes may be pointed out - new recruitments uninitiated to BMW management practices, non-availability of implements, poor in-house administration etc. In private hospitals, even in the large ones, any initiative of organized training has not been taken. A few sporadic efforts were there but those fall much short of the necessity. On-the-job training and refresher training programmes were never undertaken.

Sincerity towards BMW management is conspicuously absent in most of the HCUs under study. The administration is yet to rise to the occasion. Most of the health workers consider the job of BMW management as an extra burden and attach less importance to this. Majority of these workers are otherwise sincere to their jobs. It may be inferred that in absence of awareness, motivation and proper training they show serious lack of sincerity in BMW management.

4. Whether sharp management instruments are available and whether sharp management is performed properly?

Ideally all the syringes should be cut from their hubs. The defanged needles, after a primary treatment in sodium hypochlorite / bleach solution should be kept in a puncture proof container. Broken ampoules, glasses and obsolete scalpels are also to be put in the puncture proof container. Large CBWTFs provide scope for collection of these sharp wastes directly in a larger puncture proof container placed in their vehicles. They also offer to provide small puncture proof containers to be placed at generation points.

In case of stand alone treatment facilities puncture proof containers containing sharp waste should be autoclaved and then shredded. But in such facilities with microwave needles, being metal cannot be treated.

It was observed that sharp management instruments are available in most of the HcUs under survey. But in government HcUs around 50% of the needle cutters are of poor quality and there are complaints that those do not function properly. In municipal HcUs sharp management instruments were rarely available.

Due to lack of motivation and training, sometimes nurses in government hospitals do not properly use the instruments even if those are available and functioning. In most of the HcUs, irrespective of government and private, the cut needles and other sharp wastes are not placed in puncture proof containers. These are disposed of in waste bags which are by no means puncture proof. These bags containing sharp waste are transported by waste handlers. This practice poses severe threat of prick injury and infection. In some HcUs it was found that cut needles are placed card board boxes (like sweet shop boxes) and disposed of in blue bags. But card board boxes get soiled and needles get mixed up with other waste.

Further, in some other HcUs, it was found that the syringes with needles, after use, instead of being cut, are recapped and disposed of in bags. Recapped syringes do not pose threat of prick injury during transportation but recapping itself is unsafe for the health workers performing recapping. This erroneous practice also provides scope of illegal re-use of syringes.

In Medical College, Kolkata and Diamond Harbour SDH, cut needles disposed of in blue bags are again taken out from bags at the treatment points as metals are not allowed in microwave. Thereafter these are disposed in the general waste stream posing enormous risk and providing scope of illegal re-use.

5. Whether mutilation equipments are available and mutilation is done in proper manner?

There is not much conscious effort for mutilation of the plastic materials like IV sets, tubes, plastic bottles etc. Where mutilation takes place, generally scissors and knives are used to mutilate. Mainly in private HCUs regular practice of mutilation was found to exist. In government and municipal HCUs such mutilation is seldom done.

There is some confusion regarding character of the used saline bottles. There is a strong opinion that these are not infectious waste. In most of the government HCUs saline bottles are not mutilated and were found to be stored in stacks for selling to recycling agents.

6. Whether bins and bags are available and placed at proper places?

Bags with colour codes and bins are generally available in private and government HCUs. But in municipal HCUs these are seldom available. However there are confusions regarding colour codes. Three of four private HCUs under survey are connected with CBWTFs and follow their guidelines. In case of government HCUs many connected to CBWTFs do not follow their guidelines. While CBWTF system prescribes yellow and blue bags and puncture proof containers, these govt. HCUs still use red, yellow and blue bags as was prescribed in Health System Development Project which no longer exists. However, the guideline of the Dept. of H&FW, issued with Circular No. HF/O/MS/316/W-99/2008 dtd. 28.5.09, clearly prescribed use of colour codes in coordination with CBWTF system. Also, in the case of HCUs having autoclaves or microwaves as stand-alone facilities the department has issued instruction to treat only blue bags containing Cat 7 in autoclave or microwave and handover other categories of waste in yellow bags and puncture proof containers to CBWTFs.

Placement of bins was found erroneous almost everywhere with a very few exceptions. BMW bins should be placed at the points of generation, at places inaccessible to others except the generators of BMW. Usually this should be placed in nursing stations, under OT tables, at immunization places etc. It is advised to use a trolley with BMW bins and bags in case of generation of BMW during bedside treatment. After specific activity these wastes should be taken to nursing stations. But during the survey it was found that BMW bins are placed in balconies, at patients' bedsides, in OPD general areas etc., giving access not only to patients but also to all the visitors. As a result a large amount of general waste is disposed of in BMW bins. In case of well equipped private hospitals (nursing homes) BMW bags are available in plenty and kept at every bedside. In case of other hospitals, where supply is not abundant, the BMW bins and bags are placed at wrong places like corridors, OPD waiting areas and other common places. . However, the above mentioned guideline of the Dept. of H&FW, issued with Circular No. HF/O/MS/316/W-99/2008 dtd. 28.5.09, provided detailed suggestions regarding proper placement of BMW bins.

7. Whether segregation at source is done in proper manner?

Proper segregation is the key factor of any waste management. But apart from a few exceptions, in almost all the HCUs, quality of segregation is very poor. Mixing is rampant. There is least concern about proper segregation among the health workers and the administrators. Items of BMW are disposed of in any of the bags including bags meant for general waste even if appropriate bins and bags are available. Again, general wastes are often disposed of in BMW bags. Lack of awareness, motivation, training and monitoring among the administrators, doctors, nurses, medical attendants and scavenging workers is very much conspicuous through the wrong practice of segregation.

It was found that the health workers often dispose of packaging of medicines and medical equipments in BMW bags. There is wide spread confusion regarding use of blue and yellow (and red!) bags. Lot of soiled materials like cotton, gauzes and bandage were found in blue bags. Again plastic items were received in yellow bags. Scavenging workers both departmental (regular) and contractors' are seldom aware of segregation at source. In many cases, they mix up materials of BMW bags during collection and transportation to vats.

Such erroneous segregation has far reaching adverse effect. In many HCUs, a good number of black bags were found with bio-medical waste. In several MCHs in Kolkata, large black bags were found with dozens of placentas wrapped in small yellow bags inside.

It could be inferred that though at the points of generation Cat 1 wastes were correctly disposed of in yellow bags, scavenging workers, for convenience of transportation, clubbed those together and put in black bags for easy transportation. Black bags are meant for general waste and should not be handed over to CBWTF vehicles. These black bags outwardly appear to contain general waste and so CBWTF vehicles logically do not accept these bags. Naturally such bags find their way in municipal vat. Again in large number HCUs, Cat 7 (mainly composed of plastic and especially PVC wastes) was found in yellow bags. As per CBWTF system yellow bags are directly put to incinerators. The practice not only violates BMW rules, but also poses severe threat of unintentional production of dioxin. A study for dioxin in the vicinity of CBWTFs may be instituted to examine this. Introduction of further sorting of BMW with proper health care measures at the CBWTFs may also be considered to avoid greater risk.

Institute of Child Health was an exception. Here, particularly in the indoor wards, waste items were disposed of meticulously in appropriate bags.

8. Whether temporary storage facilities of BMW are available?

Most of the large HCUs (except Bankura MCH and North Bengal MCH) under survey were found to have two temporary storage facilities or vats – one for BMW and another for general waste. Wastes are collected from wards and other facilities of the HCUs and kept in these vats for a short period. Thereafter BMW is transferred to CBWTF vehicles. In case of HCUs having stand-alone facilities, these temporary storage facilities or vats are not used as BMW bags are usually carried directly to the treatment facilities. General waste is transferred to municipal stream. Small HCUs do not have such provisions of temporary storage facilities or vats (they may not need them either). Some of these HCUs have campus pits where BMW is disposed of. In case of others, there is no specific system followed.

During survey it was found that two important HCUs like Bankura MCH and North Bengal MCH have no such temporary storage facilities. They also did not have any BMW management system at all. In case of Bankura MCH, BMW were lying scattered at different places in and around the hospital. In North Bengal MCH buildings are spread over a large area and BMW were disposed of anywhere and everywhere around the buildings. Those are also openly burnt adjacent to the hospital buildings. In case of R. G. Kar MCH position of the BMW vat was improper. The vat had two gates, one at the hospital side (which has been blocked) and the other at the road side. The road side gate is used to store the BMW bags and again transferring to the CBWTF vehicles. There are ample chances of pilferage by the waste pickers and spread of infection.

9. Whether BMW bags are properly carried and transferred to storage / stand-alone facilities?

Ideally BMW bags should be collected from each ward and facility of an HCU either at specific intervals or when those are 75% filled up, whichever is earlier. Record should be maintained at every ward or facility regarding colour code and number of bags taken away by the scavenging workers. These BMW bags should be transported in covered trolley to the storage facility. There should be one in-charge of the storage facility and BMW bags should be handed over to this person in-charge maintaining proper record. Without the recording system there is hardly any scope to confirm that the amount of waste produced at different wards / facilities of the HCU reaches the temporary storage facility or vat.

During the survey it was found only Woodlands Hospital maintains this system. Among the government HCUs, only S.S.K.M MCH follows this practice. During quantification survey in Calcutta National MCH, the system was introduced as temporary arrangement to facilitate quantification. Some of the district hospitals having stand-alone treatment facilities partially follow this system. In Coochbehar DH, Imambara DH and Barasat DH, BMW bags were transferred to the in-charges of the treatment facilities maintaining record of BMW bags handed over for treatment. Record of disposal of Cat 1 (which is not transferable to the treatment facility) was not maintained. Elsewhere the system of maintaining records was completely absent. The scavenging workers were allowed to dump the BMW bags in the vats as per their convenience.

10. Whether BMW are properly transferred or handed over to the CBWTF vehicles?

During the survey it was found that the CBWTF vehicles regularly reported to the HCUs, with which they had contract. The representatives of CBWTFs receive the BMW bags after weighing each bag. Though they have provision only to collect yellow and blue bags, due to confusion in some of the government HCUs regarding use of red bags, they also accepted red bags but generally included those in yellow category. They issued a manifest for each day after receiving waste. They recorded total number and total weight of yellow and blue bags in the manifests. Manifests with such records remained available with the concerned HCUs.

During the survey it was found that private HCUs delivered justifiable number of bags corresponding to their bed strength and occupancy. Some of the government HCUs like S.S.K.M MCH, Deben Mahato (Purulia) DH, Vidyasagar SGH also delivered almost justifiable quantity of waste to the CBWTF vehicles. But in other government HCUs, amount of waste transferred to CBWTF vehicles, as was evident from the records, were quite meager and unjustifiable. There are specific examples like Chittaranjan Cancer Hospital, BG & ID Hospital, Nil Ratan Sarkar MCH which did not transfer any BMW bag for days together though the CBWTF vehicles regularly visited these HCUs. There is ample evidence of sheer wastage of government funds. The Dept. of H&FW, as per contract, was paying Rs. 4.95 per bed to the CBWTF operators on the basis of occupancy but the BMW workers of the corresponding HCUs were not transferring any BMW bags to them day after day. One reason might be salvaging or pilferage of a portion of BMW in connivance with unscrupulous staff. But the major portion of BMW in bedded HCUs belonging to Cat 6 (soiled cotton, gauzes, bandage etc.) does not have any recycling value. At least these should have gone to the CBWTF vehicles. But insincerity and callousness of the staff coupled with authorities' indifference made such irregularities continue for a long time. Anyone can verify this just having a look over the manifests issued by the CBWTF representatives. In NRS Hospital, during the survey, average quantity of BMW received at vat, amounted to 32 grams per bed per day. This is absurd. In the same hospital there was a concrete tube called hopper through which general waste was to be thrown down from any floor to be collected and led to municipal waste disposal stream. A good amount of soiled BMW (Cat 6) was being disposed of through hoppers and those went to municipal waste vat.

11. Whether any portion of BMW is salvaged or pilfered?

During the survey it was found that a good amount of bio-medical waste went to market without undergoing any decontamination and / or treatment. In many large government HCUs, there were nexus between waste handlers and illegal traders. Mainly Cat 7 items, which have good recyclable value, are directly pilfered from such HCUs. In Calcutta National MCH, DISHA team came across such a trader, who demanded on record (audio-visual) that she brought her vehicle and collected bio-medical waste in a regular manner from scavenging workers on payment. In Bankura MCH such waste is openly sold to traders. Weighing of such waste in the hospital compound had been recorded. In R. G. Kar MCH waste pickers were found to pilfer such BMW bags, which were kept at the door of the BMW vat. They also collected such waste from open municipal vat. Such activities were recorded. Such waste picking of BMW could easily be seen every morning at the gate of R. G. Kar MCH. In Kolkata Medical College it was recorded that only 5 to 6 blue bags per day were transferred to on-site facility whereas at least 30 to 40 such bags of BMW should have been disposed of.

In private hospitals, so far studied, such salvaging of waste was not apparent. The quantities of waste handed over to the CBWTF representatives were almost justifiable with occupancy of the HCUs.

12. Whether personal protective equipments (PPE) are available and used by the health workers?

Generally in large government HCUs contractors are appointed for conduction of waste handling activities. Scavenging workers carry the BMW bags from wards / facilities to storage point or vat. They also hand over the BMW bags to the CBWTF vehicles wherever called for. Personal protective equipments are supplied to such scavenging workers by the contractors as per terms of contract. During survey it was observed that the scavenging workers partially used such PPEs as per their convenience. Aprons and shoes were generally used. But gloves and masks were seldom put on.

In smaller government HCUs and municipal HCUs Gr. D staff were responsible of carrying BMW. They generally did not use PPEs. In several cases it was alleged that PPEs were not regularly supplied to them. In large private hospitals, most of the staff responsible for handling BMW usually used PPEs.

Conclusion

In short it can be concluded that though the infrastructure for treatment of BMW in the state is almost adequate and highest authorities including monitoring body have started to wake up to the issue, overall status of in-house management of BMW in the HCUs especially which are owned by government or municipalities, are not at all up to the mark.

MERCURY IN HEALTH CARE WASTE

The Context

Mercury, both in its elemental and compound form, is one of the most poisonous substances known to us.

Mercury may be fatal if inhaled and harmful if absorbed through the skin. Around 80% of the inhaled mercury vapour is absorbed in the blood through the lungs. The long-term limit is a billionth of a gram (1ng) per litre of air. This is easily exceeded in a closed room containing exposed mercury. Acute effects result from the inhalation of air containing mercury vapour at concentrations in the range 0.05-0.35 mg/m³. Exposure for a few hours to 1-3 mg/m³ may give rise to pulmonary irritation and destruction of lung tissue and occasionally to central nervous system disorders. Mercury may cause harmful effects to the nervous, digestive, respiratory, immune systems and to the kidneys, besides causing lung damage. Adverse health effects from mercury exposure can be: tremors, impaired vision and hearing, paralysis, insomnia, emotional instability, developmental deficits during fetal development, and attention deficit and developmental delays during childhood. Recent studies suggest that mercury may have no threshold below which some adverse effects do not occur.

The environmental chemistry of mercury depends on both organic and inorganic forms, which differ considerably in their toxic effects, although all are hazardous.

Inorganic mercury compounds [chiefly Hg (II)] can cause intestinal, liver, and kidney damage, but unlike the metallic vapour cannot easily enter the brain cells, and effects may be reversible.

Organomercury compounds are much more toxic. These compounds are lipid soluble, and since higher organisms do not decompose and excrete them effectively, small amounts in the environment tend to be concentrated in organic tissues in the food chain. Mercury is particularly toxic when metabolized into methyl mercury. In its methylated form, mercury is bio-accumulative, biomagnifying and persistent, and threatens the health of humans and wildlife throughout the globe. Dimethylmercury are readily transferred into cells and even through the placental barrier to the fetus. Organomercury can be found in water systems and is concentrated in biological materials.

Apart from its presence in the environment from natural sources, mercury gets released into the environment from various industrial processes, medical establishments and institutions of laboratories. Once in the general environment mercury will eventually make its way to aquatic systems where it is readily transformed by microorganisms into methylated mercury, which ultimately enter the food chain.

Health-care facilities are one of the main sources of mercury release into the environment. The breakage of mercury thermometers and blood pressure devices exposes patients and health care workers to environmental hazards, while also contributing to the global burden of mercury. Health-care facilities are also responsible for mercury pollution taking place in water bodies from the release of untreated wastewater. According to a 1999 report cited by the World Health Organisation, health-care facilities may have been responsible for as much as 5% of all mercury releases in wastewater. In the United States, according to US Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) in a 1997 report, medical waste incinerators may have been responsible for as much as 10% of all mercury air releases.

In health care establishments, mercury is used or is present in different domains.

First, mercury is contained in many common medical measuring devices:

- Sphygmomanometers (blood pressure devices)
- Thermometers (specifically body temperature thermometers but also others)

Secondly, it is used in other medical devices:

- Gastro-intestinal devices, such as cantor tubes, weighed esophageal dilator (Maloney or Hurst bougie), weighted feeding tubes of the older variety and Miller Abbott tubes.

Thirdly, in certain chemicals used in the microbiological (cytopathological and histological) context.

One of the most copious uses of mercury in health care seems to be that of dentistry – mercury amalgams used in dental fillings.

Dental amalgam contains approximately 50% elemental mercury, 30% silver and 20% other metals such as copper, tin and zinc.

Use of mercury in the dental sector has an impact on the downstream environment. Mercury-containing waste from dental clinics often ends up in aquatic environments and the atmosphere through improper disposal. In addition, the primary source of mercury in municipal wastewater effluents generally originates from dental practices.

Environment Canada has estimated that more than one-third of the mercury load in sewage systems is due to dental practice.

Reduction of Mercury in health care sector

The European Union countries have already banned mercury thermometers in 2008. EU is also considering a similar ban on sphygmomanometers. Several EU countries as well as more than a dozens states in the U.S. have also already successfully phase-out mercury blood pressure devices. The World Health Organization and Health Care Without Harm are leading a global initiative to phase-out of mercury-based medical devices globally by 2017. United Nations Environment Programme (UNEP) is instrumental in developing a legally binding treaty among the member countries to reduce anthropogenic mercury use in all sectors especially in health care.

- In February 2010, the Ministry of Health of Argentina published an Administrative Order banning mercury sphygmomanometers. It gave 90 days to end production and 180 to end any commercialization of these products.

- In February, 2009, the Argentine Ministry of Health issued a resolution ending purchase of mercury medical devices in all argentinean hospitals.

- The Philippines issued an Administrative Order in 2008 calling for the phase-out of all mercury based medical devices across the country by 2010. By the Department of Health's Administrative Order 2008-0221, all mercury equipment from hospitals, including mercury-in-glass thermometers, will be phased out in the Philippines by September 28, 2010.

- Taiwan has banned mercury thermometers.

- Over the past decade the United States health care sector has virtually phased out mercury-based medical devices. It is nearly impossible to purchase a mercury thermometer in the United States today.

- Sweden, the Netherlands and Denmark have successfully phased out all mercury based medical devices, including sphygmomanometers.

- Since the 1980s, Cuba has implemented a national policy of replacing its mercury sphygmomanometers with aneroid devices purchased from China.

Indian Situation

In India however, the absence of such regulations were conspicuous. Indeed the awareness level in India regarding ill effects of mercury is exceedingly low, often to the point of being non-existent. Even in the scientific community and industrial sector, the available information has failed to generate sufficient sensitivity. For others, information regarding health hazards of mercury is not institutionally available.

But very recently an important development has taken place. Ministry of Health and Family Welfare has issued a guideline with its order F. No. Z.28015/24/09-MH II dated 8.3.2010 instructing all Central Government health establishments to phase out mercury containing equipments. Following is the relevant portion of the guidelines:

“1. All Central Government Hospital and Health Centres are advised to gradually phase out mercury containing equipments (thermometers, BP instruments etc.) and replacement with good quality non mercury equipments, in order to prevent toxic effects of mercury on patients and health care workers. It is recommended that a mercury phase-out plan be developed to start procurement of new equipment which is mercury-free.”

The guidelines also recommended proper management of mercury waste until mercury based equipments are fully phased out. This seems to be a definite step forward to phase out mercury from health care sector. Earlier, Delhi government also took a similar decision and started phasing out of all mercury containing equipments in hospitals in Delhi since 2008. Delhi Pollution Control Committee also issued notice to all health care units to take action for safe management of mercury waste.

Situation in West Bengal

During survey it was revealed that there is least awareness among the health workers even up to the level of heads of the HCUs regarding hazardous effect of mercury. At least in 90% cases it transpired that this was the first time that they heard about any such problem.

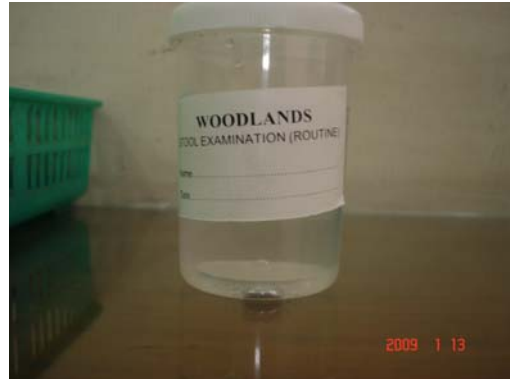

Though the issue has been discussed in number of occasions in different forums, the state government has not taken any decision to phase out mercury containing equipments in HCUs. However during the conduction of Health System Development Project, guidelines were issued for management of mercury spill. This has been restated in the operational guidelines recently issued by the H&FW department in 2009.

During implementation of State Health System Development Project, such mercury spill management was instituted in several secondary level HCUs. Traces of such effort could be found only in Imambara Sadar Hospital, Hooghly where mercury containing kits were found in every ward. Another interesting practice could be found in Malbazar SDH where 11 digital thermometers were found in use. In some HCU's like Institute of Child Health several aneroid BP instruments were found in use though no conscious decision to avoid mercury instrument was behind it.

Besides these few exceptions all the thermometers and BP instruments used in the HCU's under study were mercury equipments. During survey it was found that almost all the nurses could remember some incidents of breakage of mercury thermometers. But neither did they follow any proper procedure of spill management nor did they have any knowledge regarding any instruction in the matter. Some of the nurses in National MCH and Institute of Child Health also informed that both the HCU's are situated in disturbance prone area and in several occasions, during mob disturbance, BP instruments were thrown off and broken. Incidents of breakage of mercury instruments are not recorded in any of the HCU's. Some sensitization efforts were taken in Woodlands Hospital during survey of in-house management. Immediately after that, during quantification study, two broken thermometers were received at the waste quantification point. These were recorded and spilled mercury was recovered and preserved in a water filled container. But there is no confirmation that the practice of recording and management will continue.

It was observed that all the patients admitted in Woodlands and AMRI were prescribed to buy their own thermometers. Presumably, all the hospitals of that category, prescribed their in-patients to buy a thermometer for their individual use. So a huge number of mercury thermometers are sold. Of course there are chances of resale as most of the patients do not take back their thermometers to home. However, such abundant use provides scope of generation of more mercury waste.

Health sector being one of the important anthropogenic sources of contributing mercury in environment should be more sensible and avoid using mercury equipments and compounds as far as practicable.

Quantification of Mercury Waste

During quantification of bio-medical waste in selected health care units, an effort was made to assess the quantity of mercury waste generated in those units. Enquiries were made in other important HCUs also during study of compliance status of BMW management in the Medical College Hospitals, District Hospitals and some other important hospitals in the state.

It was found that in general there is no system of mercury waste management in almost all the selected HCUs. There was least awareness regarding the problem of mercury waste. Some difference was observed in Imambara Sadar Hospital, (Hoogly District Hospital) and Mal Bazar SDH, Jalpaiguri. In Imambara Sadar Hospital mercury containment kits were available in most of the wards. In Malbazar SDH digital thermometers instead of mercury thermometers are being used. But none of the HCUs in the state maintains any record of generation of mercury waste. It appeared that before going to conduct such quantification, a programme needs to be undertaken to sensitize the health workers of a particular HCU so that any and every occurrence of spill is recorded. Use of dental amalgams is also to be recorded to understand the proportion of mercury exit. Such study is to be conducted over a specified period. The present study did not have that scope as it had to depend upon the observations of existing records and practices.

However an indirect method was applied for this purpose. Enquiry was made with the store departments of respective bedded HCUs to ascertain purchase of average number of new thermometers in a year. Average number of thermometers required and purchased has been equated in this study with number of consumptions or breakages. Such efforts were also made regarding sphygmomanometers (Blood Pressure measuring instruments) and other mercury containing instruments but these are replaced irregularly and no dependable data was available. In case of dental amalgam also no proper record of cases of fillings could be obtained.

In case of large private hospitals, purchase of thermometers could not be ascertained for a particular reason. In such HCUs, all the indoor patients are advised to buy their own thermometers. In fact the first kit that comes from the pharmacy for every patient on admission contains a thermometer. The patients are advised to take back their own thermometers to their homes. These hospitals also do not maintain any record of mercury spillage / accident. As huge number of thermometers is used in these hospitals, chances of spillage / accident are also very high. But this could not be accounted for. Estimate of consumptions of mercury thermometers in these HCUs have been taken at par with other bedded hospitals.

Average consumption of thermometers per year in bedded HCUs of the state is presented in the following table. Annual release of mercury due to breakage of thermometers in the HCUs has been further calculated on the basis of the consumption of thermometers:

Average annual consumption of thermometer per 100 beds in Bedded HCUs	21 (Rounded off)

Mercury Waste Generated from Thermometer

In the previous section it has been estimated from survey in 37 bedded HCUs that average number of breakage of thermometers per 100 beds in a year = 21.

An ordinary fever thermometer contains .5 to 3 gms of mercury. For our calculation, average has been assumed as 1.5 gms per thermometer. Hence district-wise generation:

Mercury Waste Generated in West Bengal Only from Thermometers in Bedded HCUs
District	Bed Strength	Estimated No. of Thermometers Broken per year	Estimated spill in gms.
Bankura	3774	793	1189
Birbhum	2567	539	809

South 24 Parganas	3833	805	1207
Uttar Dinajpur	844	177	266
West Midnapore	4882	1025	1538
Gr. Total	102949	21619	32429

Thus annual generation of mercury waste only from thermometers in bedded HCUs amounts to 32.429 Kg. It is to be kept in mind that one spoonful of mercury can contaminate a large lake. When 1 microgram of mercury can pose serious health risk, generation and spill of around 32 Kg elemental mercury waste only from thermometers in bedded HCUs alone must be a serious concern.

RECOMMENDATIONS

Recommendations

Previous chapters include detailed discussion on various problems and shortcomings encountered in the management of bio-medical waste in West Bengal. The Summary Recommendations appended with the Executive Summary indicated possible solutions to the problems in brief and general terms. A list of detailed recommendations is furnished here to provide a better understanding of the same so that appropriate actions may be taken.

Common Bio-Medical Waste Treatment Facilities (CBWTFs)

1. Emphasis need to be given specially on South-West (East and West Midnapore), West (Bankura, Burdwan, Birbhum Purulia) and North (Coochbehar, Jalpaiguri, Darjeeling, Uttar Dinajpur, Dakshin Dinajpur and Malda) regions to pursue the HCUs to come under agreement with CBWTFs of respective areas.
2. Initiative should be taken to install 3 more CBWTFs - 1 in South 24 Parganas (30000 bed capacity), 1 in Hoogly (15000 bed capacity) and 1 in Malda or Dakshin Dinajpur (15000 bed capacity).
3. Since due to improper collection mixing of waste is very common phenomena, a good amount of recyclable materials including PVC are coming to CBWTFs mixed with incinerable waste. Plastic waste, especially PVC should not be burnt. As such feasibility of introducing secondary segregation at CBWTFs with environmental and occupational precautions should be probed.
4. Incineration ash generated in CBWTFs should be regularly and properly disposed at hazardous waste disposal site and records of the same maintained.
5. Tests should be conducted to find presence of dioxin in organic matters and live stocks in the vicinity of the CBWTFs.

In House Management

1. As per BMW Rules heads of the institutions are responsible for bio-medical waste management in respective HCUs. But they are also in-charge of all other activities of the HCUs. To enable proper management there should be one officer in-charge exclusively responsible for in-house BMW management. Particularly in larger HCUs having above 100 beds this should be introduced immediately.
2. Dept. of H&FW, municipal corporations and municipalities need to be pursued to institute regular collection mechanism of BMW from non-bedded HCUs under their jurisdiction and arrange their proper treatment and disposal.

3. A regular monitoring and reporting mechanism should be introduced for every HCU, particularly those having above 100 bed strengths, for periodic review of status of BMW management in respective HCUs. In view of constraints of personnel and expertise, services of NGOs and/or experts should be utilized in this.
4. Both on-the-job and off-the-job training should be imparted at regular intervals to develop awareness and motivation of the health workers at all levels.
5. Regular reporting system with respect to generation, storage and transfer should be maintained to check pilferage, salvaging etc.
6. IEC materials should be displayed at all BMW generation points.
7. Regular supply of good quality working and protective equipments should be ensured.

Mercury Waste

1. Identify all equipments, devices and substances containing or using mercury.
2. Explore and take concrete steps towards eliminating all mercury-containing products and mercury compounds in hospitals and clinical practices especially thermometers, sphygmomanometers - replacing them with non-mercury cost effective products.
3. Pending phasing out of mercury containing equipments and compounds, develop a proper protocol for safe handling and management of existing mercury devices and possible mercury spills and ensure that mercury does not find its way into the waste stream or environment.
4. Train doctors, nurses and other hospital staff to appreciate the reasons and rationale of the protocol and to abide by it.
5. Encourage mercury use reduction and proper waste management procedures in the dental sector, through voluntary and/or regulatory measures. Measures could include implementation of proper waste management procedures and installing amalgam separators at dental clinics to reduce most of the emissions from wastewater.
6. Ensure that controlled mercury disposal and/or storage facilities are available and maintained for all hospitals and health care facilities.
